BY SHEILA MILLER

LEBANON — For the second time this week, Dale-Pride Boots Ruthie, a 4-year-old Holstein owned and bred by Dale E. Hostetter, Annville, wore a champion's ribbon on her show halter.

Her first pin came during the Eastern Pennsylvania Holstein Show held at Kutztown on Monday — she was selected for reserve grand champion by Judge William Etgen.

Then on Thursday, Judge James Shaw of Oley, Berks County chose this Paclamar Bootmaker daughter for grand champion of the Lebanon Area Fair Open Holstein Show.

With son Alan at halter, Ruthie topped her class before going on to be named senior champion of the show. She also received the second place Best Udder honors.

Ruthie, who's scored EX-90, was the reserve grand champion at the Lebanon show two years ago. And last year she won a blue ribbon in her class of 3-year-olds. As a 2-year-old, this tremendous cow was given honorable mention recognition in the All-Pennsylvania ranking.

Back home on the Hostetter farm in Annville, Ruthie's record as a 2-year-old stands at 22,700 pounds milk. She is one of the family's 85 registered milking Holsteins.

And, Ruthie has some young prospects following in her footsteps. She has a full sister in the yearling barn and another which is still a calf. Unfortunately, says Alan, Ruthie has only produced bull calves. But they haven't given up hope on her yet.

Judge Shaw went to the first place 3-year-old for his reserve senior and reserve grand champion to the delight of 9-year-old David Lentz, the son of Robert and Sandy Lentz, Mount Zion.

Maplebound Farm sweeps Eastern show

BY DONNA TOMMELLEO

KUTZTOWN — Although the program read, Eastern Pennsylvania Championship Holstein Show, by the end of the evening, it could easily have read, The Donald M. Hostetter Championship Show. The Parkesburg dairyman and his family compiled several awards including Grand Champion Female, Premier Exhibitor and Breeder, Produce of Dam, Best Three Females and Dam — Daughter, not to mention individual class ribbons.

Hostetter's aged cow entry, Maplebound Kate Ben Sun bested more than 200 Holsteins and was named Grand Champion Female and Senior Champion.

The 7-year-old cow is sired by a bull that carries the Hostetter prefix, Maplebound Kate Gentle Ben, and out of Car-Mont Happy Sharon.

With more than 30 years of judging experience, show judge William Etgen summed up the event, which kicked off the Annual Kutztown Fair, with a short, accurate reply.

"Super — especially the top end."

Etgen used the words 'tremendous and marvelous' throughout the evening when describing class after class.

"This keeps getting better and better," he proclaimed as the competition shifted from the dry cows to the lactating classes.

Etgen, a dairy science professor at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University at Blacksburg, coaches the University's Dairy Judging Team, which took first place in national competition this year.

His 4-year-old entry, a Bootmaker daughter, was also named Reserve Senior Champion.

ATTENTION HOG PRODUCERS

Beginning Tuesday, July 14th, and for every Tuesday thereafter, Walter M. Dunlap and Sons will conduct a fat hog sale.

This sale will be in addition to the Monday, Wednesday and Saturday sales, thereby giving all hog producers a choice of marketing their hogs any one of four days a week instead of three.

It is important to note that all hogs consigned for Tuesday's market must arrive between 6 A.M. and 9 A.M.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

AUG. 17-23, 1981

As the days shorten, the heat will scorch 'em.

If you put new trees in this spring, water a lot now Lou Gehrig played in 1308th consecutive baseball game Aug 17, 1933 Last quarter of the moon Aug 22 (Sat) Average length of days for the week, 13 hours, 39 minutes Cat nights commence "Mona Lisa" stolen from Louvre Aug 22, 1911 (recovered 1913) Gather thistles, expect prickles

Ask the Old Farmer: My father used to have a breakfast dish he called "tongues and sounds" I have never seen reference to the meal since, and I have no idea why it was so named Do you? D E, New York

It's a meal made up of parts of a codfish that are usually thrown away today The sound is the air bladder, or flotation sac, which is deflated when a fish "sounds" or goes to the bottom You know what the tongue is

Home Hints: To get car grease off your hands, scrub them with baking soda

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECASTS

New England: Clear and hot, then thundershowers and seasonal temperatures from midweek on Greater New York-New Jersey: Sunny and very hot at start, then thundershowers, heavy inland

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Clear and hot through midweek, heavy thundershowers at end

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Week begins sunny, very hot, few sprinkles turn to showers, milder, clearing toward end

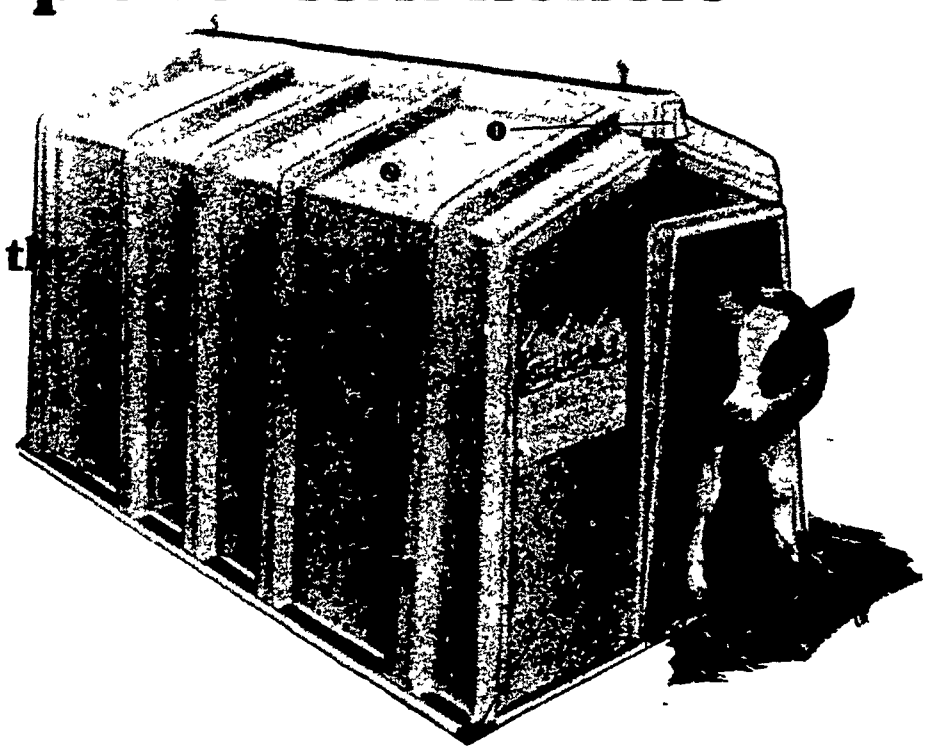
Your best way yet to save & raise healthy replacement heifers

CALF-tel™

Jim Esselmann says "Calf-tel hutches are the best on the market." He knows!



Jim Esselmann knows what he's talking about when he discusses raising calves in hutches He operates a 100-plus dairy herd near West Bend, WI In years past he's expenenced severe heifer calf losses, and of course, some of his best producers

Now, his losses are down to almost zero.

He used to raise his calves in the main barn Then, he installed a liquid manure system and had to move his calf-raising out to avoid the affect of pit gasses That's when he started with hutches He's used several kinds — plywood, chipboard, fiberglass, and now, Calf-tel

"Calf-tel overcame all the problems we'd had with hutches."

❶ Says Jim, "We like the adjustable ridge ventilators front and rear These cool in summer, and in winter we can air out bad odors and dampness that can turn to frost on the walls

❷ "We especially like the hard, tough molded polymer material of which Calf-tel hutches are made This polymer doesn't soften or sag in heat and it doesn't get brittle hard in winter The material remains flexible so it doesn't crack when handled or is accidentally struck by machinery These hutches just look indestructible

Caretaker time-saving, convenience

Jim goes on about "sanitation management"

"Particularly important is the smooth surface inside and out that is so easy to clean and disinfect by hand scrubbing or pressure washer Even the fiberglass huts we've had were rough on one side which made sanitizing difficult and questionable

"One last factor that is important about raising calves in hutches is that the investment per calf is low and these hutches are not taxed as a permanent capital improvement such as would be the case if we built a calf-raising and heifer barn These Calf-tel units should even have good resale value They should almost last forever"

Jim, and son Jeff, have heifer calves worth saving The main herd has a rolling herd average of 17,000 lbs of milk Several cows are producing over 20,000 lbs with the best cow exceeding 25,000 lbs

Jeff just bought a Holstein herd from Pennsylvania — 33 cows milking with an average of 23,000 lbs , plus 25 heifers One cow classified Excellent and 14 were rated Very Good Now, the Esselmanns are milking 143 head They plan to save every heifer calf from their valuable producers with Calf-tel hutches

It's about time

How many times have we heard people say, "There aren't enough hours in the day to get everything done?"

Well, for those people, especially our growing number of part-time farmers who need those extra hours more than their full-time counterparts, this may be a timely-tidbit of news.

There is current legislation in Washington D C. which could possibly extend those light-filled hours of the day.

No, they have not added more hours to our 24-hour day. What's proposed is an extension of the Daylight Savings Time period.

Recently, HR 3952 passed out of the House Energy and Commerce Committee. What this piece of legislation would create is a DST that would extend from the first Sunday in March to the last Sunday in October

This would add about two months of extra daylight hours for farmers in the evenings, even though it would mean mornings would be darker This should not outweigh the benefits of extended evening working hours since it's generally too cool to get out in the fields for work early in the morning And, for the part-time farmer, the mornings mean driving to 'the-other' job, anyway.

Another proposal, Senate Bill 879, shifts the current start of DST from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in March. This proposal would give us a month of extra evening daylight hours

There is yet one other legislative proposal concerning DST S 1151 calls for DST to run from the first Sunday in March and end the first Sunday in November rather than the last Sunday in October — adding one more week to the HR 3952 proposal.

The last two proposals, however, have been postponed.

As we see it, no matter which bill is passed, any extension of the daylight time during the planting and harvest season is a help to the farmer And, since statistics show more and more farmers having to work off the farm and doing the field work in the evenings, this will surely be a welcome change

It is surprising to us then to find the American Farm Bureau Federation has taken a stand against the DST extension proposals As a matter of fact, this farm organization has recommended that Daylight Savings Time be shortened They say that they would like to see it run from Memorial Day to Labor Day

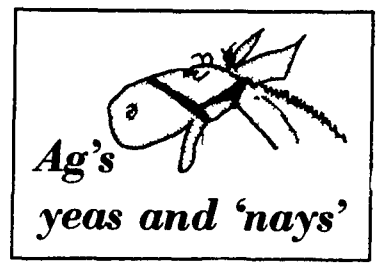
AFB's reasoning behind this recommendation is they "feel there is no major benefit to agriculture in the proposed extension of DST. They say it creates more rural problems with school children waiting for buses in the dark," according to a Pennsylvania Farmers' Association spokesman

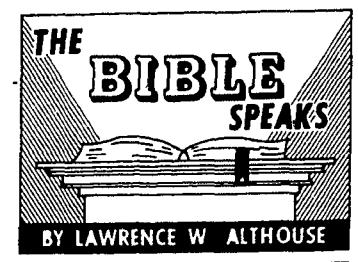
We don't see this as a sound enough reason to hold back on a beneficial change for farmers. The children who wait for school buses have to get through the dark-morning winter months, too.

And, let's face it, children don't walk for miles along highways to wait for the bus as they did a number of years back Most of those kids who have to wait are transported to the bus stop in a car, where they sit in the comfort and safety of the vehicle as opposed to standing out in the weather

Granted, parents will have to stress continuing to be careful on darker mornings But, we don't see where this is a problem.

Giving farmers a few more hours to get the job done is the least our legislators can do to help out the agricultural community. It's about time





THE STEP BEYOND BEING SORRY

August 16, 1981

Background Scripture:
Deuteronomy 29:16-28; 30:1-10
Devotional Reading:
1 Kings 3:5-14.

Earlier this week a young man sat in my study and wept softly as he confessed all the ways in which he had hurt and saddened his parents. "I can't understand how I could have done that to them," he said, tears streaming down his face.

This afternoon his father sat in the very same chair and with tears barely hidden in his eyes he told me that, despite the young man's apologies the evening after his session with me, this morning his son was back into the same destructive pattern, seemingly indifferent to the feelings of those who love him.

Return and Obey

Was it that the son had deceived me? No, I think he was genuinely sorry as he spoke to me. The son cared deeply enough to feel sorry, but not deeply enough to take the next step beyond being sorry. Repentance is more than feeling remorse, it is acting out of our remorse in a positive way that is calculated to keep us from feeling remorse once again over the same cause.

In Moses' final discourse to the people of Israel, he calls them to "return to the Lord your God" (30:2). If we feel sorry for what we have done, there is a sense in which we need to 'come back" or "return" so that we may be forgiven. But repentance calls, not only for a return, but for a positive, obedient course once we have returned. Thus, Moses calls the people to both "return to the Lord" and "obey his voice . . . with all your heart and with all your soul" (30:10).

If we are truly sorry, we will change the course of our lives. We will give up the things that cause us remorse. We will begin to do the things we know God wants of us. "And you shall again obey the voice of the Lord and keep all his commandments which I command you this day" (30:8).

God Will Gather You

I realize it is much easier to say than to do and the fact is that sometimes the sinful, destructive patterns are grooved so deeply into our lives that, despite our genuine remorse, we find ourselves soon slipping back into the old ways. I once watched some scouts construct a rope bridge across a ravine. They began by throwing one single strand of rope across the chasm and then returning it to the other side. Back and forth went the strands until the bridge could bear the weight of many hikers.

Habits are formed the same way—one strand after another is added to the pattern, until at last the pattern is so strong that it has become a part of our lives. But, just as bad habits are formed through repetition, so are good habits to replace bad ones. If we are truly sorry whenever we fail and resolve to change our lives, we can take that extra step beyond being sorry and begin to build a new set of habits that is pleasing in God's sight

OUR READERS WRITE, AND OTHER OPINIONS

Saving time

In the recent issue of "The Voice," published by the Pennsylvania Farmers Association, there was an article on changing Daylight Savings Time to run from Memorial Day to Labor Day. I would like to express my opinion on this subject, plus hear what other farmers have to say on this change.

In response to changing Daylight Savings Time from Memorial Day to Labor for the safety of the school children, I ask: "Why impose this on many part-time farmers who would like very much to be able to get into the fields with at least an hour of daylight?" Remember some of these guys have already put in a full day somewhere else, and fatigue and darkness adds up to a potentially hazardous situation.

Why not ask the local school boards to just start school an hour later?

NOW IS THE TIME

To Plan For Fall Wheat Seeding

The time is fast approaching here for our wheat growers to be making plans for their fall seeding. Some of the local wheat may not be satisfactory due to the wheat scab found in the county this year. If you use local wheat, be sure you know the source and have it cleaned and treated for disease. Also, if you had a scab problem this year, do not plant seed in that same field this fall; the fungus can remain in the soil.

Certified seed would be the best route to take if you experienced any problem with scab or powdery mildew this year. The extra cost for ceritifed seed is well worth it to help insure a good crop next summer.

Plan your seed needs now so you are ready to plant when the conditions are right.

To Check Silo Size

How much silage or high moisture corn must you feed each day to keep ahead of spoilage in the silo? The amount will vary considerably from cold days to hot days. Can your herd consume this much feed? The answer to these questions depends on the diameter of the silo, how well the feed was processed and packed when it was ensiled, herd size, feeding program, season of the year and type of storage structure, according to our Dairy Agent, Glenn Shirk.

If you are ensiling high moisture ground shelled corn in an upright conventional silo, you'll need to remove at least 2 inches of grain a day in warmer weather to keep ahead of spoilage. For a 14 foot silo, that is 1400 pounds or more of corn per day - 24 pounds per cow in a 60-cow herd. If you're ensiling whole shelled corn or ground ear corn, the material does not pack as tightly, and up to 4 inches may have to be removed daily. Four inches of this material in a 4 foot silo is 2456 pounds — 41 pounds per cow in a 60-cow herd! In the latter situation, a 10 foot silo would require 21 pounds of corn be fed. If a limited-oxygen storage unit is used, sizing is less critical. Feeding 2 inches of corn per day year round would require a silo 61 feet tall; 4 inches per day requires a total of 122 feet of silo height.

To Renovate Old Pastures

Late August and early September are good times to establish a new pasture, or renovate an old one. In fact, this is a good time of the year to make any pasture or lawn seeding. The old sod should be destroyed by cultivation or by a herbicide. After the soil has been treated with lime and fertilizer, according to a complete soil test, it can be seeded and should produce good grazing for next summer.

The advantage of a fall seeding is to permit time for the new plants to become established before the 1982 hot weather arrives. The cool, moist fall months should give the plants a good start. The Agronomy Guide lists some good seeding recommendations.

To Plan Herbicide Changes For Next Year

By this time of year, any weed problems in your fields are fairly evident and probably beyond control. But now is a good time to develop an effective program for next year.

The easiest way to check for the effectiveness of different herbicides is to leave a small part of Furadan at seeding time.

For a better stand that can pay back four dollars for every dollar you spend.

That's the kind of stand that gives you a lot more alfalfa.

Based on field tests in Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia, Furadan® insecticide at seeding saved an average of more than ⅓ ton of alfalfa an acre per cutting. That can mean almost $75 an acre more for you per season—figuring alfalfa at $85 a ton.

With Furadan, you protect your new crop from leafhoppers and blotch leafminers. Right from the start.

So if you're out to turn alfalfa into a real money-maker, put down Furadan insecticide at seeding. And see the difference in your yields.

your field untreated. This gives you a chance to tell what weeds were controlled and what ones was missed. However, if you've forgotten to leave a portion of your field unsprayed, you should be able to find spots where the sprayer missed. These will usually be areas near the ends of the field and will serve your purpose quite well.

If several types of weeds seemed to have escaped control, you should check the herbicide container label as to whether the material was designed to eliminate those weeds. If it was not, be sure to include a herbicide to control them in your program for next year.

If your entire weed control program seems to have been ineffective, reread the label to see if you followed the instructions. Just a few simple mistakes during application can result in a complete failure.

Don't be too quick to condemn the herbicide. Either too much or too little rain soon after application can cause a great loss of effectiveness in many herbicides.

"Almost all cows have worms. That's why worming our 18,000 lb herd with TBZ has proved really profitable..."

says Donald Bare, Lancaster, PA

Don Bare milks 60 registered Holsteins at Double Springs Farm in Lancaster, and worms each one with TBZ before she freshens

"High producers need worming as much, or more than, average cows," says Don Bare. "A cow that's capable of doing 80 to 100 pounds a day after freshening is going to be under an awful lot of stress. And if she's stressed by worms, too, there's not much chance she'll give you that kind of production.

"We proved it on our milking line. We didn't know what some of our cows could really do until we began worming with TBZ® before they freshened."

"Amazing heifers..."

"Our first-calf heifers were coming in from 14,000 to 16,000 lb before we began worming. Now many of our heifers are doing 18,000 and up. People are amazed when we tell them how much they milk. Worming doesn't do it all, of course, but we're sure it helps."

"TBZ...simple program"

"TBZ gives us the simplest worming program on the market. We worm just one time per lactation - before freshening. We just put pellets with TBZ in front of them, on the grain, and they eat it right up.

"All in all, TBZ has proved really profitable.

"Our records show it pays off."

State's fieldwork continues to progress

HARRISBURG — Showers and thunderstorms across the state during the week ending August 10 limited farm field work activities to four days, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service.

Field activities for the week included harvesting vegetables, apples, peaches and small grains; digging early potatoes, making hay, baling straw, spraying potatoes, topping tobacco, clipping pastures, and plowing.

The harvesting of sweet corn, cabbage, snapbeans, cantaloupes, potatoes, cucumbers and tomatoes also continues throughout the state. The apple and peach harvest continues in Pennsylvania with some brown rot reported in southern orchards. All three regions reported some problems with tomato fungal diseases.

The potato harvest in the state is reported slightly ahead of last year with 13 percent of the crop harvested The southern, central and northern areas reported potatoes 16, 14 and five percent harvested, respectively. Heavy infestations of Colorado potato beetles and potato leaf hoppers were reported in the areas.

Topsoil moisture in the state was judged mostly adequate with some short and surplus areas reported. The north rated moisture supplies 86 percent adequate and 14 percent short, the central region rated topsoil moisture 79 percent adequate, 14 percent short and seven percent surplus, and the south rated topsoil moisture 77 percent adequate and 23 percent short.

Pennsylvania's 1981 corn crop is 58 percent silked and 22 percent in the dough stage In the north, 50 percent of the crop was reported silked and 27 percent in the dough stage. The central region corn 60 percent silked and 18 percent in the dough stage, while the south reported 62 percent silked and 22 percent in the dough stage.

The barley harvest is virtually complete throughout Pennsylvania, about a week behind last year.

Although the weather was less than ideal, the wheat harvest in Pennsylvania was reported as 91 percent complete, about the same as last year at this time. The southern and central region farmers report harvest virtually complete while northern growers report the crop 78 percent harvested. There were again scattered reports of decreased yields due to wheat scab and powdery mildew.

The oat crop in the state is 67 percent harvested, slightly behind last year. Southern growers report oat harvest virtually complete, while central area growers report the harvest 74 percent complete and northern growers report the harvest 45 percent complete. Good yields are reported despite some lodging.

Fall plowing was reported at five percent complete statewide, compared to 12 percent complete at this time last year. The southern, central and northern regions reported fall plowing to be eight, seven and one percent complete, respectively.

Statewide second cutting alfalfa harvest was reported to be 71 percent complete, compared to 76 percent last year at this time. The harvest is virtually complete in the south while central and northern regions report the harvest 75 and 57 percent complete, respectively. The third cutting of alfalfa is 15 percent harvested, statewide, compared to 20 percent last year.

Clover-timothy stands in Pennsylvania are 44 percent harvested, about the same as last year. The northern, central and southern regions report clover-timothy stands 38, 43 and 55 percent harvested, respectively.

Hay made during the week was rated mostly fair to good quality statewide. Feed from pasture was rated mostly average to below average for the state. The south rated pastures 58 percent average, 33 percent below average and nine percent above average. The central region rated pastures 62 percent average, 23 percent below average, and 16 percent above average. The north rated pastures 65 percent average, 25 percent above average and ten percent below average.

Transmissions That Get The Job Done

The Allison HT 740 and HT 754 offered in Steiger Panther PTA Series tractors from 295-350 Horsepower, offer these unique features for performance and profitability

- Provides eight or ten ideal field and transport speeds when combined with Steiger's two-speed power divider
- Converter and automatic lock-up positions in each of the forward ranges. Converter permits tractor to start off with implement in the ground. Lock-up provides maximum efficiency in engine operating range
- Fully automatic upshifting and downshifting in all forward ranges under full throttle and full load, as drawbar requirements dictate.
- Driveline repairs are significantly reduced
- No downtime due to mechanical clutch replacement and repair.
- Ease of operation reduces fatigue and improves driver efficiency and comfort.
- Smooth transmission of power extends driveline life by reducing harmful shock loading

Mountain of melons moves to market

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

BLUE BALL — A mountain of melons has moved out of Eastern Lancaster County to big-city markets this year.

By the time the season ends in a week or so, approximately 450,000 cantaloupes and watermelons will have been direct marketed by the Conestoga Valley Growers to Acme and other supermarket chains in Philadelphia, Baltimore and Scranton.

It marks the first time that local growers have banded together to market their melon crop directly to central metropolitan markets without involving a "middle man."

"It's taken three years to put this program together," explains Lester W. Martin, R2 East Earl, on whose property along Rt. 322 east of Blue Ball is located a new distribution shed in which the melons are received from growers and loaded into trailers for the hauls to the city markets.

"Being our first year, we've had some problems with the growers understanding the market situation and the markets understanding the grower's situation.

"But the fresh fruit and vegetable market is unique. You must work with what you have."

The Conestoga Valley Growers is comprised of about 40 growers raising cantaloupes, eight with cauliflower and about five with watermelons.

The Board of Directors includes 10 growers and seven representatives of the markets they serve. A single price for the produce is set by the board and then held for the entire season.

"Previously, you had farmers getting one price at the beginning of the season and then throwing a couple thousand over the back fence at the peak of the season," Martin explained.

Some fall greens may also be marketed through the Growers' group.

Last weekend was the peak of the cantaloupe season when 15 tractor trailer loads were shipped from the Blue Ball distribution shed. Each trailer holds 7600 to 8000 melons.

On Wednedsday, the 50th trailer load was loaded at the shed.

Melons picked in the early morning arrive at the shed in many ways – smaller truck, tractor and wagon and horse and wagon.

Entire families, from youngsters on up, help unload the fragile fruit into palleted bulk melon crates. These are loaded into the refrigerated trailers by forklift.

The direct marketing effort, according to Martin, is an attempt to help area farmers keep abreast of changing agricultural economics.

"We must be able to get the most income off each acre," Martin said.

"We need a cash crop, such as melons, because the income is just no longer there from red meat alone.

"This was our first time and we were able to keep our heads above water,

"We'll grow with the situation and learn each year from our mistakes.

"We're learning what we can and can't do in working with central markets."

Eventually, in a few years, the group may work toward a hydracool facility, which would prepare fruit and vegetables and provide time for shipment. But such a facility would cost about $100,000.

As with many crops in 1981, this was a unique season for the cantaloupes.

"I was talking to one grower," Martin said, "and this is the first time he's seen such a season in the past 15 or so."

The melon season after transplant started off dry in June. Then, the big July 4 holiday rains arrived.

The melons exploded into growth and were really pushed. Then, they entered a starvation stage. The larger melons on the vine started robbing what moisture there was from the smaller.

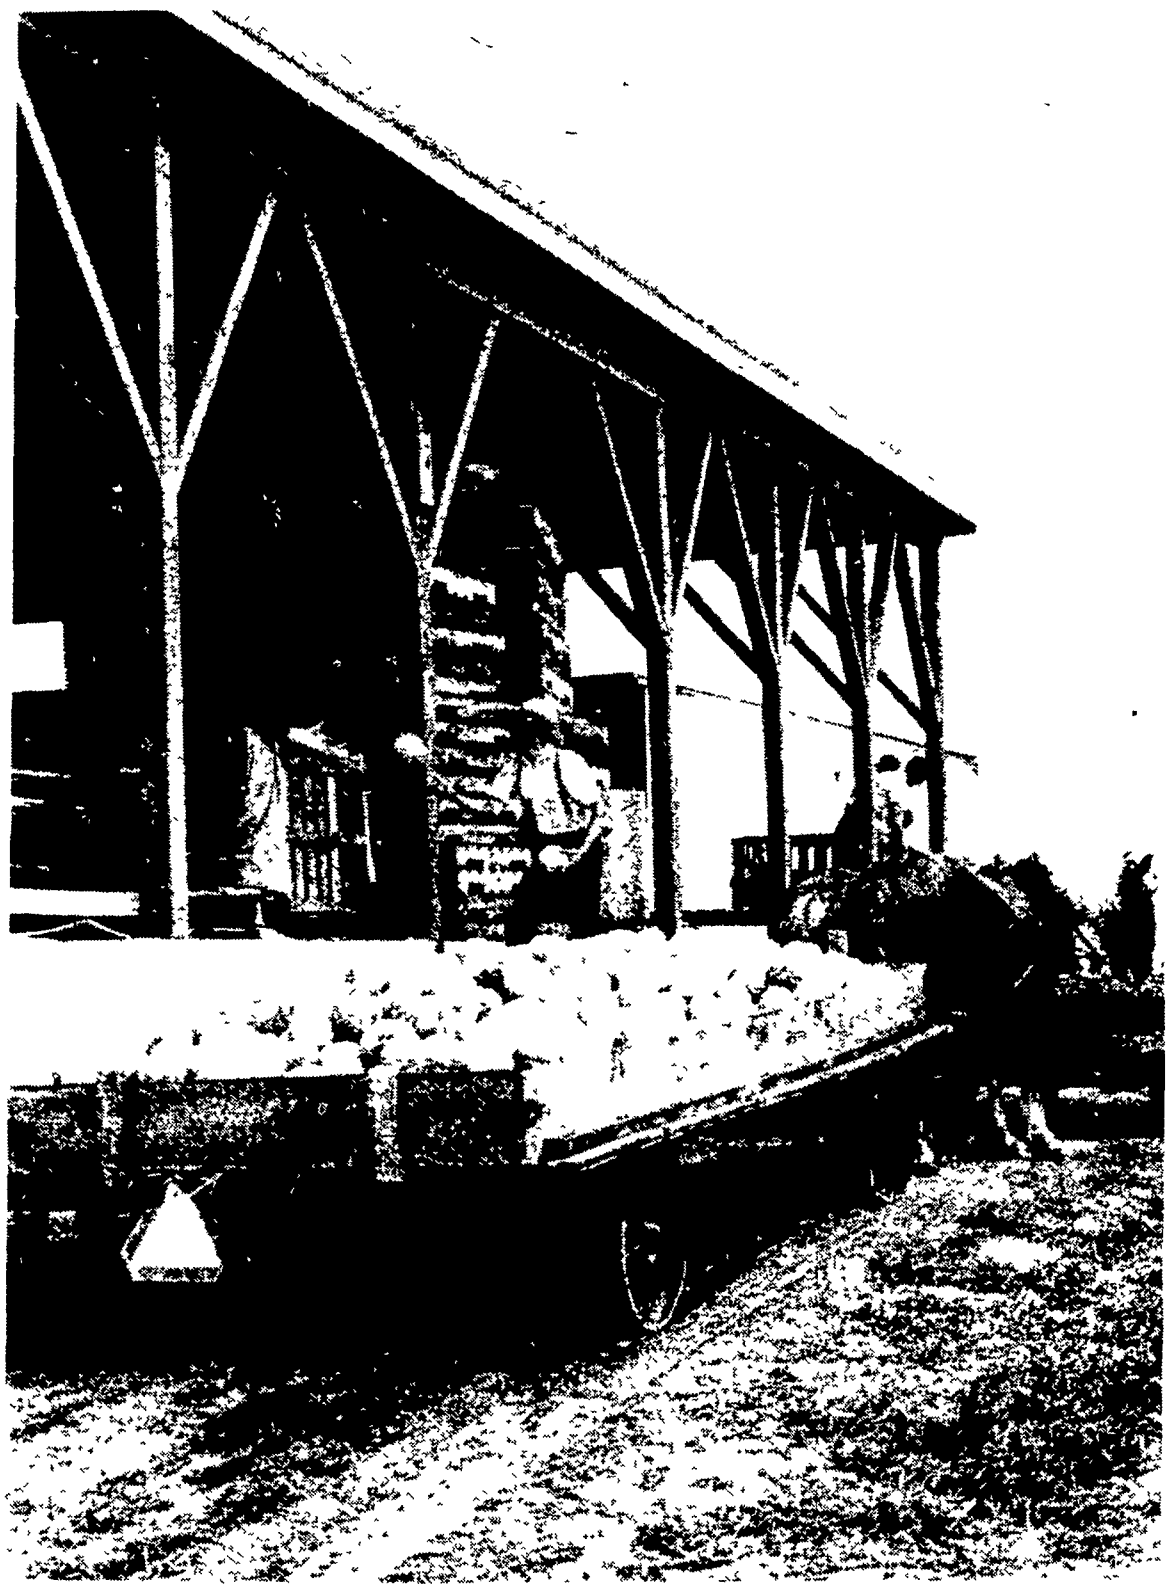
The ends got soft and fruit turned yellow in the field. And then, growers couldn't keep up with the ripening.

"In my own field," Martin explained, "production is down about one-third. They peaked so quickly we couldn't pick them fast enough."

Average yield of cantaloupes is about 7,000 to the acre. Martin estimates he got about 3500. Some growers got worse and some better than that.

In this first year, donated labor has played a large role in the marketing program. The shed was constructed with volunteer labor and the processing of the melons is done in much the same way.

And if this marketing trend continues, as it is expected to, Acme will need to expand its "Lancaster Brand" from its meats to the produce section.



Load of cantaloupes arrives by horse-drawn wagon at distribution shed along Rt. 322 east of Blue Ball and unloading into melon crates begins. Cantaloupes are transferred to tractor trailers, in background, for trip to big-city supermarkets.

Children of Amos Martin, Blue Ball, help unload another load of cantaloupes for shipment to metropolitan supermarkets.

Lester W. Martin, foreground, checks in crate load of cantaloupes; while Nevin Martin on forklift prepares to move it to waiting tractor trailer truck.

Penn Ag Democrats to meet

NEW ALEXANDRIA — A newly-formed, statewide political action committee— the Penn Ag Democrats—will kick off their first membership campaign during Penn State's Ag Progress Days.

Honorable K. Leroy Irvis, State House Minority Leader, will keynote a luncheon for all interested members of the farm community, Wednesday, August 26 at the Fargus Township Lion's Club, Pine Grove Mills.

Boyd Wolff, R2, New Alexandria, chairman of the Penn Ag Democrats, said buses will take Ag Progress visitors to and from the luncheon. Buses will depart for the luncheon at 1 p.m. from the north end of Ag Progress Days' Main Street.

Cost of the luncheon and transportation is $6.50 per person.

Tickets can be obtained from the following committee members: 1. Boyd Wolff, R2 New Alexandria, PA 15670, 412/668-2843; 2. Chris Wolff, R2 Millville, PA 17846, 717/458-6636; 3. Melon mountain

Numerous roadside stands are still found along Rt. 322 between Hinkletown and Blue Ball selling their own small mountains of melons. Here, two young ladies play "catch" and unload a wagon.

ORTHO DIQUAT CLEARED AS A POTATO VINE KILLER.

This is news any potato grower will welcome. ORTHO Diquat 2 Spray or ORTHO Diquat Water Weed Killer makes the ideal harvest aid. It allows you to schedule an earlier than usual harvest and probably get a better price for your potatoes.

Diquat works even in cool weather. It desiccates the vines and kills the weeds to make a faster, easier harvest and reduce wear and tear on your harvest equipment.

Diquat is competitively priced with other harvest aid chemicals, and it will not stain application equipment.

Talk to your farm chemical dealer today about Diquat for a faster, easier potato harvest.

Penstate Ivanhoe Star daughter, was also selected as the Best Udder entry.

Nelson Bomgardner, Ono, showed the junior champion Holstein, a homebred senior yearling heifer, Loving-Meadows Misty. Misty is the daughter of an ET bull, Browndale Convincer out of Loving-Meadows Hagen Molly.

The reserve junior champion was exhibited by the Hubert S. Miller Estate, Myerstown. Lime-Rock Peter Paul Jewel, a homebred senior calf, is a Lime-Rock Peter Paul daughter out of Lime-Rock Knight Jewel.

The heifer and five other blue ribbons helped earn the Hubert S. Miller Estate the distinction of Premier Breeder and Exhibitor of this year's fair.

Roy Miller, who operates the farm since Hubert died two years ago, says he won both of these honors at a previous Lebanon fair — "but that was quite some time ago."

He noted that some of the 18 head he showed this year have family lines that go back 20 years, to the great-great-granddam, with predominant sires being Ivanhoe, Reformer, and Astronaut. Miller took top placings in both the Produce of Dam and Dam and Daughter classes.

Roy's nephew, Carl Weaver,

Myerstown, exhibited the grand champion Holstein bull. Lime-Rock Jemini Jake is the junior yearling son of Shardale Arlinda Chief Jemini, out of Shul-Bro Elevation Pam.

The reserve grand champion bull was the entry of Kenneth I. Sellers, Lebanon — the first place bull calf, Gem-Rock Bootmaker Hal, a Paclamar Bootmaker son. Sellers also had the top two placings in the 100,000 Pound Class.

The colored breed show ran simultaneously with the Holstein Show with Judge Lee Yost, Mechanicsburg, rendering the decisions.

Following a family tradition, Dale Maulfair and family tied up both the grand and reserve grand championships in the Ayrshire Show. He also swept the group classes, taking first in Senior Get of Sire, Best 3 Females, Dairy Herd, and Dam and Daughter.

For senior and grand champion, Judge Yost selected Maulfair's 4-year-old entry, Cove Creek Boy's Deb. Bred by Suzanne K. Diehl, Bedford, Deb is the daughter of Cove Creek Flashy Boy out of Cove Creek Jack's Debbie. She was given the second place honors for Best Udder. Showing the grand champion was 4-year-old Dale Maulfair, Jr. — the youngest showman in the ring.

The Best Udder honors went to the reserve senior and reserve grand champion, Maulfair Acres Hi Kick Pepper. This first place aged cow is the daughter of Mar-Ral Hi Kick out of Masonic Homes S.M. Princess.

Maulfair exhibited the junior champion Ayrshire, a senior yearling called Maulfair Acres Jewel Dana. The reserve junior champion, a junior heifer calf, was exhibited by Pattie Maulfair.

In the Brown Swiss Show, Gary Mase's junior 2-year-old was selected as grand champion for the second time this week — the first grand came during the FFA Dairy Show on Tuesday. Amy Maruader Annie was selected as first place Best Udder in the Open Show.

Another second round champ was Patti Heilinger's Marty L. Princess who was the grand champion of the 4-H Show. She was the second place Best udder and reserve grand Brown Swiss.

Mase also had the junior and reserve junior champions of the Brown Swiss Show — Meadow Hill King Amber and Witla Nobleman Tonya.

In the Guernsey Show, Lebanon Valley Farms, Annville, showed the senior and grand champion cow, Lebanon Valley Tex Lena, a senior 2-year-old. She was selected as first place Best Udder.

Judge Yost followed for reserve senior and reserve grand champion with the 4-year-old entry of Ruben Houser, Lebanon. Leader Jason Rhonda, the second place Best Udder, was purchased by Houser at the Leader Farms Dispersal, New Freedom.

The reserve junior champion was Faith SLH Flower Premier, shown by Susan Heilinger, Newmanstown. This junior heifer calf was the reserve grand champion of the FFA Show.

Marilyn Deaven's grand champion Jersey also wore the purple rosette for the second time this week. Faithful Pacesetter Lassie 2 was the grand champ at the earlier FFA Show. She was selected as first place Best Udder. Marilyn also showed the junior champion Jersey, the first place senior yearling, Mar-De Supreme Marcy.

Donald Bomberger, Annville, exhibited the reserve grand champion, an aged cow called Kelly Advancer Lady Calico. This was the first time Calico was shown in her productive life. Bomberger also exhibited the reserve junior champion, Sleepers Blanton Katakat, the second place senior yearling.

York 4-H dairy roundup announces winners

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

YORK — Thursday was a full day for York County 4-H dairy exhibitors, with their annual roundup staged at the York Fairgrounds.

Over one hundred animals paraded before type judge Thomas Dum III, of Landisburg, and fitting-showmanship official Bob Eckstine of Clearsprings, Maryland.

As dozens of mostly red and blue ribbons were awarded, several repeat winners and a few newcomers to the showring scene were pulled out to receive top honors in five separate breed categories.

Guernseys headed up the parade of dairy entries, with the top spot going to Todd Rutter's three-year-old "Rutter Bros. Nelsons Eager," taking both senior and grand champion ribbons.

Reserve grand champion was the senior yearling junior champion entry shown by Larry Amspacher. Reserve senior and junior champions went to Brian Lehman's four-year entry, and his intermediate calf.

"Ann-Ayr Fortune Strawberry," a three-year-old, won the senior and grand championship of the Ayrshire division for Scott Cooper.

Evelyn Lehman's senior calf won the junior championship and the reserve grand placing, while Barry Lehman took the reserve junior honors with his senior yearling entry.

Dairy fitters and showmen capture top honors

YORK — After the type judge had made his placings in all the breed categories, it was time for York 4-H roundup exhibitors to head back into the ring for scoring of a different sort.

Rough shoulders on a heifer, or a bulging udder on the cow, became irrelevant when fitting-showmanship judge Bob Eckstine, of Clearsprings, Maryland, studied each entry. What counted this time was clean feet, unwaxy ears and a spotless, shiny coat of hair, or the exhibitors ability to handle, and show off, his entry in the most correct way.

Fitting competition came first, divided into three age groups for judging.

Taking top place in the junior age, 8 to 11, group was Jeremy Weaver. Second was Bridgette Boyer and Tom Stein was third. Wendy Amspacher went to the head of the intermediate group, ages 12 to 14, with Mike Welsh in second and Lesley King in third. Senior honors went to Heidi Von Lange, while Kelly Krebs was second and Todd Warner placed third.

Then it was time to forget the animals and judge the youth on the halters and how well they responded to the judge and to maneuvering their entries in a showring situation.

Bridgette Boyer topped the junior age grouping, followed by Downa Doll and Angela Cooper Capturing the showmanship intermediate award was Dana Doll, with Jana Beth Fantom, second, and Scott Cooper in third. Senior honors went to Kelly Krebs, first, Barb Kilgore, second and Heidi Von Lange in third.

Economic Recovery Tax Act to save farmers dollars

BY DEBBIE KOONTZ

LANCASTER — Last week President Reagan signed the Economic Recovery Tax Act, and Lancaster Farming reported an overview on the Act as it will affect farmers.

With more information and some predictions available at this time, we'd like to summarize last week's report and delve into the savings you as farmers can expect from the Act.

Perhaps the biggest savings for the farm will be the possibility for couples to leave estates worth 1.2 million dollars tax free to heirs and not have federal tax to pay. An entire estate can be given to a survivor with no federal death tax due for surviving spouses of decedants who die after this year.

An estate of up to $600,000 can be left at death with no federal tax by the mid 1980's. It starts rising gradually next year, moving from $175,000 to $225,000.

Also, for decedants to use lower value rules on estates for farms, the decendant needn't have been as active in management operations as was previously necessary.

This is retroactive to estates of people who died in 1977 or later.

But how about some history on estate tax to give us some perspective on the situation:

Senator Roger Jepsen reports in his bi-monthly agricultural commentary that the estate tax was passed back in 1916 with two goals in mind — to pay for World War I and to end any chance that pockets of wealth would form in this country.

He says, "The arguments for appeal (against this early estate act) are just as clear cut. First, the estate tax brings in an insignificant amount of money — just about one and a half percent of federal revenues in 1980. Second, the tax has proven to be an intolerable burden on farmers and small businessmen — the middle class — the backbone of this country and the people who can least afford to pay it."

"Ironically, the very rich, the people who were supposed to be affected by the estate tax, were able to avoid (paying) it through careful planning," Jepsen said.

So in effect we had two estate taxes. A light one for the rich who can afford to plan ahead and a confiscatory one for everyone else — an estate tax which forces the heirs to sell the farm or the business just to pay the bill, Jepsen reports.

The Tax Act also changes social security benefits in that benefits can be received by the owner, and his property can still qualify for a reduced valuation tax break — if he was active in the operation for 5 of the 8 years before the time the benefits began.

Also, major shifts in tax policy are stated in provisions reducing the tax rate on capital gains from 28 percent to 20 percent and on unearned income, from 70 percent to 50 percent.

In a recently published booklet by Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co. the international accounting firm, the gift tax change is summed up as so: "The most significant change in gift taxes is the increase in the annual gift tax exclusion from $3000 to $10,000. The gift tax is generally computed by applying the rate schedule to cumulative taxable transfers made during the donor's lifetime and subtracting any gift taxes payable on previous gifts. The tax is then further reduced by a unified credit to the extent still available. The estate tax is an extension of the gift tax and is computed similarly and is changed as stated above.

Under the 10-5-3 accelerated depreciation system, useful lives of equipment, buildings, property and machinery will be shortened for tax purposes. The changes in depreciation rules are retroactive to January 1, 1981. Any assets placed into service after 1980 will come under the new Act.

General-purpose buildings can now be written off in 15 years.

Reagan's new five-year plan covers large trucks, machinery including farm tractors,and one purpose agricultural buildings. These 5-year assets qualify for a 10 percent investment credit. You can take 15 percent in the first year, 22 percent in the second and 21 percent in the remaining three years.

Under the three-year category will fall highway tractors, light-duty trucks, breeding animals and machinery and equipment used for development.

The Washington Newsletter reports that through 1986, the tax cuts will amount to $732.9 billion, about equal to the entire present federal budget.

Kutztown Fair names lamb show winners

BY LAUREL SCHAEFFER

KUTZTOWN — An eighty-six pound Hampshire crossbred lamb, shown by Lisa Bube, Robesonia, received Grand Champion honors Tuesday evening at the Kutztown Fair Market Lamb Show.

This lamb was described by judge Henry Gruber, of A and B Packing, Allentown, as being very uniform, balanced and clean. Named earlier in the evening as Mediumweight Champion, Bube's lamb was chosen above the lightweight champ shown by Ruth Grim, Breiningsville, and the heavyweight champion shown by Joshua Grim, her brother.

Lisa is a 17-year-old graduate of Conrad Weiser High School, now working as a secretary. This is her second year for showing sheep in 4-H. Lisa also has two younger brothers showing sheep, Fred and Todd, who didn't fare as well as their sister in this year's show. The Bube's maintain a flock of about 30 sheep at home.

Reserve Grand Champion of the 71 lambs entered in the show was awarded to the heavyweight champion, a Suffolk weighing in at 115 pounds, shown by Joshua Grim, 14. The lightweight champion was a Dorset/Suffolk cross weighing 72 pounds.

Following are the results:

Kutztown Fair breaks records

BY LAUREL SCHAEFFER
Staff Correspondent

KUTZTOWN — The sheep shows at the 1981 Kutztown Fair experienced the largest number of entries in recent history. A total of 199 sheep were entered in various classes causing a mild havoc for the livestock superintendents.

As a result, show schedules were changed to fit the sheep influx which were judged Tuesday so they could be released that evening to let room for hogs and beef scheduled for arrival Wednesday morning.

Sheep showmanship and fitting was judged during the day Tuesday before market lamb classes, getting the 4-H'ers in top exhibition form.

Following are the results:

US-USSR agree on one-year grain agreement extention

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block said he is "very pleased" with last Wednesday's announcement that U.S. and USSR negotiators have agreed on a one-year extension to the current Long Term Grains Agreement between the two nations.

The announcement was made in Vienna, Austria by U.S. Trade Representative William Brock, who just concluded three days of discussions with representatives of the Soviet Union. It was also agreed that the two nations would begin detailed and in-depth examination of a new Long Term Grains Agreement. The next session of talks is planned for later this fall.

"I am very pleased that we have been able to re-establish this trade relationship on wheat and corn," Block said. "I am equally pleased that we now have a mechanism for future talks. I also want to compliment Ambassador Brock for the excellent effort he has put forth in Vienna."

The current Long Term Agreement was scheduled to end September 30. No changes will be made in that agreement, except that the expiration date has been extended to September 30, 1982.

Lebanon Fair crowns champion chickens

Charles R. Peters delicately holds his champion bantam, a Red Old English game pullet. Peters keeps about 300 game birds on his small farm near Jonestown. Of the 60 entries he had at this year's fair, he proudly reports he won 34 blues, 16 reds, 4 whites, 3 yellows, 25 greens; only one poor sole is returning home ribbonless. The reserve champion bantam is the Single-comb Rhode Island Red hen shown by Ben Maurer, Lebanon.

Elias Adams, Jr., Lebanon, holds his champion large fowl — a Black Langshan cock. Along with his 12 pound champ, Adams showed 44 other exhibition birds and received 45 blue ribbons. He raises the birds (250 at last count) on his father's farm, a hobby he started as a child. The reserve champion large fowl was won by Behney and Miller, Myerstown with their Light Brahma hen.

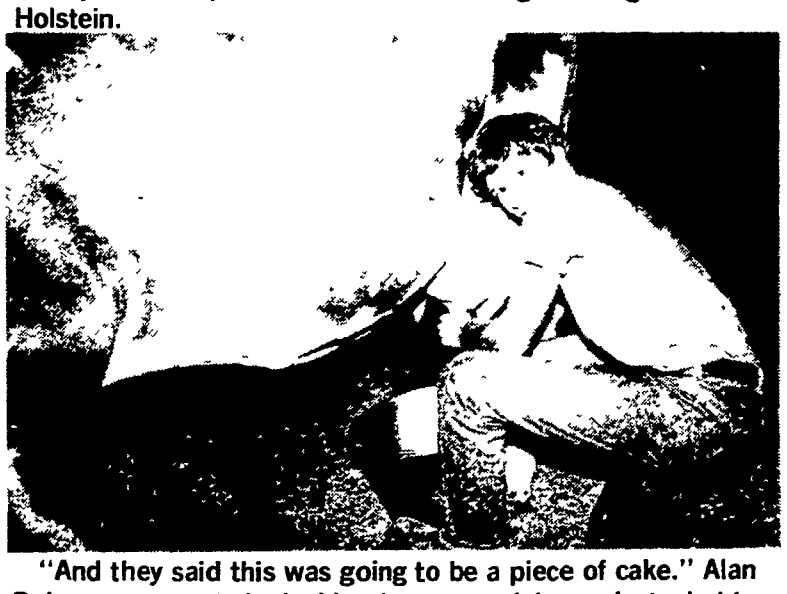
Lebanon's is farmers' fun fair

Ready to run — Dale Balmer demonstrations the two-finger style of milking, with a stance that keeps him well out of range of a well-aimed foot.

Troy Bucher puts his mind to milking this high volume Holstein.



"And they said this was going to be a piece of cake." Alan Balmer appears to be looking for some advice on just what to do next.

LEBANON — Although there is a lot of serious competition between farmers during the Lebanon Area Fair — who has the best hay, corn, cows, hogs, goats, lambs, and steers — there is always time for fun.

At this year's Fun Night, held Tuesday evening in between the raindrops, farmers could match their skills and 'show off' for a crowd of admiring city cousins on just how a good Lebanon County farmer can hoist a straw bale, spit tobacco, milk a cow, dress a calf, and haul a load in a wheel barrow.

The kids got the first crack at the fun, to the delight of farmers and spectators, alike, as they tugged and pulled an array of costumes over the spindly, uncooperative joints and limbs of bewildered dairy calves. Winning the event by crowd consensus in the 8-12 age group were Kathy Mase and Andrea Wampler of Lebanon. Although their calf spent most of its time on the ground, the girls struggled to outfit it in a cheerleaders costume, complete with pom poms.

Lebanon County's dairy princess, Joanne Weidman, Lebanon and partner Theresa Tyson, Palmyra, captured the crowd's enthusiastic approval for their comical clown calf. The calf's outfit was perfection — from the tip of its hat to its floppy shoes. The dairy princess created the 'calf original'.

Others competing in the calf dressing contest included: Laura Harding and Krista Hetrick; Wesley Harding and Matthew Hetrick; and Marlin and Marilyn Deaven.

As the calves exited the dairy tent for the safety of the barns, four unsuspecting dairy cows were led into the midst of hundreds of spectators for the grueling hand milking contest. Little did they know they were in for an old-fashioned tug 'o war.

Youngsters and older folks who probably should have known better took up their pails to test their manual dexterity against the clock and the ever-challenging power to 'let-or-not-let down' that is the whim of every dairy cow.

In a sheer display of skill, Bob Bomberger captured the blue ribbon in the 18 & Under contest, followed by Troy Bucher, Brian Adley, Allen Balmer, and Tony Bucher.

For those in the 19 & Older division, there was an obvious line of demarcation between the trained and untrained hand. Taking first place with the most milk in the pail was Luke Hagy, followed by Ruben Houser, Connie Hoffer, Ernest Koons, and 'Skillful' Miller.

Even before all the ribbons were handed out, farmers and spectators headed over for the unrivaled event, the tobacco spitting contest where some of the counties best showed just how far and how accurately they could project a streak (but usually spray) of brown juice. This wasn't a contest for the spectator with a weak stomach.

In the end, the Lebanon County chewers were bested by a neighboring Lancaster County chewer

(Turn to Page A33)

"Oh, what those two-legged creatures won't do for a good laugh. Dressing me up in this crazy clown costume is the craziest thing Joanne, who represents me as a princess, has done, yet."

"Now what's Theresa looking for? Uh oh — she's going for those rings of plastic. They wouldn't dare."

"Why would anyone want to hide this adorable face underneath all that stuff? I guess it's all part of being a clown. Just so this doesn't get back to my barn pals. I'll be glad when Joanne's reign is over or I grow up, whichever comes first."

Ed Kegereis of R2 Myerstown won the title of champion bale thrower of the Lebanon Fair for the second consecutive year.

Fun Night

named Ed Kopp. This resident of Manheim says he started chewing in 1976, the year of the bicentennial. Winning tobacco spitting contests is not the way he makes his living, however — he's an electrician. So far this year, he's entered three spitting contests — his record stands at two wins and a third.

For the second year in a row, Ed Kegareis, R2 Myerstown, took home the Champion Bale Thrower's trophy — beating more than 25 other bale heavers.

Maneuvering through an obstacle course in a timed event is tough enough without a load to push. But, at Lebanon, tough is not enough — so in the wheel barrow contest, each run is made with a team mate 'balancing' inside. This year, two teams tied for first place — both from Lebanon. They were Steve Hitz and Cindy Shenk, and Leon and Donna Zeigler.

All the participants left the Farmers' Fun Night a little more tired than when they arrived, but they couldn't have gone home hungry — not with all that fabulous fair food that could make even the losers feel like winners.

The crowd watches with spell-bound fascination as Lancaster Countian Ed Kopp demonstrates his champion form in the second round of the tobacco spitting contest.

"Concentration — now if I could only hit the bucket," seems to be what's going through Tony Buchers mind during the hand-milking contest.

Kathy Mase and Andrea Wampler were the crowd's favorites in the 8-12 Calf Dressing Contest. Their Holstein heifer seems pleased about her new image as a cheerleader.

This spring Connie Ohlinger, 16, Mohrsville, traded a saddle for this heifer and at the Eastern show, Monday evening, found the swap paid off. Judge William Etgen selected Reu-Hel Farms Milestone Susie as Junior Champion. Connie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Ohlinger.

Eastern show

If Connie Ohlinger,16, Mohrsville, hadn't traded her saddle for her sister Cathie's heifer this spring, she may have been watching the junior animal competition from the sidelines.

However, Ohlinger found herself in the spotlight when the object of the swap, Reu-Hel Farms Milestone Susie, was named Junior Champion.

Judge Etgen chose Todd Reed's Intermediate heifer, Vern-Lee Ingrid Lisa, as Reserve Junior Champion. Reed, 18, is an FFA member from Reinholds.

Pennwood RS Jupiter, a Senior Yearling Bull topped a field of eight other bulls and was selected as Grand Champion Bull. The Spring Farm Rising Star son is owned and bred by Show Chairman Harvey W. Stoltzfus, Morgantown.

A Tamalane son, S-Pine-Lawn Tamalane, captured Reserve Champion Bull. The Junior Yearling is owned by Harold and George Schuler, Fleetwood.

The smell of french fries and grilled sausages hung in the air as Kutztown fair-goers got a chance to see some of Eastern Pennsylvania's top Black and Whites. The results from the Championship Show follow.

(Turn to Page A37)

Whoever first coined the expression, "Curiosity killed the cat," probably never met a young dairy animal. With the Junior classes ended, these young Holsteins appear to fancy watching than being watched.

Donald M. Hostetter, Parkesburg, displays his top entry, Grand Champion Maplebound Gentle Ben Sun. The 7-year-old cow topped a field of more than 200 entries and was also named Senior Champion.

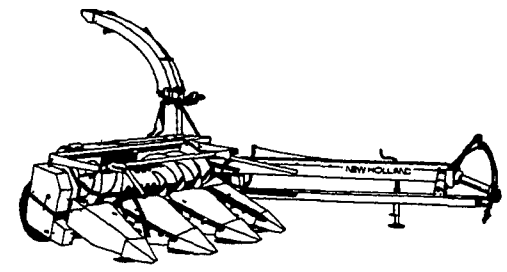
There's nothing like a Twin Rotor™ combine from Sperry New Holland. For good reason. The dual-rotor threshing is patented so others can't duplicate it. Come in soon and let us tell you about this exciting advance in combining. There are three models to choose from. And be sure to ask us about the completely new line of Sperry New Holland corn heads, flexible cutterbar soybean headers and rigid cutterbar grain heads.

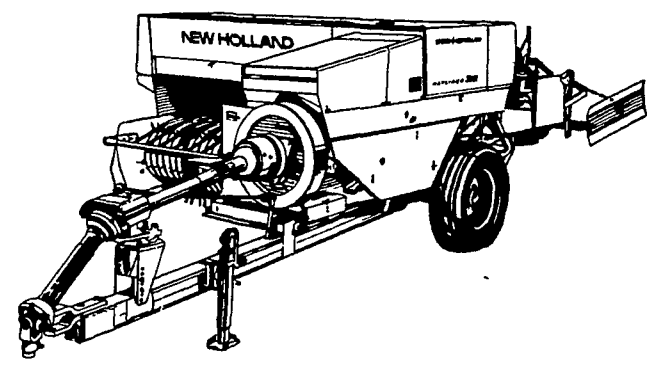
The Model 892 is the biggest capacity pull-type forage harvester offered by Sperry New Holland Built for big tractor horsepower, the "892" will power through the driveline, and be used with tractors up to 175 horsepower

The optional electronic metal detector — a Sperry New Holland exclusive — reduces harvester damage and can cut down on hardware disease The "892" is available with 12-knife or 8-knife cutterhead Exclusive underbeveled knives never need rebeveling and make knife sharpening fast and easy Flip-up feedroll makes shearbar adjustment easy



There s a big choice of crop heads, including the exclusive interchangeable 3-row crop head/windrow pickup, 2-row low-profile crop head, conventional windrow pickup, sicklebar and ear-corn snapping heads Under-knife baffles increase capacity

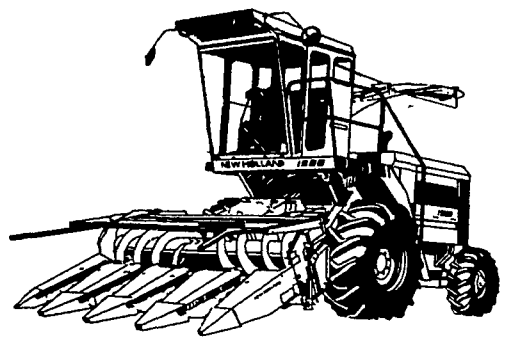
Like all Sperry New Holland machines, the "892" is backed by a service and parts system that s second to none



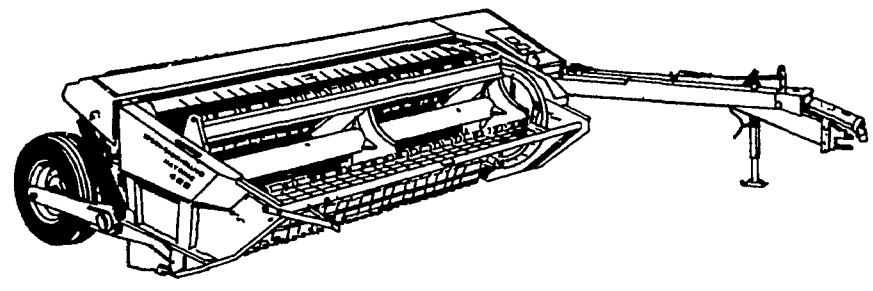
Stop in and get a great deal on the Sperry New Holland Model 315 baler This 14" x 18" baler is built extra rugged to handle tough crops It's designed to work hard and give years of dependable service

Now's the time to buy because we're moving our complete stock of hay tools

Already have a new baler? Then stop in, and see our Sperry New Holland automatic bale wagons and mower-conditioners. They're priced to sell, too!



The 250-hp Model 1900 chopper features an exclusive electronic metal detector that reduces harvester damage, and helps cut down on hardware disease. Exclusive underbeveled knives never need rebeveling. Exclusive flip-up feedrolls make shearbar adjustment easy. Exclusive interchangeable cropheads — ideal for the farmer/rancher who chops both windrowed crops and row crops. Plus a big choice of other crop heads. Under-knife baffles increase capacity.



Full-width conditioning rolls in the Model 489 Haybine® mower-conditioner are located in the main frame, not the header. The lighter header responds quicker to ground contours and greatly reduces knife and guard damage. The "489" is designed for operators who demand the very best.

Butler County hosts Championship Holstein show

BUTLER — A 7-year-old cow, jointly owned by two Western Pennsylvania farmers, topped a field of more than 200 entries and was named Grand Champion Holstein at the Western Pa. Championship Holstein Show last Saturday at the Butler Farm Show Grounds.

Parkacres Sun Ivy, the aged cow entry of Edward Doeberiener, Jamestown and John Park, Brookville, also took home Senior Champion honors.

Bred by Park, the Ivanhoe Star daughter moved to Doeberiener's

Another Ivanhoe Star daughter, Wagnercrest Star Winney, owned by Bernard and Patricia Wagner, Meadville, captured top triple honors at the show. Bred by Bernard and David Wagner, Meadville, the Winney cow walked off with Reserve Grand Champion, Senior Reserve Champion and Best Owned and Bred.

Judge Ron Long, Plains City, Ohio, selected Paul Lawrence's senior 2-year-old for best udder in show. The New Castle dairyman's entry, Lawrence-Haven Threat Polly is sired by Hanover-Hill Triple Threat-Red and out of Pats Bandolero Pet.

A senior yearling bull, Winding-Trail Ultimate Prince was named Champion Bull. A Hinch-Smith farm entry, the 2-year-old Quality Ultimate son is owned by Wendell and Luella Smith, Butler.

Londondale Marvex Clint, the Reserve Champion Bull was the senior yearling entry of Arthur London, Punxsutawney.

YORK — Lady Luck smiled down upon Jenelle Boyer during the recent York-Adams Guernsey Breeders summer picnic.

Jenelle, 8-year-old daughter of Holstein breeders Tom and June Boyer, Biesecker Road, York, found herself with a calf of a different color to raise and show when her name was drawn to receive a registered Guernsey calf, donated by Avalong Farms of York.

"Avalong Fayvor Sheba Shelby" was born on April 22. She's sired by "Housleys Dairy Fayvor," and is out of 5-year-old dam "Avalong Century Songbird Sheba". In her current lactation, the dam is projected to 13,000, having milked 9,000 as a 2-year-old, 10,000 pounds in her second lactation, and 11 as a 4-year-old. — JF

Lucky 8-year-old Jenelle Boyer won a registered Guernsey calf during the York-Adams Guernsey Association's recent summer picnic. Donor Avalong Farms is represented by Larry Amspacher.

Judge William Etgen takes a long hard look at an entering class of Holsteins. Etgen, a dairy science professor at Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, said he was impressed with the quality of animals entered in the Eastern Championship Show.

It was a long day for some show participants. Dwight Stoltzfus, 11, finds peace and quiet nestled behind his junior calf "Rosie." Dwight is the son of Harvey and Mary Jane Stoltzfus, Morgantown.

MCMP reaction appears positive

BALTIMORE, Md. — Most of the member reaction to the proposed consolidation between the Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers and Dairymen, Inc., a large southeastern co-op appears fairly positive, an MCMP spokeswoman said recently.

MCMP Public Relations Director Susie Richburg explained that due to a series of local informal meetings, most co-op members understand the basics of the pending merger.

"We seem to have cleared up a lot of questions through that avenue," she said.

The Maryland co-op is currently in the process of conducting formal district meetings in which members have a chance to vote via secret ballot.

"This is probably the most important decision the membership has had to make since the cooperative was formed in 1918," said Donald E. Cole, District 2 director.

"It is extremely important that each member obtain the facts about this move and that each member makes his desires known. We will be making an effort to have every member vote on this issue," Cole said.

Voter turnout for the first seven of eight district meetings has been about 86 percent said MCMP representative Robin Applegate.

The final district meeting will be a District 4 gathering at the Walkersville Carnival Ground in Frederick County, Md. on Monday, August 17 at 8:00.

A special meeting of the entire membership is scheduled for August 24 at Marriott's Hunt Valley Inn in Cockeysville, Md.

Although ballots have been distributed at all local and district meetings, no votes will be counted until the final vote is taken at the Hunt Valley meeting.

According to Richburg, a two-thirds affirmative vote of the cooperative's total membership or 777 yes votes are required for approval of the resolution. — DT

MILK MARKET NEWS

YORK SEES HIGHER FOOD PRICES

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A dairy and food consultant, John C. York of York Associates, sees the upward trend in milk production over the past 2 years about to "level off." York also suggests that consumers may soon see the end of the benefits they have enjoyed from having abundant milk production and stagnant farm milk prices. Consumers may also enjoy both sides of such a world for another 8-10 months.

There are indications today that the upward trend in milk production is commencing to reach an end. We can anticipate that, by the Fall of 1982, there is likely to be a significant shift toward lower milk supplies in the Northeast and other sections of the United States.

A close look at the statistics indicate that, for the month of June, total U.S. milk production was 11.6 billion pounds, only 2.7 percent above last year with total milk cow numbers only 1 percent above June, 1980.

In the Northeast, the number of dairy farms who supply milk to the three major markets (New England, New York-New Jersey, Mid-Atlantic) was down by 225 from a year ago. Total milk receipts in the combined three markets are up by 1.5 percent with New England down 4.5 percent. The number of cows calving on July 1st in New York and Pennsylvania was down from a year ago. Replacement of dairy cows (heifer) shows some increase.

Meanwhile, the milk-feed price relationship has continued to grow worse for dairymen. Two years ago, the ratio averaged 1.54. Today, one pound of milk will only purchase 1.36 pounds of dairy feed. With feed prices likely to strengthen, and milk prices holding, the ratio will grow worse. Farm milk prices will move up after increases occur in beef, poultry and grain prices.

Farm prices have been a major factor in slowing down the rate of increase in the consumer price index. The farm sector will not carry this burden much longer. Resources necessary to maintain viable farm operations will have to come from higher farmer's prices to be passed on to consumers, while inflation bites into farm income. In the longer run, consumers will be better off by assuring adequate returns to farmers in exchange for continuous farm production.

Should the Northeast consumers have to turn to the Mid-west for its milk and dairy products, they will pay dearly. Consumers would pay premium prices for milk and dairy products, transportation costs, loss of area jobs, and industrial activity associated with the Northeast dairy industry, according to York.

CCC Sells Dairy Products Overseas

The Commodity Credit Corporation sold 60,000 metric tons (132 million pounds) of nonfat dry milk to Mexico in March, to be used in social programs.

The nonfat dry milk, part of CCC's surplus inventory, was sold for $1,225 per ton (or 55.6 cents per pound). Deliveries are scheduled over the next 12 months.

In addition, on June 9, Mexico signed an agreement to purchase agricultural commodities next year, which included up to 75,000 metric tons (165 million pounds) of nonfat dry milk.

A government-to-government sale of 30 metric tons of butter and a like amount of nonfat dry milk was made to Poland on April 3. The 66 million pounds of each product will be from stocks owned by the CCC. The sale, estimated at $70 million, was to help alleviate the shortfall in Poland at a time when its people need food.

Marketing fact sheet available

NEWARK, Del. — Marketing situation and outlook information is vital to today's grain farmers. They need this information in order to develop profitable marketing strategies for the crops they grow. Selling strategies often need adjusting on a daily, weekly or monthly basis in order to meet current conditions.

University of Delaware Extension crops marketing specialist Carl German has prepared a fact sheet containing a list of references which can help Delmarva grain producers make timely, effective marketing decisions.

For a free copy, call the county Extension office in Newark, 302/738-2506; Dover 302/736-4675; or Georgetown, 302/856-5250. Ask for the fact sheet on "Where to Find Grain Marketing Situation and Outlook Information."

DHIA supervisors receive awards

Harold Lindecamp and Robert Brinton, Lancaster County, Cris Hess, Bucks County and Rodney Lebo, Dauphin County receive the award of merit plaque.

THERE'S ONE BEST TIME. NOW.

Introducing 4th Day™ Milk Replacer.

It treats your calves better, so you can treat them less.

20% FAT!

With new 4th Day™ your calves need fewer treatment days for scours.

Meet the newest member of the Wayne® Feeds family of dairy products 4th Day, the high-fat, medicated milk replacer.

Like its name suggests, 4th Day is fed to calves as soon as they're off colostrum With 20% fat, 20% protein, and the effective antibiotics neomycin and oxytetracycline, 4th Day gives calves the nutrition and medication they need for a strong, healthy start —including fewer scours

In fact, Wayne research has shown that for their first five weeks, calves fed 4th Day can require up to 23% fewer treatment days for scours

4th Day is easier to mix, too A new manufacturing process lets it dissolve more quickly and completely, and stay in suspension longer That means calves get a more consistent blend that won't settle out easily.

Get on the Wayne Feeds dairy program and get more out of your cows.

The Wayne Feeds calf program has many fine products to take a calf from birth to four months of age. The Wayne dairy feed management system is designed to get a heifer calving at 24 months— because the sooner she's fresh and milking, the more profitable it can be for you.

So get on the Wayne Feeds dairy program, starting with new 4th Day. See your Wayne Feeds representative today, and learn how we can treat you and your cows better.

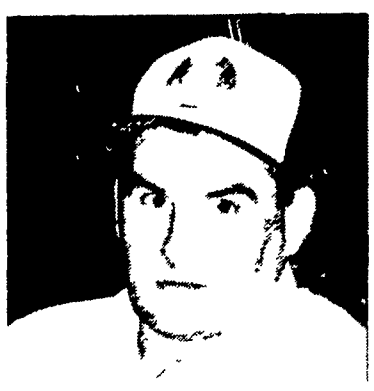
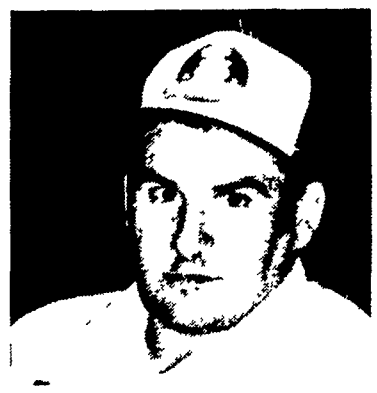
The cap that FFA'ers & 4-H'ers look for





Farm Business News

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

LANCASTER — Every FFA and 4-H member with a hog project looks for a familiar cap when he or she guides a market hog into sales arenas throughout southeastern Pennsylvania.

The cap is a familiar red, white and blue one with a smiling pig on the front sporting a puffy chef's hat.

When the youngster spies the cap, he or she knows that the efforts of the past few months have not been in vain. All that attention to feeding and the extra exercise during the past week or so are about to be rewarded.

For the man beneath the brightly colored cap buys some of the highest priced pork around. When the bidding is finished, he can end up paying anywhere from eight to 50 times the going market price for hogs.

The man in the familiar cap is Jerry Clemens, livestock buyer for Hatfield Packing Company.

For the past decade or so, he has been personally involved in the Hatfield program of supporting prospective budding new hog operators through buying their project hogs at various area FFA and 4-H sales.

And the Hatfield support of farm youngsters pre-dates his involvement, going back at least 15 or 18 years.

In a year's time, Hatfield may buy anywhere from 500 to 1,000 project hogs across a 16-county area in the state,

"Sure, it costs a lot of money," Clemens admits.

"But it's a very worthwhile cause.

"It's our way of trying to keep the interest alive among farm youth in an industry that is constantly feelings all kinds of pressures, such as from housing developments."

And Hatfield's support is widespread.

"We just don't go for the champion," Clemens said.

"After all that's only one youngster. We support the entire show."

For example, Hatfield purchased 90 of 162 head at the recent Lancaster County FFA Market Hog Show and Sale, including the grand and reserve champion.

In Berks County, Hatfield bought 65 of 110 head.

In a busy week, Clemens or someone else in the company can be at five or six youth sales.

They might be somewhere in one of the following counties in which Hatfield buys youth hogs: Bucks, Montgomery, Lancaster, Cumberland, Dauphin, Lebanon, Berks, Lehigh, Lycoming, Juniata, Blair, Bedford, Chester, Delaware, Franklin, York and Mifflin. Also, there's the Delaware State Fair, the Pennsylvania State Farm Show and a couple of shows in the Finger Lakes region of New York State.

"These youngsters are the future pork producers in the state," Clemens said.

"After all, we buy 60 to 65 percent of all our animals out of Pennsylvania.

"More than once, I've gotten a call from someone who explains we bought his FFA hog a couple of years ago and now he wants to know if we're interested in some of his market hogs."

Thus, Hatfield helps play a role in that big transition from a school livestock project to commercial hog producer.

But Clemens has one touchy point concerning youth sale activities.

Why does the baby beef get all the spotlight and glory at places like the State Farm Show.

"Last year, the grand champion hog went for $19.50 a pound," Clemens points out.

"When we're paying prices like that, you're talking 40 to 50 times the animal's market value.

This is a familiar sight throughout southeastern Pennsylvania. Jerry Clemens, livestock buyer for Hatfield Packing Company, just finished paying $4.45 a pound for the grand champion of the Lancaster County FFA Market Hog Show and Sale, which was shown by Chris Herr, of Narvon.

"And what does the champion baby beef end up bringing?

"Probably only about 10 times the value.

"But, you never hear much about the hog."

Clemens recalls that it was back in the Bicentennial Year of 1976 that prices really started escalating at the Farm Show for the champion hog.

"I remember it was the hog shown by Steve Strauss, who now works in at the Lancaster Stockyards," Clemens said.

"When I called back to Hatfield and told them I paid $10 a pound, I'm sure a few executive eyebrows were raised."

And the price has been climbing ever since and hit the $19.50 level this past show.

Yes, FFA'ers and 4-H'ers look for that smiling pig cap above the poker-faced bidder at their sales.

There's only one thing, they look forward to more.

That's some familiar words of the auctioneer that are music to their ears.

Such as those recently at Lancaster that delighted Chris Herr, of Narvon:

"Sold. Hatfield. $4.45."

Or, those heard by Nelson Beam at Leesport:

"Sold. Hatfield. $4.30."

Jerry Clemens, of Hatfield, usually can be found in the front row of sales arena at 4-H, FFA and regular hog sales.

Robinson gets promotion

BETHEL — James A. (Jay) Robinson of Concrete Safety Systems, Bethel, Pa., has been promoted to the position of Vice President/General Manager of Operations. The appointment was announced by Donald R. Tharpe, President of Concrete Safety Systems.

Robinson's responsibilities will include development of marketing strategies, sales programs, promotion through advertising and trade shows, and quality control.

Concrete Safety Systems offers precast concrete products for highway, farm, commercial and home use. Products include the EASI-SET Safety Barrier and Utility Building and a line of Smith Cattleguard Company farm products featuring cattleguards, automatic freeze-proof stock waterers, and centerline and fenceline feed bunks.

J.A. Robinson

Robinson, a graduate of Southern Connecticut State College, has had 12 years experience in marketing and sales promotion. He spent three years with Chase Precast in North Brookfield, Ma., before moving to the Smith Cattleguard Company in Midland, Va., in 1977 as lead salesman for highway and utility products. He is one of four founders of Concrete Safety Systems in Bethel, Pa., and has served as Vice President/Sales since the company was founded in April, 1979.

Robinson lives in Lititz with his wife Joy and their two children.

NAB forms Embryonics unit

BERRYVILLE, Va. — Tim Schofield, president of North American Breeders, Inc., Berryville, Va. has announced the formation of North American Embryonics, Inc. as a service to the livestock industry to assist cattle breeders in their overall breeding program.

Ag Progress Days features agriculture of the '80s

UNIVERSITY PARK — Equipment and techniques needed by American farmers to produce food in the 1980's will be displayed at Penn State's Ag Progress Days August 25 to 27, according to Samuel H. Smith, Dean of the College of Agriculture

The show, recognized as the largest outdoor educational event for agriculture in the East, will take place at the Rock Springs Agricultural Research Center, along Route 45, nine miles west of State College.

"The modern equipment that you will see, the cultural practices demonstrated, and the research reflected at Rock Springs are all forerunners of commercial food production in the years ahead," Smith stated.

The theme of the three-day show this year is "Agriculture—Depend On It!" The program, as in the past, is sponsored by Penn State's College of Agriculture in cooperation with many statewide ag-related agencies, organizations, and businesses.

Activities will include agricultural production practices, home and family living demonstrations, youth and recreational events, wildlife and forestry management practices, and bus tours to plant research and soil and water conservation sites.

There will be a College of Agriculture tent, a theatre tent, educational and commercial exhibit tents, a state hay and silage show, and programs designed for both rural and urban families.

Many legislators and special groups are making plans to tour and inspect the show. Ag Progress Days officials expect crowds in excess of 40,000 during the three days

No parking fee is charged and the show hours are 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Tuesday, August 25, and Thursday, August 27—and from 9 a.m. until 7 p.m. on Wednesday, August 26. Food stands will be in operation on the grounds.

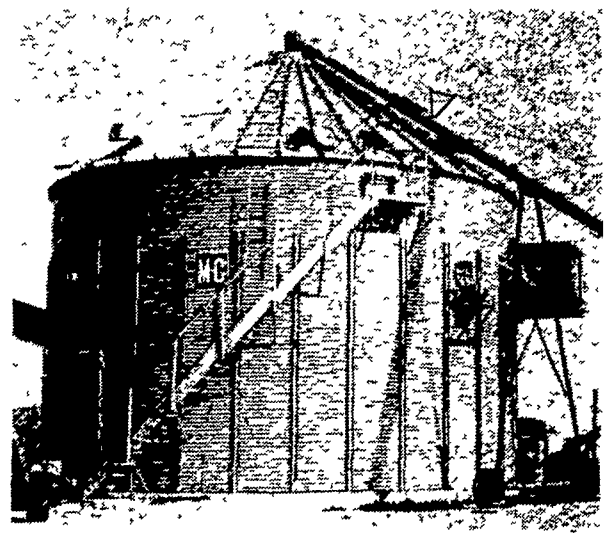
GREAT GRAIN HANDLING SYSTEMS BEGIN WITH GOOD PLANNING & M-C DRYERS

Now Available!

M-C DRYBINE™

The ENERGY SAVING IN-BIN DRYING SYSTEM



The new Mathews Continuous In-Bin Dryer is a combination storage drying and cooling bin designed to save you money It is efficient fast easy to manage and costs less to operate The drying process is fast while the cooling process is slow eliminating stress cracks and damage caused by fast cooling There is nothing else like it on the market The Mathews design requires no wet holding bin or separate bin for cooling

- Saves energy for profitable operations
- Eliminates the most common problems found in other in bin dryers
- Proven high capacity results (357 bushels per hour)
- Low per bushel costs

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS...

As wet grain enters the top of the bin, it flows into the upper drying chamber as harvested with no need for a wet holding bin This upper chamber holds up to 4 feet of wet grain (2250 bushels)

Every seven minutes a continuous flow auger makes a complete revolution around the upper drying floor drawing the dried grain into the lower cooling area

Hot air is introduced under the upper floor to dry the wet grain and to heat the surface of the grain that is distributed into the lower cooling chamber The air that is used for cooling the grain picks up heat during the cooling process This heated air is then used again in the drying process saving on fuel costs

When not being used for drying the bin will store 8500 bushels of grain

Use good alfalfa seed & put more in silo, Baylor says

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

CAMP HILL — Farmers shouldn't practice false economy and cut corners on alfalfa seed costs and should be prepared to continue a management program trend of putting more crop into the silo than into the bale, a Penn State hay expert advised Tuesday.

These were among points stressed by John E. Baylor, professor of agronomy extension at Penn State, as he discussed Pennsylvania's Alfalfa Growers Program at a seed symposium conducted Tuesday at the Penn Harris Motor Inn by Beachley-Hardy Seed Company, of Shiremanstown.

"Our studies over the past four years have shown that alfalfa seed costs only represent about three percent of total production expenses," Baylor said.

"But when good seed can represent an increased return of 15 to 20 percent in higher yield, this shows that seed purchases are not the place to cut corners."

Baylor cited the other production costs determined in a study of state alfalfa growers. The biggest cost is machinery at 39 percent.

"Machinery represents the highest cost," Baylor said.

"Often it's high priced machinery being used on too few acres."

Other costs are fertility and lime, 20 percent; labor, 17 percent; and land, 17 percent.

Overall production costs from 1977 to 1980 have increased from $200 to $295 an acre. The break-even yield has jumped from 2.8 to 3.7 tons an acre for a 14 percent hike per year over the four years.

Baylor said that 1981 has once again shown that farmers must place more stress on putting their alfalfa in the silo as haylage over baling it if they are to get the most efficiency from their fields

"This year again was not ideal for making hay," Baylor said.

"One or more cuttings must be put in the silo because it's necessary due to climactic conditions to get the hay off the land and into storage.

"We just can't let it lay out there and prevent the crop from utilizing the sun for regrowth."

Returning to the findings in the Pa. Alfalfa Growers Program, Baylor said yields in the survey were in the five and one-half to six ton per acre range. And tops has been 9.1 tons.

In the mineral uptake portion of the study, it was found that potash removal totaled some 700 pounds per acre.

"This shows the need for a good, sound fertility program with applications of potash," Baylor said.

Other mineral uptake figures show 88 pounds of phosphate per acre, 130 pounds of calcium, 22 pounds of manganese and 24 pounds of sulphur.

Best yields were found on limestone soils, but good production was achieved on lesser shale soils, too. A lot of manure was used in the rotation.

Top farmers seeded in the spring with no companion crop. Chemical control was utilized, along with a good seeding rate.

Most of the growers had four and some five cuttings. Cutting intervals showed the first coming off at the bud stage, the second 35 to 37 days later, the third at 37 to 40 days later and the fourth was variable.

The length of alfalfa stands in the study ranged from 3.7 to 4 years

A rosy outlook for the future of alfalfa was painted by Dean Urmston, vice president and director of marketing for W-L Research, Inc., of Bakersfield, Calif.

"A survey of major growers in the top 11 alfalfa producing states has shown an expected 10 percent increase in alfalfa acreage by 1990," Urmston said.

The survey was outlined at the recent Certified Alfalfa Seed Symposium hald in Wisconsin.

Participants in the Beachley-Hardy Seed Company Symposium Tuesday at the Penn Harris Motor Inn include, from the left, David Beard, vice-president of W-L Research, Inc.; Kenneth Beachley and Jogn Baylor, extension agronomist at Penn State.

Urmston cited four reasons for the anticipated increase in alfalfa acreage.

First, alfalfa is energy efficient. A stand lasts three to five years and saves a lot of energy as compared to annual plantings.

Alfalfa fits ideally into soil conservation programs, which are going to receive increasing governmental concern. Alfalfa puts nitrogen back into the soil and the merits of alfalfa silage over corn silage are starting to be shown.

"A Wisconsin study has shown that dairymen can make more money and more milk with alfalfa silage," Urmston said.

A. A. Hanson, director of research for W-L Research, Inc., called on basic research in the public sector to be directed at more practical ends.

W-L is continuing to expand its alfalfa seed research, now having research facilities in 3 states, comprising some 130 acres of test plots.

Persistence and length of stands will continue to become more important due to energy costs, the researcher emphasized.

Joseph Graham, of W-L Research, stressed the need for attention to what he called the minor alfalfa diseases, such as rhizoctonia.

He explained that W-L has followed a breeding program of developing resistance to these diseases, as well as the more major ones.

Verticillium wilt is expected to spread farther eastward, he said, but should remain north of Pennsylvania, unless the fungus undergoes a basic change.

Corn production was also discussed at the symposium attended by some 150 Beachley-Hardy dealers from Pennsylvania and other parts of the Northeast.

Participants in a panel discussion included Clarence Kreider, of Richland; Wendell Judson, of Columbia Cross Roads; Wayne Kauffaman, Mt. Pleasant Mills; and Paul Roth, of Prospect.

Howard Goss and Kenneth Beachley, of Beachley-Hardy, also addressed and welcomed the group to the session at the Penn Harris.

Hot, dry weather continues to stress Soviet crops

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Hot, dry weather continued to stress Soviet crops, according to a weekly report issued last week by the Joint Agricultural Weather Facility of the U.S. Departments of Commerce and Agriculture. Above-normal rainfall or normal growing conditions were reported in most of the rest of the world's crop regions.

Highlights of the report follow.

—USSR. Hot, dry weather spread over much of eastern European USSR while heavy rain fell in the west. The upper Volga Valley escaped the dry weather. Some central and southern areas received moderate rain, but corn was already damaged in the North Caucasus and eastern Ukraine. In the western Ukraine, excessively wet weather caused substantial problems for the grain harvest. Continued moderate rain in the northeastern New Lands benefited filling of grains, while dry weather prevailed to the south.

—South America. Seasonably dry and cool weather prevailed over most crop areas in Argentina and Brazil. Winter wheat is generally semi-dormant except in Brazil's northern wheat region where early-seeded wheat may be in the grain-filling stage. There are no indications as yet of frost damage to wheat from the recent cold weather. Temperatures in Brazil's coffee region remained well above freezing.

—United States. Unseasonably cool weather over the central portions of the country, the East Coast and Pacific Northwest contrasted sharply with near-normal temperatures elsewhere. Timely rain fell over most crop regions, improving conditions especially in many areas of the Corn Belt.

—Europe. Drier weather improved harvest conditions in most northeastern countries. Only some localized areas remained too wet. Spring-sown crops in southern England benefited from continued moderate rainfall —Australia. Widespread showers across the southern portion of the continent benefited nearly all wheat areas. Yield prospects for wheat continue to look good.

—Eastern Asia. Above-normal rainfall kept conditions unfavorably wet in eastern portions of the Manchurian Valley, in the Sichuan Valley and in the southern coastal provinces. Some central parts of China remained dry. The rainfall deficit has persisted since early July and appears to be centered over Hubei. Plentiful irrigation water precludes widespread danger to agriculture. In South Korea, rainfall was generally adequate for rice crop needs while temperatures stayed above normal.

—Canada. Favorable crop weather continued in the Prairie Provinces with showers providing moisture across the spring wheat belt. Yield prospects remain good except for localized pockets of dryness in southern Saskatchewan and extreme northwestern Alberta.

—South Asia. Flooding was reported in the east as broad areas of northern India received above-normal rains The weather turned drier in western India and, southern Pakistan and gave flood stricken areas in Rajasthan, India, a chance to dry out.

—Southeast Asia. Monsoon activity produced significant rainfall especially in northern Thailand, maintaining adequate moisture for crop growth this season. Western portions of Kampuchea appear to have received locally heavy rainfall providing ample moisture for rice paddies and corn fields in late vegetative and reproductive stages.

—Mexico. Heavy rains drenched northwestern watersheds, maintaining adequate irrigation water for West Coast cotton, rice, soybeans, and other summer crops. In contrast, subnormal rainfall amounts fell on citrus in the upper northeast. Non-irrigated orchards continued to be stressed.

Ag Dept. Regional Offices serve local needs

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's seven regional offices bring the services of the agency to within an arm's reach of farmers and consumers across the state. The offices are located in Meadville, Williamsport, Tunkhannock, Gibsonia, Altoona, Summerdale and Lansdale.

Under a regional director, each office allows the Agriculture Department to keep in close contact with the rural community, assisting farmers and others on a host of agricultural and consumer problems.

State Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell said, "Governor Thornburgh has challenged us to improve the services of the Department of Agriculture for the people we represent. We hope that, like Pennsylvania Agriculture, our efforts will continue growing better."

Hallowell said each office is manned by a qualified staff in six different bureaus: Foods and Chemistry, Plant Industry, Dog Law Enforcement, Animal Industry, Standard Weights and Measures, and Rural Affairs.

Inspectors from the Bureau of Foods and Chemistry are responsible for safeguarding public health through rigid supervision of the state's food supply. They help assure that farmers and consumers are dealt with fairly in the marketplace.

These inspectors travel throughout the state checking and sampling milk from farm to market, and inspecting food processors, manufacturers, restaurants and food markets. They also regulate food content and labeling. Samples collected by the inspectors are analyzed to insure purity.

Inspectors from the Bureau of Plant Industry are responsible for helping area farmers identify and control pests and diseases. Their work also assures consumers of high quality plants and plant materials.

Plant Industry inspectors regulate the content, labeling and sales of feed, fertilizer and seed, control use and sale of pesticides and protect nurseries and greenhouses.

Possibly the best know agency in the Department of Agriculture is the Bureau of Dog Law Enforcement, which deals with a variety of dog-related problems.

State Dog Law Enforcement Officers in each region are responsible for dog control and licensing, kennel inspections and investigation of claims by farmers for damages caused by dogs to livestock and poultry.

Technicians and a staff veterinarian from the Bureau of Animal Industry conduct the daily work necessary to keep a tight rein on such animal diseases as brucellosis and tuberculosis.

Inspecting farms and collecting samples at both auctions and meat packing plants, the bureau is able to control and eradicate diseases which might affect human health or cause economic losses to farmers.

The Bureau of Animal Industry also maintains diagnostic laboratories in Tunkhannock, Wyoming County, and Summerdale, Cumberland County. Through these laboratories, animal health can be certified and examinations can be performed to help farmers prevent the spread of diseases through their herds.

A driver who feels he has been cheated at the gas pump or a consumer who is sure the scales at the market are inaccurate can also turn to the regional office for help. The Bureau of Standard Weights and Measures runs an inspection program in each region covering such items as produce and meat scales, grain moisture meters, gasoline pumps, weights of retail packages, bulk milk tanks and even parking meters.

Hallowell said, "The Weights and Measures inspection program assures farmers, consumers and businessmen that they are receiving a fair deal in the marketplace. Businesses and farmers could lose thousands of dollars if the scales were off by fractions of an ounce. And consumers deserve to get what they pay for."

Regional coordinators from the Bureau of Rural Affairs are responsible for providing assistance to agricultural and rural organizations in community planning and development. "They help seek out sources of grants and loans for community projects, conduct field survey work and work to improve the promotion and marketing of Pennsylvania agricultural commodities," Hallowell said.

The addresses, telephone numbers and regional directors for the seven regional offices are as follows:

Region 1 - Northwest - George Marzka, R4, Meadville, PA 15335, 814/336-6890;

Region 2 - North Central - Marlin McClellan, P.O.Box 1475, 675 Rose Street, Williamsport, PA 17703, 717/327-3550;

Region 3 - Northeast - Russell Gunton, Route 92 South, Tunkhannock, PA 18657, 717/836-2181;

Region 4 - Southwest - H. Francis Kennedy, 5349 William Flynn Highway, Gibsonia, PA 15044, 412/443-1585;

Region 5 - Southwest Central - John Drake, Executive Plaza, 614 Howard Avenue, Altoona, PA 16601, 814/946-7315;

Region 7 - Southeast - Dean Heim, P.O. Box 350, 402 Century Plaza Building, Lansdale, PA 19446, 215/368-3000.

Failure to pay costs N.Y. firm license

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Cimino Brothers Produce Inc., Syracuse, N.Y., has had its produce trading license revoked for failing to pay promptly for fruits and vegetables it received between July, 1979 and March, 1980.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture, which licenses produce firms under the Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act, charged the firm with failure to account truly and correctly for seven lots of consigned produce worth $20,800 and failure to make full payment for 126 lots purchased at agreed prices totaling $157,000.

Charles Brader, marketing official with USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, said the firm was provided with a copy of the charges against it, but failed to answer.

USDA's Administrative Law Judge John A. Campbell, ruled that the firm had committed willful, repeated, and flagrant violations of the act.

Under Campbell's order, the firm is ineligible to operate a business subject to the act until June, 1983, and then only if a PACA license is obtained. The firm's officers, directors, and major stockholers, Larry S. Cimino, Benjamin B. Cimino, and Joseph A. Cimino, may not be employed by or affiliated with any PACA licensee until June, 1982, and then only if a surety bond is posted and USDA approves.

Under PACA, all interestate traders in fresh and frozen fruits and vegetables must be licensed by USDA. USDA is authorized to suspend or revoke a trader's license for violating the Act.

MODEL 33 Vacuum Sweeper

For Use With Garden Tractors and Riding Mowers

E-Z Model 33 Vacuum Sweeper
SPECIAL $550.00

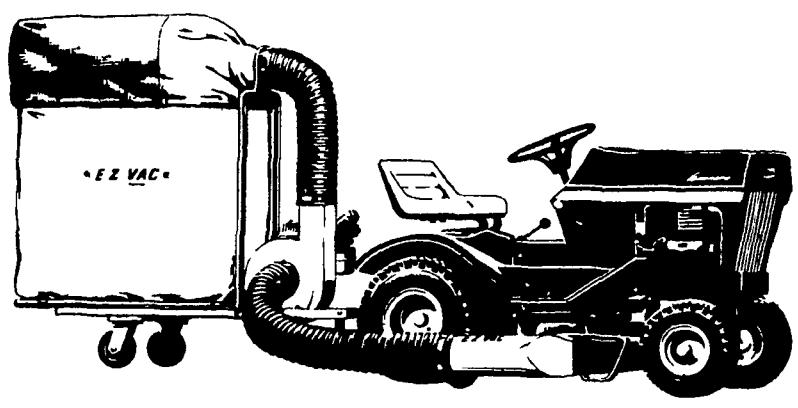
IMPORTANT
Be sure to specify size of mower and tractor model when ordering



E Z Rake's Model 33 Vacuum Sweeper offers greater capacity in home owner cleanup The easy emptying collection bags holds over 14 bushels of grass clippings or leaves The Model 33 is designed for use with most small tractors and riding mowers equipped with center mount rotary mowers with side discharge chutes Each unit comes with a custom-fit hitch assembly which makes for quick and easy attachment and use One trip over your lawn replaces hours of raking and you do it all as you mow A real time and work saver

The Model 33 lawn vacuum comes standard with a 5 H P Briggs and Stratton engine with a retractable starter (optional 3 H P Briggs and Stratton engine available) The 6" connecting hoses are made of abrasive resistant polyvinyl chloride with spiral plastic reinforcement The shipping weight is approximately 170 pounds

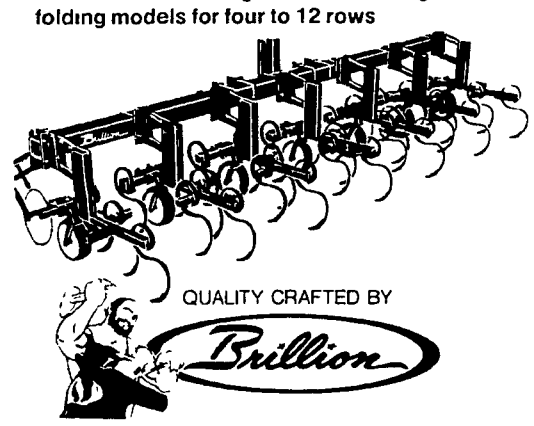
NEW! RO-CROP CULTIVATOR with the Exclusive "No Wobble" Parallel Links

One of the weaknesses of many cultivators is that the parallel linkage is light weight and bearing areas are small All too soon the assembly starts to wear and break down Brillion's NO WOBBLE links are made of cast iron (12 lbs each) Each end is equipped with full 2" wide non-lube sleeve bearings

The Brillion "S" tine cultivator (model BRS) with four-way tooth movement is designed for high speed cultivation, especially in conjunction with chemical weed control The "S" tines also mulch the soil and level the ground for easier harvesting Available in rigid and folding models for four to 12 rows



QUALITY CRAFTED BY Brillion

GUNITE
Silo Relining & Repairs

Extensive tests have been conducted on Gunite Below are some of the properties of Gunite
1. Excellent bonding
2. High Density
3. Extreme strength and hardness
4. High resistance to absorption

The excellent physical properties of the material are due to the water content being only the amount needed to satisfy chemical hydration
Reseal and re-strengthen your silo with Gunite

Here are the big guns that our new hybrids are being tested against He's wondering how they'll all turn out

Tough test for new hybrids

Why order a new hybrid now that hasn't passed this toughest of all tests—side-by-side against the best established hybrids of ours and our competitors. Only harvest time tells for sure how they all turn out.

Right now farmers near you are testing our new hybrids against the best of the competition. Chances are good some or all of the hybrids you raise will be side-by-side our new hybrids in some of our 559 seed corn trials.

When it comes to choosing a new hybrid to put into your line-up, what better evidence can you find than how it did alongside such good numbers as Pioneer 3901, DeKalb XL72aa, Funks G-4507, Northrup King PX74 and Pfizer T1058.* If it can't beat hybrids like these why should you bother? The only point of going to a new hybrid is to find one that can do better than what you have.

The average life span of a hybrid is three to five years. That means good new hybrids are the lifeblood of your corn growing operations.

These past few years, our new hybrids have been so successful that this year 80% of our greatly expanded seed production is in hybrids introduced during the last two years. That means those numbers were able to beat out consistent old favorites from ours and our competitors' line-ups.

There's only one catch to testing new hybrids side-by-side against the established ones, you have to wait until after harvest to know what to buy. As you know, we don't sell early. We figure August is ear-making time not selling time.

But there are lots of farmers who really agree with our ideas because we're one of only three companies in the top ten that are growing. The other seven have been gradually losing their business over the past ten years.

Why don't you see what a new Jacques hybrid will do in your line-up. Save one of your farms for Jacques. When harvest time rolls around we'll show you the side-by-side results so you can see how each variety did and you can pick the one that did best in your area.

Right now, send for a list of the field trial locations nearest you. Do it right away.

*Pioneer DeKalb Pfizer and Northrup King are brand names Numbers designate hybrids

IFYE program to Trinidad, Tobago

Megan Connor returns from the islands

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

Seventeen-year-old Megan Connor was unable to participate in any Lebanon County 4-H activities this summer, something that has been a large part of her life for eight years. But she was experiencing 4-H, in a way few people can.

Megan chose to participate in the International 4-H Youth Exchange-Ambassador Group, and spent six weeks in the Caribbean Islands of Trinidad and Tobago, sometimes within sight of the shoreline of northeastern Venezuela. The trip meant new foods, new sights, new sounds and a culture which was far different from the life she leads in Lebanon County.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Connor, 410 Davis Lane, Megan lived with two families on the Island of Trinidad and one on Tobago, and then spent one week enjoying the more tourist-oriented Island of Antigua.

The hospitality extended to Megan was warm. She said, "They did everything to make sure I was comfortable." Her second family, which had hosted several prior IFYES, told her that since she was to be there just ten days, she was to take only one day to feel at home. "I felt comfortable there right away," she said.

Megan said experiencing the totally different culture was "one of the biggest things I learned." While the life she lived was much simpler than here, she feels it was an important opportunity since there is a much higher percentage of the world's population that lives that sort of life.

She stated, "Seventy percent of the world lives like we lived there, with only thirty percent living as people in the United States do."

The homes were very simple, and in one home she had an outside shower with cold water and an outside toilet. Another family had a flush toilet and hot and cold running water for the shower, but they were both in an adjoining building, not part of the main house.

Electricity was commonplace, and she said each of her families had a television set, but there was only one station. One family had a small washer and hung clothes on a wall outside; the second had a larger washer but no drier; and the third family washed clothes by hand.

Refrigerators were in every home, but smaller and not used as commonly as in this country. Megan noted that in most families they sewed their own dresses, without patterns using a treadle sewing machine.

Megan admitted to having a big adjustment when she moved from family to family. She added, "They were satisfied with what they have."

Young people dressed the same as in this country, and while Megan had been told she would not have much opportunity to wear shorts, she found her host sisters wore them all the time at home. Otherwise women wore mostly sun dresses or wrap dresses, one of which Megan brought home and will be wearing when she gives talks about her experience.

Blue jeans were popular and were one of the most expensive items to be found in stores. Megan figured they cost nearly twice as much in this country. When they went to the discos, a favorite pastime, they dressed up in designer jeans or slacks.

The diet of the people was very different, with curry being one of their primary spices. "They curried everything," Megan said, including beef, chicken and potatoes.

While one family ate rice as its staple, making a large pot daily, a second family ate a lot of "roti" which is a kind of bread baked on a flat stone.

Megan has experimented with roti since coming home, and hopes to do more native cooking for her family. The roti was mixed, rolled out thin using a bottle as a rolling pin, then fried on a baking stone. It was then folded into quarters to be served. Megan said, "There are many ways to serve roti." Sometimes the roti was filled with a native curried dish. "They had to show us how to eat it," she related. "We ate it with our fingers."

Vegetables were plentiful. "We ate a lot of cucumbers, tomatoes and lettuce," Megan said. There were other native vegetables unfamiliar to the American palate as well as plentiful native fruits like chenetta, plaintain, mangos and pomerac. Two popular native drinks were sorrel and mauby.

Sundresses were very popular in the Caribbean islands Megan Connor visited. Here she models one she brought back on her IFYE trip, complete with native sandals and a lovely pearl necklace and pearl earrings.

Megan was encouraged to buy groceries to "make American food," and her contributions of chocolate cake and cookies were enjoyed by her families. She said usually the families don't eat many sweets. She also purchased peanut butter and jelly for her families.

She said they drink a kind of hot chocolate, and fruit flavored soft drinks were available in abundance. Banana, pineapple and apple were just a few of the flavors. "We drank a lot of soda," Megan said. "It cost 20 cents a bottle." When the soda machines were empty, fruit juice would be the acceptable alternative.

Very little fresh milk was drank, and none was used in the families she visited. Instead, they purchased liquid milk in cartons piled high in grocery stores which required no refrigeration. Ultra-pasteurization allows this to be possible, but it is not yet common in this country.

There were fast food places on the islands, but they featured chicken and chips, also known as french fries. So if they ate out, it was usually chicken. Since there was also a lot of chicken served in the homes, along with rice, you can probably not expect to see Megan consuming much of either in her first few weeks home.

Food was very expensive in the grocery stores, which were a miniature of stores here, but with few mixes available. Liquor was available in the groceries, and often one whole wall was given over to that.

One delicacy that Megan avoided eating was chicken feet. It seems that when you purchased a dressed chicken in Trinidad, the feet are found in the cavity along with the heart and liver, and they are cooked with the rest of the chicken and eaten with relish.

Beef cattle in Trinidad and Tobago were grass fed rather than grain fed, and Megan said there was a noticeable difference in the quality of beef. "Many people had cows or goats in their back yards, tied to a tree, and there were chickens everywhere."

Homestead Notes

Megan returned from Trinidad and Tobago laden with many native items, including bamboo trays, straw bags and things made from shells.

While there was no language barrier for Megan because the official language is English, Megan said, "They have a different accent. It took a week or two to catch on. They talked really fast and with their accent it was really hard." She noted they seemed to have no problem understanding her.

There were slang words, however, which really posed a challenge for Megan. For instance the young people would "lime" which meant they would hang out at a disco or a small store which lined the streets.

Megan felt the teeners had considerable freedom in choosing what they wanted to do Discos were a popular way to pass the time, with calypso music very popular. Steel bands, the traditional Carribean music, was heard throughout the islands she visited, and she learned that these islands are home to the limbo.

The two islands are about the size of Delaware, and with a population of 1,137,000, are about twice as populous. Ninety-five percent of the people live in Trinidad, which also accounts for 95 percent of the land area.

Megan described the landscape as mountainous, with Trinidad divided into north, central and southern ranges. Palm trees and pine trees grew side by side in some areas. The climate is moist and warm and has a rainy season.

Instead of the fields of corn familiar in this part of Pennsylvania, Megan saw fields and fields of sugar cane, a big export for the islands.

Although the families lived simple lives, the country itself is rich, primarily because of oil. "It is very rich for its size," Megan said, adding "Two percent of the world's oil comes from Trinidad, and there are 200 large tanks over 200 acres of land." The refineries are operated by Texaco.

Another valuable resource is Pitch Lake, which is one of the world's largest sources of natural asphalt—used in paving materials.

Despite a rich income from oil and the availability of asphalt, Megan said, "The roads are terrible." Just one of her three families owned a car, but taxis are plentiful and the main source of transportation. Getting somewhere was no problem because the natives have no qualms about hitching a ride with a friend Driving is allowed at age 17.

Megan pointed out that the Island natives consider themselves black, but in reality about a third have black African ancestry with another third Italian ancestry and the remaining people a mixture.

There are a variety of religions. Megan lived with one Holiness Pilgrim family, one Hindu family, and one family of Seventh Day Adventists.

This was a 4-H program, and Megan said that each of her families had some connection with the program. But she noted that 4-H is operated through the schools in Trinidad and Tobago, so there were few activities during her visit. She said their 4-H would like to get more involved in the community, and she has offered to send some 4-H project books to them to show the scope of the program here. There the projects are primarily agricultural, she noted.

Megan said her families were especially curious about the United States so she was not called upon to answer political questions and others for which she had been prepared. They did feel she must be well off when they saw pictures of her ranch-style home, and she said most people think of the United States as being New York or California.

Her group of ten young people from throughout the United States, was the first group to travel to a country outside Europe as Ambassadors, although there is a continuing IFYE program in the Country. Megan said, "They tried it out on us." She said her group recommended that the program be continued, because "It is a good experience."

Megan said her host families definitely led a slower-paced life than here. "If you make plans to leave at seven, you'll start going at ten." No one gets excited if you say you'll drop by and then don't. "It is slow. You do what you want when you want."

If you did drop in to visit, however, you'll always be assured of a warm welcome, and a meal usually be forthcoming.

She said the only time they were concerned about the time was when the ten young people traveled together.

For Megan, it was an experience to treasure, and one which she's eager to share with others. She is already booked for several service clubs, and is looking forward to talking with 4-H groups and others.

Missing the usual 4-H experiences was no problem for Megan. She says simply, "I learned a lot."

On being a farm wife -And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

But they had to be there. Somewhere.

Maybe it was the humidity, or the temperature, the darkness or too much light, or something.

You see, I have this marvelous collection of plastic containers for use in freezing all this stuff we're squirreling away for next winter. Large containers, small containers, round containers, square containers.

I save ice cream containers, pretzel containers, chip containers, and containers I unabashedly bum off assorted relatives and friends.

In our capacious freezer, intermingling rather haphazardly with packs of hamburger, are containers filled with good things like strawberries, string beans, pumpkin, cauliflower and the sweet corn I was about to bury in with this potpourri of edibles, if I could solve the perpetual problem that harasses my containers.

Every container, before it can become a freezer resident, must be properly fitted with a lid. Somewhere, in the basement, or snoozing in the back corner of a kitchen cupboard, is a lid for every container. I think. I hope.

I I could just find them.

Oh, there were lots of lids right there on the shelf with the assortment of containers. Only the large, medium, and small lids weren't compatible with the large, medium and small containers I wanted to use.

This one was a quarter-inch too small. And that one was a half-inch too large.

In a last desperate search, I yanked from beneath the canned goods shelf a bulging brown bag.

I was filled with plastic containers, each neatly and tidily fitted with its own perfect-fitting lid.

Ah, yes. Now I remembered.

I had put these containers in this bag so that when I was ready for them I wouldn't have to go through the frustration of finding lids to fit.

I promised to love, honor and cherish. Being organized was not part of the by-laws.

Pears, Zucchini, Plums and Squash - a versatile quartet

Pears and Plums, Squash and Zucchini — a collection of favorites so seldom overlooked from summertime's harvest. We would like to devote room this week to these delicious creations.

Squash refers to any of a number of edible gourds closely related to the pumpkin. The name is of American Indian origin.

A zucchini is nothing more than a summertime squash of bushy growth with smooth slender sylindrical dark green fruits.

Pears, that creamy yellow fruit, come in about 800 known varieties; although only a few of these are grown for commercial marketing today.

PEAR SALAD

1 box lime gelatin
1 c. hot water
1 c. pear juice
1 large can pears
1 pkg. cream cheese
1 c. whipped topping

Prepare gelatin with hot water and pear juice. Let thicken. Mash pears and cream cheese together with mixer. Add to thickened gelatin and blend in whipped topping. Pour into mold. Chill.

Mrs. Charles Biehl, Mertztown

The vastly underrated squash makes a great main dish. Just remove the top from one oversize patty pan squash, stuff it with mushrooms, sausage and sour cream and you've got yourself a summertime winner.

SAUSAGE-STUFFED PATTY PAN

1 large patty pan squash
1 pound of mild bulk sausage
1/2 c. chopped celery
1/2 c. chopped onion
1/2 c. sliced mushrooms
1 egg, slightly beaten
1/2 c. sour cream
1/4 c. grated Parmesan cheese
1/4 t. salt
parsley

Wash and cook large squash in pressure saucepan for 3 minutes; cook smaller squash 2 minutes; or cook squash in boiling salted water 10 to 15 minutes or until just tender but still firm. Remove squash from water and drain. Cool.

In a skillet or electric fry pan crumble bulk sausage. Brown slightly. Drain off fat. Add onion, celery and mushrooms and continue cooking until tender. Set mixture aside.

In a small bowl beat egg. Add sour cream, parmesan cheese and salt to egg. Mix well. Add this mixture to sausage-vegetable mixture. Scoop out squash. Fill cavity with sausage mixture. Top with large squash seeds and parsely. Place squash in baking dish. Bake 20 minutes in a 350 degree oven.

Survive the summertime squash

NEWARK, Del. — What vegetable comes in a variety of shapes, sizes and colors and produces like mad? Squash, of course. Right now plants are cranking out this vegetable faster than most of us home gardeners can pick it—let alone eat it.

What we need is some help in using it up. Of course, you can always try giving away the excess to your neighbors. But after a few armloads of overripe zucchini, even they may throw up their hands in dismay, or try to hide when they see you coming.

Summertime squash glut is such a common phenomenon among home gardeners that two home economists with the Delaware Cooperative Extension Service have decided it's time to come to the rescue. Sussex county home economics agent Sally Foulke and New Castle county agent Debbie Amsden put their heads together recently and came up with a cracker-jack collection of information, recipes and tips on cooking and preserving squash.

"Squash is one of the most underrated but versatile of vegetables," says Foulke. "You can do a lot with it besides just steam and serve it with butter. And nutritionally it's got a lot going for it."

Squash contains a number of vitamins and minerals, but the nicest thing about it is its calorie content—only 30 per cup serving. It's also highly digestible. All of which helps explain why this is the fifth most popular vegetable in the U.S.

One thing anyone who's ever grown squash will agree on—it's very prolific. "It can easily overrun your garden, and if you try to keep up with the yield, it can even take over your life," says Foulke. Any gardener who's made the mistake of planting too many hills of zucchini will understand what she means.

There are two basic kinds of squash—summer and winter. Winter squashes like acorn, butternut and hubbard, remain on the vine until fully mature. They have a hard rind that makes them easy to store for several months if properly cured. So there's not the sense of urgency about using them up.

Tender-skinned summer types are picked while they're still immature and this explains the rush to keep up with them. They require refrigeration and are best used within 3 to 5 days, says Amsden, though some people say they'll keep until fall in a cool root cellar or basement. But this calls for a temperature around 55 degrees, plenty of humidity and good air circulation—conditions not easy to come by in the heat of the summer in most homes.

Varieties most responsible for the annual summertime glut are the yellow crookneck and straightneck type, the saucer-shaped scallop and patty pan types, as well as zucchini and marrows. These last two come in a variety of colors—yellow, green, grey, black and striped.

Each kind of squash has its own subtle but distinctive flavor. Most go well with a variety of seasonings. Ms. Amsden suggests you try them with chopped fresh herbs such as thyme, parsley, basil or marjoram. Squash is also good with lemon, nutmeg, chili or currey powder, garlic, grated orange rind, tomato sauce, honey, chopped onion and grated cheese, she says.

Even the blossoms of this prolific plant can be eaten Pick the male flowers-those without a tiny squash at their base. Open up each bloom and fill it with enough stuffing to allow the petals to close again. The filling can be a mixture of bread crumbs, ground meat, grated cheese, egg or melted butter and seasonings. Place the filled blossoms side by side in a greased baking dish in a 350 degree oven until thoroughly heated or cooked through. The blossoms can also be sauteed in butter or oil, or dipped in a batter and fried.

The squash itself can be prepared in all sorts of ways including appetizers, salads, main dishes, soups, pickles, and desserts. Sally Foulke has been experimenting with ways to turn this bountiful vegetable into colorful, tasty, nutritious main dishes.

To try one of the recipes Foulke and Amsden are featuring in their collection, look for Sausage-stuffed patty pan in the Home on the Range section.

"Pretty girls" parade at Montgomery County Fair

GAITHERSBURG, Md. — Those with an eye for pretty girls are bound to find one that strikes their fancy at this year's Montgomery County Fair. Area 4-H'ers have been working hard to make sure their goats, cows and lambs are clipped, scrubbed and groomed to perfection.

The occasion is 4-H's annual Pretty Goat, Pretty Cow and Pretty Lamb contests. Exhibitors dress themselves and their animal according to a theme of their choosing. Prizes are awarded for the Most Original, Funniest and Most Beautiful costumes.

The event tests the 4-H'[illegible] ingenuity and cleverness and [illegible] great fun for fairgoers and 4-H'e[illegible] alike. The only dissent seems to come from the animals, and that's part of the challenge: how to get "Old Bess" into a dress.

The Pretty Lamb contest will be held on Tuesday, August 25 at 7:00 p.m. The Pretty Cow Contest will be held on Wednesday, August 26 at 12 noon, and the Pretty Goat Contest will be held on Wednesday, August 26 at 5:00 p.m.

Ladies Have You Heard?

SERVE AN ELEGANT BRUNCH

Having friends or family over for a leisurely weekend brunch? Want to impress them with something special? Why not try Eggs Benedict? This delicious favorite is just one of the many dishes that the versatile egg lends itself to. Now is the perfect time to try eggs in as many combinations as you can think of because they are, according to marketing specialists with the U.S. Department of Agriculture, in plentiful supply.

To make Eggs Benedict, place slices of cooked ham and poached eggs on top of toasted halves of English muffins. Cover with Hollandaise sauce (recipe below). Incidentally, this sauce is also the perfect dressing for crisply cooked broccoli, asparagus, brussel sprouts, and many other vegetables.

Hollandaise Sauce

½ cup butter
4 egg yolks, well beaten
⅓ cup boiling water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
Cayenne pepper, few grains

Melt butter in top of double boiler, over hot water. Remove from heat and allow to cool. Blend in egg yolks. Add boiling water slowly, stirring constantly. Cook over hot (not boiling) water, stirring constantly, until thickened. Remove from heat. Stir in lemon juice and seasonings and serve at once.

Omelets of whatever variety also make delicious brunches. However you decide to serve eggs, they will add immeasurably to the culinary as well as nutritional quality of your meals.

UNIQUE USES OF BAKING SODA

How many uses are there for baking soda? Literally, dozens! For each traditional use you can think of — as a leavening agent in baked goods, a deodorizer in your refrigerator, etc. — there are probably at least two more that are "news." Here are a few.

During the summer when your fireplace is not in use, place an opened box of baking soda in the corner to help eliminate the "smokey" odors Camouflage the box behind logs, a plant of a bouquet of dried flowers.

When you are cooking on the outdoor grill keep an open box of baking soda within easy reach to quickly extinguish grease fires and flare-ups. And after cooking, sprinkle it over coals to safely and cleanly put out the fire.

Save energy and water by operating your automatic dishwasher only when it is completely full. Between washings, toss several handfuls of baking soda into the bottom of the machine to eliminate odors.

Add a sprinkling (several tablespoons) of baking soda to your dishwater. It will boost the power of the detergent and help cut grease. For stubborn spots, sprinkle baking soda on a damp sponge, scrub, rinse and dry.

When there's no time for a bath, dry-clean your dog. Rub dry baking soda into your pet's fur, then brush it through. Baking soda cleans and deodorizes your pet naturally. It is a natural food product itself, so it is safe to use around pets. If you do bathe your pet, add a ½ cup baking soda to the water to neutralize odors, removing the "doggy smell."

To clean and remove stale, stubborn odors from ice buckets, vacuum bottles and coolers, wipe the inside with a baking soda solution (4 tablespoons mixed with 1 quart warm water). For extra hard to remove odors, let the baking soda solution stay in overnight.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Co. Society 13

Lancaster Co. Society held their annual family picnic at the Lancaster County Park on Wednesday, August 5. Also attending were husbands, children and grandchildren.

The county convention will be held on November 7 at the Farm and Home Center

Christmas in October will be presented October 26 and 27 at the Farm and Home Center.

The next meeting of Society 13 will be on September 11 at the home of Mrs Floyd McClenaghan, Lancaster. Members will be making crafts.

Lancaster Co. Society 19

Lancaster Society 19 met Sunday, August 8, at the home of Martha Musser.

The members decided to give $50 to the best 4-H girl in cooking and sewing.

Berks Co. Society 9

The August program of Berks co. Society 9 was a tour of Merritts Doll Museum.

A meeting followed at the home of Grace Spohn, with 10 members present.

The group got a thank you note from the 4-H for selling raffle tickets for the new community center.

The September meeting will be held in the home of Winnie Hayiks at 8 p.m. Joan Hafer will show the members how to make corn husk dolls.

Lancaster Co. Executive Board

The Lancaster County Executive Board of Farm Women met recently for their annual picnic at the Lampeter Community Park.

Every year, the picnic is open to all members and families and each women brings a covered dish.

Ninety-three attended the festivities this year.

A $50 memorial fund was given to Long Memorial United Methodist Chruch of Neffsville for Iva Buckwalter, past county president.

Discussion included Christmas in October (26 and 27), volunteer work at the Lancaster Hospital, the county project (4-H), and the state quilting project.

The next Executive Board meeting will be October 6.

Youngsters to be honored at Eastern Nat'l Livestock Show

TIMONIUM, MD — Three $1,000 scholarship will be awarded to winning youngsters in special livestock, dairy and horse judging events to be held as a part of the 35th annual Eastern National Livestock Show at the Maryland State Fairgrounds here October 2-11.

The three events — Junior Stockman of the Year, Junior Dairyman of the Year and Junior Horseman of the Year — are open to 4-H Club and Future Farmers of America Chapter members. Age limits for all three contests are from 14 to 19 years.

September 15 is the registration deadline.

Competition is open to teams of three contestants and individuals who are members of 4-H organizations and FFA Chapters. In addition to the scholarship for the top-ranked individuals in each event, team and individual prizes will be awarded.

In the Junior Stockman contest, entrants will compete in nine separate classes which include judging of livestock on the hoof, identifying and grading various cuts of meat and answering written questions on the livestock industry.

Entrants in the Junior Horseman contest will compete in ten classes including performance, halter, visual identification and feeding. Judging of heifers, commercial cows, dairy steers and identification of dairy products are some of the classes in the Junior Dairyman Contest.

For detailed information on the events, and on registration, write to the Eastern National Livestock Show, Maryland State Fair Grounds, Timonium, MD 21093.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

My visit to a dairy farm in Kent County, England was quite interesting.

On our way from our London hotel, we drove for two hours on narrow roads lined with high hedgerows and felt quite boxed in by then. The County of Kent has rolling farmland and has been called the "Garden of England."

There were 100 Holstein cows on this farm. They were fed silage which was stored on the ground in metal sheds under plastic and then hay bales were stored on top of it.

All through England and Europe, I noticed that the farm buildings were very old and no new ones were seen except very occasionally. There was a brick wall around the barnyard and also around the house. There was a wide variety of flowers planted around the house.

Four large Ford tractors were sitting nearby and a milk truck, with a very small tank, came to pick up the milk while we were there. Some farmers are given subsidies up to 40 percent to keep them on the farm.

The house was built during the 12th Century and contained some very unusual fireplaces. The housewife had a most modern kitchen and cooking equipment. The entire house had thick carpeting and was decorated with ornaments from harness.

Their son showed us his rabbit hutches and we peered over the fence at a garden behind the barn. They do not grow tomatoes nor sweet corn and they have different names for some of their vegetables.

We spent a wet afternoon sloshing through mud at the Kent Co. Agricultural Fair. There were many cows, goats and sheep in the tents. One tent had currants and boysenberries for sale while another large tent had a flower show to rival the Philadelphia Flower Show. And, would you believe it, I forgot to take any pictures of the beautiful arrangements.

A Mr. Hodges, who ate lunch with us, explained how he grows 60 acres of 15 foot high hops on trellises. New strings are put up each year and after the hops are cut they are dried in a conical-shaped building before being sold as a flavoring for beer and ale.

We were glad to see our hotel that night as we made our way past the massive and ancient buildings of old London.

Bence wears Bedford Co. crown

BEDFORD — Wendy Bence, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Bence, Schellsburg, was crowned 1981 Bedford County Dairy Princess in competition held at the Northern Bedford High School.

Chosen from a line-up of four contestants, first runner-up was Liane Johnson of Breezewood, second was Peggy Morral of Clearville and third was Elizabeth Smith of Roaring Springs.

The girls were presented in evening gown competition, were asked questions, and each performed an individual skit based on milk and milk products.

Wendy's presentation was a colorful introduction to "Mighty Milk." This having been Wendy's second year in the pageant, she admitted 'the second time is harder.'

Liane, a 1980 high school graduate, portrayed a frontier wife describing the history and usefulness of milk.

Peggy, who will be entering her senior year in high school, won Miss Congeniality with a personality that could sell milk to Dr. Pepper.

Approximately 15 county dairy farmers added a 'touch of class' with a 'Farmwives Fashion Show'.

Outgoing Bedford County Dairy Princess Suzanne Diehl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Diehl of R. 4, Bedford was on hand to crown the new winner. Suzanne presented the winner with a road sign indicating the home of the Bedford County Dairy Princess.

Horses are subject to sunstroke too

LANCASTER — Not only we humans, but horses are also susceptible to sunstroke...and heat exhaustion. Horses who are "workers" or exercised heavily in hot weather are risking heat exhaustion and sunstroke, both problems caused by malfunction of the body's heat-regulating system.

It's exposure to high temperature and humidity for prolonged periods of time that causes heat exhaustion. Horses and ponies on pasture have the freedom to choose their pace, a slow walk or stand-still if they wish, and location, out in sun grazing or relaxing under a big shade tree.

But a horse being ridden or driven, or one under the stress of a horse show, really has no choice. He responds only to his master's wishes.

Heat exhaustion is most common in the showring. Long hours out in the ring in competition, standing idly outside the ring waiting for the classes, and moving to and from home in a van are all conditions that bring on heat exhaustion and sunstroke.

THE SIGNS

The signs of sunstroke are rapid breathing, dulling eyes, and collapse. Body temperature may rise to as high as 115°F.

Signs of heat exhaustion include weakness, rapid breathing, muscle tremors and collapse. The animal will sweat profusely, pulse and body temperature increase (105 to 108°F.).

Horses with sunstroke do not sweat as readily as with heat exhaustion, thus making sunstroke the more dangerous of the two.

Chances of heat exhaustion and sunstroke can be minimized by conditioning animals prior to hot weather, keeping them out of direct sun as much as possible, and by resting horses between work periods.

Fresh water and salt should be provided at all times.

Prevention is the key! But, if heat exhaustion or sunstroke occurs, follow these treatments:

—Reduce body temperature as quickly as possible by spraying the horse with cold water.

—Place an ice pack on the forehead.

—Call your vet. He will replace fluids lost in sweating.

—Urge the horse to drink fresh water and place him in a shady area where there is adequate ventilation.

ADDITIONAL TIPS

Avoid dehydration by providing plenty of fresh cool water. Make it available at all times. Remember, the need for water increases as temperature rises.

Salt is a must! A mineralized salt block offered free choice is most convenient.

If horses are pastured, turn them out overnight. If they are out during the day, be sure they have water and shade, and are protected from flies.

Readjust your exercise schedule. Exercise in early morning or late evening.

After riding, sponge horse or hose off sweaty areas with cool water. Never allow the horse to tank up on water after a hard workout! Colic or founder may result.

It's really all just good sense, it seems. He deserves a bit more consideration on these hot days of summer.

Ever cooked a hippopotamus?

Kids, John Stoltzfus has sent us a tremendous recipe. It sounds rather unique but we're still trying to decide where you can buy some of the ingredients! You can read the ingredients and directions yourself, and if you think it a little impossible, well...you can still get a chuckle from it anyway.

Wild Hippopotamus Stew

1 hippopotamus
2 rabbits
brown gravy (lots)
salt and pepper to taste

Cut hippopotamus into small bite-size pieces. Be sure to use a sharp knife. This should take no longer than 2 months. Add enough brown gravy to cover. Cook over kerosene fire for about 4 weeks at 465 degrees This will serve 3,800 people. If more are expected, more rabbits may be added, but do this only when necessary as most people do not like to find hare in their stew.

John Stoltzfus, Parkesburg

The original Morgan horse was a mutation owned by Justin Morgan in 1789 in Randolph, Vermont.

Lancaster County crowns new poultry queen

LANCASTER — LaVon Jane Fuhrman was named the 1981 Lancaster County Poultry Queen at ceremonies last Friday night at the Farm and Home Center.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fuhrman, Bainbridge, LaVon is a 1980 graduate of Elizabethtown High School. She was crowned by the 1980 Queen Heidi Sue Miller.

The 1981 Alternate Queen is Donna Rene Hess, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Hess, Manheim.

Over 400 people attended the pageant, which featured a 30 second commercial of the industry by the six contestants. Each of the six also had to answer a question spontaneously.

LaVon showed the judges and the audience her promotion-mindedness when she was asked if she had the opportunity to prepare an article about the poultry industry if she would prefer that it be published in a magazine for politicians or teenagers. LaVon said she felt grown-ups and politicians should know about the industry and she would try to reach the young people.

"Teenagers would benefit more," she stated.

She also pleased the audience with a commercial based on the popular dairy song, in which she called eggs a "special, special treat." She sang the song, and advised people to take an egg to breakfast, lunch and dinner. The catchy tune lent itself to her egg promotion and she ended by singing, "Eat eggs!"

Although LaVon is not from a farm background, she says she feels this will not stand in her way of good promotion due to the fact that she has developed a deep interest in the poultry industry from working at Wenger's Feed Mill.

LaVon enjoys softball and outdoor activities. She is a member of the St. Luke's Lutheran Church and the Bainbridge Fire Company.

Other contestants included, Debra Engle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob W. Engle, Marietta R1; Kim Erway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jess R. Erway, 312 Fairview Drive, Lititz; JoAnn Kready, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Kready, Manheim R6; and Carrie Wiegand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wiegand, 589 Hi-View Drive, Lititz.

Before the contest got underway, Chairman of the County Commissioners, James Huber, presented a proclamation designating August as Poultry Month. Huber recognized Lancaster County's position as first in the state in the poultry industry and number two in the nation in total value of the industry. The proclamation was accepted by Lancaster County Poultry Association President Leroy Esbenshade.

Grover Gouker, Jr., director of the Dale Carnegie Institute was Master of Ceremonies. Judges were Sonia Shaner, vocational agricultural teacher at Warwick High School; Robert Bucher, vice-president for agri-finance with Commonwealth National Bank; and M.M. Smith retired Lancaster County Agent.

Entertainment was provided by Debbie Ney and Cindy Garber, who were accompanied by Greg Zimmerman.-S.B.

LaVon Fuhrman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fuhrman, was named Lancaster County's new poultry queen. With her is alternate, Donna Hess of Manheim and last year's queen, Heidi Miller, right.

USDA proposes revision of foods rule

LITTLE ROCK, Ark — Federal officials propose to revise a rule that now limits sale in schools of foods that compete with federally-subsidized school meals, according to Deputy Assistant Secretary of Agriculture John Bode.

Under the current rule, in effect since July 1980, schools are prohibited from selling sodas, water ices, chewing gum and some candies from the beginning of the school day until after the last lunch period.

In a speech to the Arkansas Association of Educational Administrators recently, Bode said the possible change was among several being consideed as part of the administration's reform program to reduce the burden of federal regulations.

Bode said USDA looks forward to hearing from local school administrators, parents and any other parties interested in the proposed revision.

When the current rule was proposed, Bode said, many students and school officials said it would interfere with their ability to raise funds to support school activities.

18 compete in Adams swine show

ARDENTSVILLE — The annual Adams County Swine 4-H Roundup saw 18 members complete their projects with Rob Hay of Gettysburg exhibiting the 238-pound Grand Champion, the Champion Barrow, and the Reserve Champion Gilt. He also was named Reserve Senior Champion Fitter/Showman.

Rob's work was well paid as the Hatfield Packing Company bought his Grand Champion at a record sale price of $3 a pound. Overall, the 53 hogs were auctioned at a $.62 a pound average, without the Champions, and $.70 a pound with the Champions.

Other top winners were Jim Behney of York Springs who showed the Reserve Grand Champion which was bought by O'Brien Meats at $1.65 a pound

Darryl Green of York Springs exhibited the Champion Gilt and Reserve Champion Barrow.

Craig Reinecker, also of York Springs, was named Senior Champion Fitter/Champion.

Those receiving red ribbons were: Sandy Schreiber, New Oxford; Brian Bolden, Hanover; April Keller, Gettysburg; Kim Lott, Biglerville; and Jill Tyson, New Oxford.

Mike Duncan, York Springs, received a green award.

Other buyers supporting the 4-H swine projects were: Seibert Farm Machinery, New Oxford; Robert Hay Farm, Gettysburg; McCoy Cattle Company, Lancaster; Hilbert's Farm, Littlestown; Agway, New Oxford, Gettysburg and Fertilizer Plant, Gettysburg; Nevin Rush, Dillsburg; Richard Reichart; PACMA; Feeser Hampshire Farm, Taneytown; Mullers Spotted Hog Farm, New Oxford; Steve McCleaf, Cashtown; G.W. Lillich & Son, York Springs; Maxine Lumsargis; Michael Lightner; Woodrow Tyson; Al Bitting, Littlestown; Daniel Yake, New Oxford; Gettysburg National Bank; Neil Lott, Biglerville; Wayne Nell & Sons, East Berlin and Bradley Orndorft, Gettysburg.-M.G.

Ezra Good, representative of Hatfield Packing Co., (left) is the proud buyer of the 4-H Grand Champion Hog exhibited by Rob Hay, Gettysburg. The Champion was bought at a sale record price of $3 per pound. Sale average, including Champions, was $.70 a pound.

4-H holds exchange trip

NORRISTOWN — Visiting Bar Harbour and Acadia National Park, staying with host families and learning about 4-H in another state were some of the highlights of a recent 4-H Exchange Trip to Maine.

Twenty-two Montgomery Countains traveled to Pebobscot County near Bangor, Maine to take part in the week-long event. Members stayed with other 4-H families and had a chance to experience different lifestyles, see the rugged coastline area, enjoy a lobster dinner and attend a roller skating party. Other activities included a field day, picnic and cookout in addition to touring Cadillac Mountain.

Those participating in the exchange were: Nancy Nitterauer and Jody Solomon of Harleysville; Steve McMahon of Green Lane; Michael Wentling of Philadelphia and Lisa Ciasullo of Oreland.

Lansdale and North Wales members included Jerry Longworth, Janet Carney, Heidi Schempp, Hildie Block, Amy Nelson and Jody Carney.

Also attending wre Kevin and Mary Pat McGann of Maple Glen, Dana Trumbower of Hatboro, Carol Ludt of Ft. Washington and Cindy Paxson of Dresher.

From Collegeville and Royersford areas were Bev Jones, Kitti Kopistecki and Deb Fagley along with Ashley Jones of Schwenksville.

Chaperones were county 4-H coordinator Nancy Kadwill of Collegeville and Chris Jones, program assistant of Schwenksville.

Next summer the group will host 4-H members from Maine. Plans include a tour of Montgomery County, the Amish area, Hershey Park, and Philadelphia Historic Sites.

Lycoming County livestock sale

Gallon of milk sells for $230

MONTGOMERY — History was made on Thursday, July 23, when the Lycoming County Jr. Holstein Club auctioned off one gallon of milk from the Grand Champion Cow at the Lycoming County Youth Livestock Sale.

The 1981 Lycoming County Dairy Princess, Miss Darlene Hensler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hensler, displayed the one gallon milk jug at the sale. The Hensler's live on a 40 cow dairy farm in Linden.

Through fast and intensive bidding, the price shot up to $230 with Harold E. Lowe, from Lowe's Super Duper store in Clarkstown, being the final bidder.

During an interview, when asked why he would be willing to pay $230 for a gallon of milk, Mr. Lowe said "because I just like to help support young people."

The contending bidder was John Fritz from Sunset Ice Cream of Williamsport.

The Grand Champion Cow, Jan Hal Tina Elevation, is an 89 point daughter of Round Oak Rag Apple Elevation with 2 5-08 record of 365d, 29,058 lbs. of milk, and 1039 lbs. of fat. She is owned by Ritter Ridge Farms of Muncy, shown by Wayne Ritter.

Auctioneers were Max Fraley and Son Auctioneers of Muncy.

Homemakers enjoy a mini vacation

BY DEBBIE KOONTZ

FRYSTOWN — Camp isn't just for kids anymore. It's a place for those who need a mini vacation, a chance to get away from the home, the responsibilities and the work, and an opportunity to make new friends and make new crafts.

And that describes the women who attended the annual Homemaker's Camp at Camp Swatara, Tuesday through Thursday.

Though camping isn't just for kids, the camp fever of companionship, adventure and mischief seem to enter the blood of all who do camp. Thus it was for the 68 who gathered at camp, donning smiles and releasing lively laughter.

The campers came from five counties — 6 from Berks, 7 from Dauphin, 11 from Lancaster, 9 from York, 17 from Cumberland, and 18 from Lebanon.

Arriving late Tuesday evening, the campers had time only to get acquainted and go to bed — nobody got to sleep that night without making a new friend because they slept approximately 18 to a cabin.

Wednesday was filled with songs, crafts and words of wisdom by Ruth Hand.

Ruth is an Extension home economist in Schuylkill County. Her topic was, "Life begins at..."

"To be happy, you need to have something to do, something to do with your life that you enjoy," she said.

"Learn to be satisfied with what you have and be pleasant. People like pleasant people. They're more fun to be around," she advised.

"One way to make it through life is to meet your problems with decisions. Study the problem. Then make a decision, and then forget it," she told the campers.

After offering the listeners a humorous rendition of what it's like to get old, she counseled them on their lifestyles saying, "Peace of mind comes in living in the present moment. You only get one time around, so don't waste it."

Her summary? "Say nuts to irritations cause you're always going to have them."

The rest of the day was spent doing crafts of macrame, gift wrapping, and needlepoint and playing games, taking nature hikes, swimming and making new friends.

That evening, the Rev. Robert Kehrli and Mrs. Margaret Schaeffer of Womelsdorf presented "A Musical History Lesson." They played old musical instruments and sang songs tracing the last 200 years.

Thursday was filled with more songs and more crafts.

And the laughter ringing through the woods where the campers walk and work, leaves no question as to whether all had an enjoyable time.

Said Martha Mohn of Cumberland County, "I don't even take part in the crafts, but I love to come. I come for the fellowship."

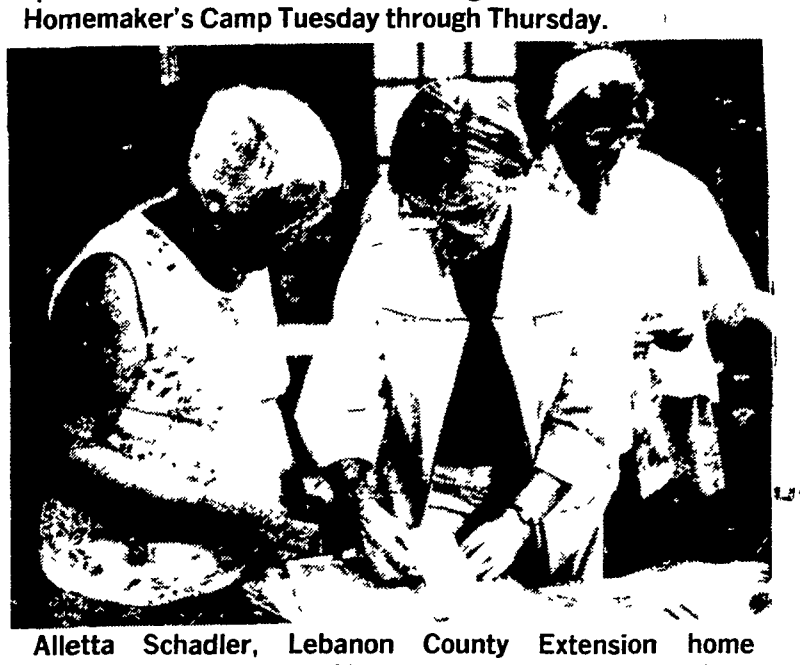
Fay Strickler, Extension home economist of Berks County, said, "It's good for the ladies to get away in the summer for some fun in the middle of all their canning and freezing."

Helen Barley agrees, "I like to come to see the ladies and all the friends I made the year before."

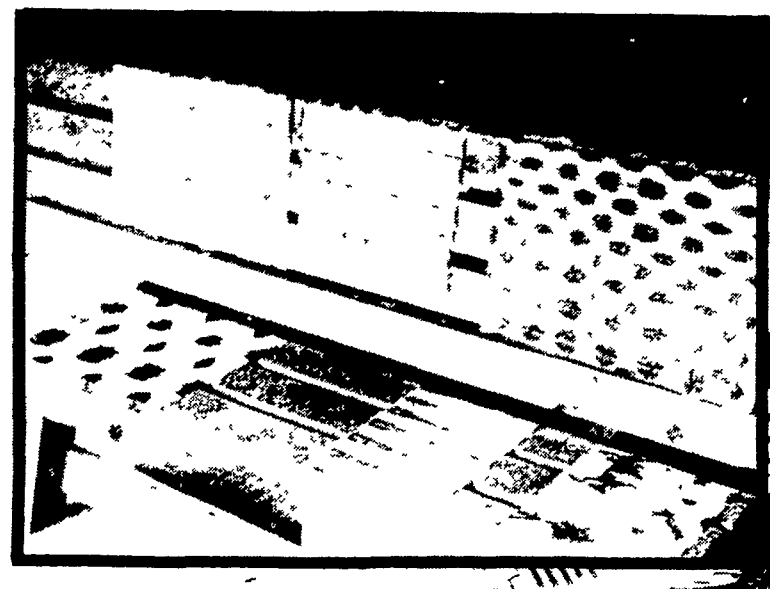
A scene from the old west? Not really. When you camp, you have to do it right. That was the feeling among the homemakers who packed themselves 18 to a cabin in these little "shacks."

Farm Woman Hazel Newcomer from Lancaster helps Helen Barley, also from Lancaster, with her macrame project. Both ladies say they enjoy coming to the camp to see the friends they have made years before.

Ruth Hand, Schuylkill County Extension home economist spoke to the 68 homemakers who gathered for the annual Homemaker's Camp Tuesday through Thursday.



Alletta Schadler, Lebanon County Extension home economist, helps Caroline Myers untangle her gift wrapping - part of the crafts hour.



The campers enjoyed making gift wrapping by dipping folded pieces of tissue paper into tins of food coloring. When unfolded they made bright-colored wrapping paper for Christmas or birthday presents.

Ladies Day Out emphasizes farm economy

GETTYSBURG — "The inflation engine is driven by the money supply and the money supply has increased 400 percent in the last twenty years. If the change in the economic system had started 20 years ago, it wouldn't be so hard to 'bite the bullet' now."

These are statements made by Ross Karviss, Park Ridge, Ill. Research Economist for the American Farm Bureau Federation at a Region II Ladies Day Out (nine Counties) held Wednesday at Allenbery, Boiling Springs.

Nearly 200 farm women from nine counties attended, thirty four from Adams County.

In the 1950's, the government spent 17 percent of the G.N.P. We need to get back to that figure. President Reagan's program may reduce the present figure to 40 percent, Karviss said.

We lose faith in our government when 2.6 million college students are getting help from the government and only one half million need it. Too many college students go to college, not for an education but because they couldn't get a job or didn't try, Karviss said.

Karviss also emphasized the fact that too many workers are shielded from inflation because increases in pay go along with inflation. Fifty-five million people are protected by escalator clauses.

He touched on Social Security, explaining how the original purpose was good but problems came as disability was added in 1958, medicare in 1966, Nixon's 20% increase in response to Humphrey's request for 25% in 1972. With a cost of 150 billion for social security in 1981, that could rise to 383 billion by 1990.

Very little profit will be realized by farmers, was the bleak picture Karviss painted. More federal programs will be coming back to the state and local levels.

"President Reagan's program is not perfect but we believe it's better than what we have been having," he said.

Nellie Crawford, Chairman of the State Women's Committee, reminded the ladies to be alert. Not all government regulations are good and not all are bad. The responsibilities of farm people are continuing to grow. Issues are more complicated today. To stay alert is the answer to profit and loss. TMI should have been a success story. Their safety machinery worked well. But TMI was not alert and ready to handle its emergency to the public. The anti-nukes took up the ball and ran with it, Crawford said.

Regional Organization Director David Muzzy also spoke at the morning session. He said that of the 2,500 pieces of legislation introduced in the past year, more than 1000 affect agriculture.

Consumers spend a lower percent of their income for food than any other people in the world with the exception of the people of India who don't eat beef.

The afternoon was devoted to entertainment. After a buffet luncheon, the ladies attended the play, "My Fair Lady."

LEBANON — Hundreds of meticulously constructed dresses, afghans and other needlework creations filled table after table in the home economics building at the Lebanon Fair.

Along with the stitchery creations, there were also row upon row of prize-winning vegetables, breads, cakes and cookies to make any specatator's mouth water in anticipation of an absolutely forbidden bite.

Judges worked long and hard on Monday to select the Best of Show in these various categories. After much deliberation, they awarded the prestigious honors to: Sara Jane Krall, Lebanon, women's synthetic suit and yeast cake; Kathy Brandt, Campbelltown, dress; Kristin Wagner, Jonestown, tote bag; Andrea Wampler, Lebanon, seed collage; Holly Bachert, Annville, knitting; Kristine Zellers, Annville, yeast bread; and Doris Gerber, Lebanon, quilt.

Here's how the Hesston 6-knife cylinder with Flo-Vanes gives you more forage on less fuel.

6 knives are enough!

Do more knives cut more forage? No! Too many knives can actually reduce capacity, by forming a near solid "wall of steel" that restricts crop flow.

With Hesston's 6-knife design, there's room between knives to get more crop in. In fact, to match Hesston's capacity most other harvesters have to have knives removed.

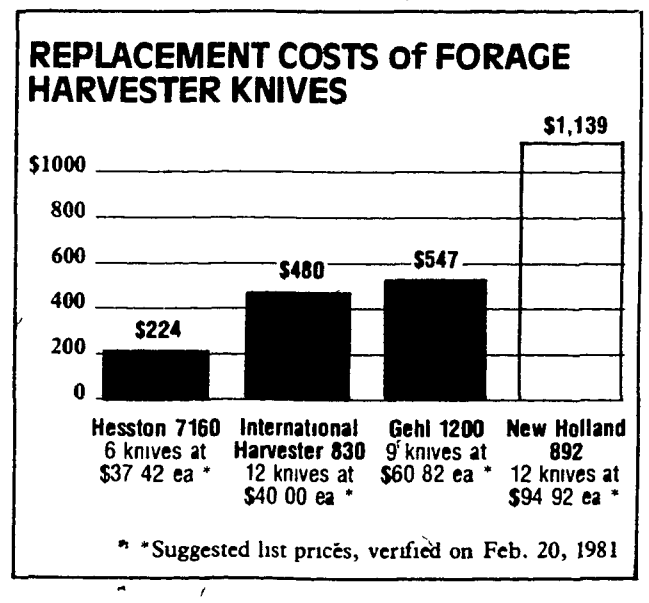
Hesston helical knives slice with "scissor-action" across the shearbar. This produces a smooth, uniform cut requiring less horsepower and less fuel than straight knives.

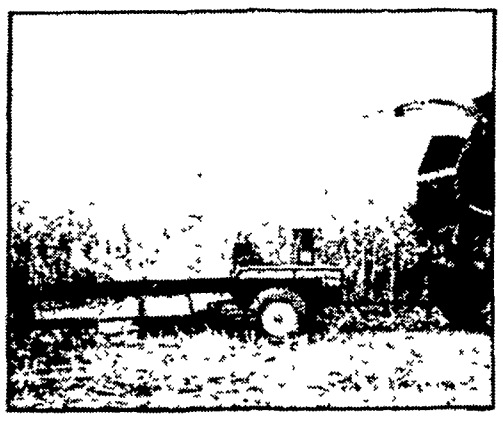
Fewer knives mean less upkeep (see chart) and less time spent sharpening.

Hesston capacity is increased even more with exclusive Flo-Vanes. In field tests, Flo-Vanes have increased capacity up to 20%*.

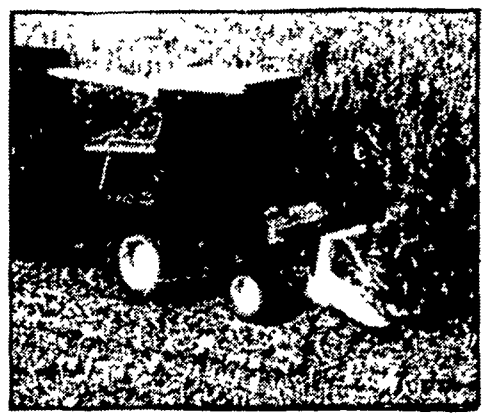
So, there's the Hesston secret for high capacity harvesting and fuel economy...6 "scissor-action" knives plus Flo-Vanes. More isn't always better!

More knives cost you more in the long run!





7100-Series Pull-Types. Three models for tractors up to 115, 150 or 225 PTO hp



Hesston/Field Queen Self-Propelleds. Three models give giant capacity (diesel engines up to 257 hp) and widest selection of crop headers in the industry

Help plants overcome dry weather stress

NEWARK, Del. — Hot, dry weather this summer has placed a severe moisture stress on many plants. Newly set-out trees and shrubs and shallow rooted plants are first to show signs of stress. Many require weekly watering now, in the absence of adequate rainfall.

Actively growing plants need about a half gallon of water a week per square foot of soil area occupied, says University of Delaware extension horticulturist Dr. Charles Dunham. How much you put on will depend on the amount of rainfall during that time. One inch of rain equals the necessary half gallon per square foot.

"Always let plants dry out between waterings, though," cautions the specialist. "Where foliage is wetted during watering, it's best to water plants in the morning. Leaves will dry off faster so there'll be less chance for diseases to spread than when plants are sprinkled late in the day."

To determine how much water an overhead sprinkling system is putting out, scatter some cans on the ground and measure the depth of water in these after 10 or 15 minutes This will tell you how long it takes to put on an inch of water.

"All trees and shrubs set out less than two years need special watching during dry spells," says Dunham. "It also pays to keep an eye on azaleas, dogwoods and Japanese maples. These plants have shallow root systems and are quite susceptible to water stress."

Shade trees usually need watering only during a severe drought or if they're weakened specimens. In either case, give them two inches of water at a time. The best way to do this is with a soaker hose or an ordinary garden hose turned on to a slight trickle.

Annual flowers and some vegetables can be rejuventated at this time of year with an application of water and fertilizer. Petunias, alyssum, and snapdragons which have been exhausted from blooming should be cut back to remove all seed heads and leggy growth. Scatter a small handful of garden fertilizer around each plant, work this in with a light cultivation and then give plants a good soaking. They should come back and bloom on into fall.

In the vegetable garden, fertilizer and water can revive pole beans, cucumbers and squash now.

Roses will keep growing and blooming right up to frost, provided they get proper care. Water them weekly as needed until mid-September. The last application of fertilizer should go on roses before the end of August.

Remind me of who?

A number of entrants in the recent Dairy Month Photo Contest dressed up some of their bovines before snapping the shutter.

These are just a couple of them.

Want to play a game?

Just quickly glance at the photos and who do they remind you of?

I'll offer my rural resemblances.

The cow with the Gehman feed cap and the toothpick reminds me of Humphrey Bogart. It's the kind of head gear he wore in some of those old World War II era films you can see on the late show.

And the cow with the colorful hat. That's Pancho, the sidekick of the Cisco Kid in the original Western series.

Don't ask why. They just remind me of those people.

Incidentially, the Gehman cap cow photo by sent in by J. Martin Hoover, R1 Mt. Joy; and the "South of the Border" cow was submitted by Bryan Blank, of Christiana.

Cecil County, Md. names livestock winners

ELKTON, Md. — Roger Rigby, John Fowler, and Chris Johnson took top honors at the Cecil County 4-H Livestock Show held July 29 at Fair Hill, Md. The 4-H'ers showed the grand champion steer, lamb, and hog, respectively.

Dr. Robert Herr, Narvon, Pa., was the judge for the day.

On Wednesday night, July 30, the youth were able to profit from their hard work by selling their animals at the annual 4-H livestock sale. The sale, previously open only to lambs and hogs, featured seven steers as well this year.

Champion steer was shown by Roger Rigby and purchased by Hilamin Milling.

At Wye field day

Dairy products highlight Md. home economics program

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Food, dairy and home specialists will present a 2½-hour program on home economics as part of the Wye Research Center's annual field day Tuesday near Wye Institute on Maryland's Eastern Shore.

Open to homemakers and other members of the community, the program will feature representatives from the Upper Bay Dairy Council, the Maryland Soybean Board and the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service, according to Dian Councill, Extension service agent for home economics.

"The largest portion of the program will focus on the dairy industry, dairy nutrition and how they benefit the milk consumer," said Councill.

Also scheduled for the program are presentations by soybean experts on meal preparation using one of Maryland's more important food crops.

And, Councill added, a home furnishings and housing specialist from the university's Cooperative Extension Service will be on hand to show consumers how to save money in the home using fabric scraps.

The program begins at 9:30 a.m. in the Research Center's Conference Room and runs until noon, said Councill.

Running concurrently with the home economics program will be wagon tours of select agricultural research programs in progress at the Wye Research Center.

Approximately 1,000 members of the Maryland farm community are expected to see research concentrating on corn and soybeans, two of the state's major food and animal feed crops.

The Wye Research Center, operated by the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station, is located near the Wye Institute off Carmichael Road from U.S. 50 east, between Queenstown and Maryland route 213.

Gaithersburg fair to open Aug. 24

GAITHERSBURG — The Montgomery County Maryland Fair has been scheduled for August 24-29 at the fairgrounds in Gaithersburg, Md.

Many special activities will be scheduled throughout the fair. On Tuesday, August 25 the horse-pulling contests will get underway at 7 p.m. Two classes of horses will compete for up to $130 in prize money.

In addition to the special events there will be displays for everyone's entertainment throughout the week. Antique farm machinery will again be one of the highlights of the fair.

Visitors will get a chance to view everything from an old-time shingle mill, to a corn sheller and a stone crusher. Inside the buildings on the fairgrounds, visitors will have a chance to view butter-making and spinning demonstrations. Displays on butter-making utensils, wood lathes and a "What is it?" display will also be featured.

Arts and Crafts will occupy a predominant place once again at the Montgomery County Fair. There will be a wide variety of displays and demonstrations that will be of particular interest and beauty. Crafts such as wood carving, stained glass, and egg shell decorating will be included at the fair.

Shuman is FmHA administrator

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Charles W. Shuman was sworn in last Tuesday as administrator of the Farmers Home Administration, the rural credit agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Shuman will direct the loan activities of 8,300 full-time employees from 348 state and district offices and 1,963 county offices in administering $12.2 billion this year in loans and grants to rural families and communities in farming, housing and community facitlities.

Shuman, 46, has operated a cattle and grain farm with two brothers in Sullivan, Ill., and was a member of the investment brokerage firm of Blunt, Ellis & Loewi of Decatur, Ill.

He served as Illinois state director, of Farmers Home Administration from 1971 to 1977. During that period, he also served temporarily as director of the agency's national finance office in St. Louis.

Shuman is a graduate of the University of Illinois, with a degree in agriculture, and was a delegate to the Illinois constitutional convention of 1970.

He and his wife, Mary, have two daughters — Carol, a sophomore at the University of Illinois, and Linda, a high school student.

Shuman said as administrator he will emphasize loan servicing as an essential service to all Farmers Home Administration borrowers.

INTERNATIONAL®
1190 MOWER CONDITIONER

Preserves hay quality to maximize profits

Precision-machined, intermeshed rubber conditioning rolls crush and crimp your crop for fast dry-down, yet they work gently to save leaves. Rolls are mounted in the header, not on the frame, so the crop feeds straight in for complete conditioning, even in rough terrain.

- Two sizes: 7 and 9 ft
- Over-the-top frame suspension allows for header float, keeps crop pathway clear
- Rolls separate automatically when header is raised so you can clear slugs from your tractor
- Lever control lets you adjust the width of windrow or swath
- High-speed oil-bath knife drive gives you clean cutting, long life
- Simple equalizer hitch lets you turn sharp without losing performance.

Lebanon dairy youths show off 'blue-ribbon' bovines

Dale Weaver, Myerstown, showed the reserve grand champion Holstein in the 4-H division.

LEBANON — Lebanon County's 4-H and FFA dairy men and women competed on Tuesday for championship honors during the type show of the Lebanon Area Fair, held here at the fairgrounds.

In the FFA contest, purple ribbons were pinned to the halters of the Holstein entry of Barry Donmoyer, Annville; the Brown Swiss entry of Gary Mase, Lebanon; the Guernsey entry of Susan Heilinger, Newmanstown; the Ayrshire entry of Heather Hernley; and the Jersey entry of Marilyn Deaven, Fredericksburg.

The 4-H competition found grand championships being awarded to the Holstein entry of David Bomgardner, Annville; the Brown Swiss entry of Patti Heilinger, Newmanstown; the Guernsey entry of Tom Smith, Annville; the Ayrshire entry of Heather Hernley; and the Jersey entry of Marlin Deaven, Fredericksburg.

This is the second consecutive year that Donmoyer's Holstein claimed the title of grand champion of the FFA show. Broslin Linda Chief Charlie, also the show's senior champ, is a March, 1977 daughter of Junell Ivanhoe Chief Charlie, out of Broslin Peg Ivanhoe Ken. She was bred by Jacob H. Bross, Lebanon.

As a two-year-old, Linda's record was 14,500 pounds milk, according to Donmoyer, 20, the son of Fred and Mildred Donmoyer. The family dairy operation milks a string of 100 registered and grade Holsteins at their 200-acre home farm.

For reserve grand champion in the FFA Holstein show, judge Paul King of King-Lea Holsteins, Delta, tagged the aged cow entry and reserve senior champion shown by Sheryl A. Horst, Newmanstown. Herrvales Royal Sheila-Red is the seven-year-old daughter of Romandale Royal-Red, out of Sheila Wea-land-Red. She was bred by Karl W. Herr, Kirkwood, and is estimated to record 24,000 pounds milk with 940 pounds fat.

This is Sheryl's first and last year of competition in the Lebanon FFA dairy show. Originally with the Cloister Chapter, Sheryl transferred to the Elco chapter last year in anticipation of her May, 1981 marriage to Lebanon County's Kirby Horst.

David Bomgardner's Mil-Harv Ivan Thunder began her parade to the 4-H grand championship by placing first in her class of three-year-olds and later being tagged senior champion Thunder is a Mil-Harv Ivan Pickland daughter out of a homebred dam, Mil-Harv Yankee Topper. She is estimated at 16,000 pounds milk with 590 pounds fat.

Dave Bomgardner's three-year-old 'Thunder', helped end Dave's 4-H showing career in a winning way — taking the grand championship in the Holstein show.

Dave, who is the 18-year-old son of Harry and Mildred Bomgardner, completed his last year in 4-H competition with the highest possible honors. It was the final step for the young dairyman who showed the reserve grand champion Holstein at last year's Lebanon show.

Trading places at the top this year was Dale Weaver, the son of John Weaver, Myerstown. Dale had exhibited last year's grand champ, but settled for reserve grand in this year's tough contest with his entry, Apple. Apple stood second to the grand champ all the way through the show, placing second in her three-year-old class and reserve senior and grand champion. Bred by Hubert S. Miller, Myerstown, Apple is a Hillhaven Standout Job daughter out of Lime-Rock Astronaut Sue Apple. Her record as a two-year-old was 13,900 pounds milk and 516 pounds fat.

Mill Del Marlene is the four-year-old daughter of White Cloud Doreen's Delegate, out of Wind Mill Jolene. She was bred by William R Daubert, Pine Grove

Patti also competed in the 4-H Brown Swiss show and took the grand champion honors with her three-year-old cow, Marty L Princess Also tagged senior champion, this animal is a daughter of White Cloud Doreen's Delegate, out of Marty L Pretzel. She was bred by Martin and Esther Daubert, Pine Grove.

For the 4-H reserve grand champion Brown Swiss, Gary Mase's junior yearling heifer, the junior champion, was tagged. Witla Nobelmen Tonya, an April, 1980 daughter of Witla Elegan Nobleman out of Witla Telstar Tydee, was bred by J Rohrer Witmer.

In the FFA Guernsey show, Susan Heilinger (Patti's older sister) took both the grand and reserve grand championships with her mother and daughter entries. Respecting the elder, Judge King selected age before youthful beauty when he chose Susan's aged cow, Liseter Jules Flower, for senior and grand champion. Flower is the six-year-old daughter of Bushy Park Jules Moonshot out of Liseter Flaming Daisy. She was bred by Lister Farm, Newton Square.

Tom Smith, the son of Robert and Betty Smith, owners of Ja-Mar Dairy, exhibited the grand champion in the 4-H Guernsey show. Lebanon Valley Super Kanaga, the senior yearling heifer and junior champion, bested the senior champion and reserve grand champion shown by Timothy Arnold, 13, the son of Jack and Betsy Arnold, Schaefferstown.

Marilyn and Marlin Deaven, a brother-sister team of Jersey breeders from Fredericksburg, swept both the 4-H and FFA competition. Marilyn, 18, took the grand and reserve grand champion honors in the FFA show with her four-year-old and three-year-old entries.

Faithful Pacesetter Lassie 2, the senior and grand champion, is the daughter of Golden Faithful, out of Pacesetter Favorite Lassie. She was bred by Darlene McConaughey, Smicksburg.

The reserve senior and grand champion was Marilyn's homebred Mar-De Kara. She was sired by H.V.F. Pacese Her, out of Duke Moon Girl.

In the 4-H Jersey show, Marilyn shared the top honors with younger brother Marlin whose senior heifer calf, Charming Vanessa, was chosen junior champion and later grand champion. Vanessa is an Advancers Prince Charming daughter out of Patience Bas Cantrice. She was bred by F.E. Maynard, Pottstown.

Marilyn's reserve grand champion was the reserve junior champion, a senior yearling heifer called Mar-De Supreme Marcy. This homebred heifer was sired by Supreme Virginian out of Cicadas S.B Mary.

In the 4-H Ayrshire show, Heather Hernley, Lebanon, exhibited her aged cow, Green Brae Betty's Gem, to take the senior champion and grand champion honors.

Heather also showed the grand

champion Ayrshire in the FFA show. Her three-year-old, Ann Ayr Fortune Valerie, was senior champion. She placed over Brian Tshudy's reserve senior champion and reserve grand Ayrshire, a senior two-year-old bred by John and Mary Tshudy.

In the Club Herd competiton, Northern Lebanon had the first place FFA Holstein herd, followed by Annville-Cleona and Cedar Crest. Top honors in the FFA Colored Breeds herd competition also went to Northern Lebanon, with Elco taking second.

The top 4-H Holstein herd was exhibited by NoSoAnn, with Elco taking second and Norlebco taking third. In the Colored Breeds, Elco took the blue ribbons, with NoSoAnn placing second followed by Norlebco.

Farmers Union testifies on mushroom imports

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The National Farmers Union testified last Friday on behalf of mushroom growers to the U.S. International Trade Commission.

In a brief submitted August 7 before the committee, NFU Director of Legislative Services Robert Mullins said it is clear that the economic well-being of the domestic mushroom producer is tied directly to the well being of the domestic packing and canning industry.

"Increasing competition from imported processed mushrooms is denying a significant portion of the processed mushroom market to domestic growers," Mullins stated. "In the past decade, we have seen imports increasingly displace production for processing use. Ten years ago, imported processed mushrooms accounted for 19 percent of processed domestic consumption. In 1980, imports had displaced almost 40 percent of domestic production for processing use. That figure today is even higher."

Mullins urged the committee to again find, as it had in the past, that the unfair competition from imported mushrooms is detrimental to the domestic processing and producing industries.

"On October 29, 1980, the President issued a proclamation which provided for increased duties on importation of certain domestic mushrooms into the United States. This proclamation was issued after a thorough examination by the International Trade Commission. We contend the circumstances have not changed and that the order as issued should continue. We find no justification for import relief by this Administration."

Enter Hay Show and see how yours measures up

UNIVERSITY PARK — Pennsylvania farmers will have an opportunity again this year to show their top hay samples in the State Hay Show to be held as part of the 1981 Agricultural Progress Days.

The Hay Show and Ag Progress Days are scheduled for August 25-27 at the Rock Springs Agricultural Research Center of Penn State, nine miles west of State College on Route 45.

"Entries must be brought or delivered to the Hay Show Tent by 10 A.M. on August 25," says John Baylor, Penn State Extension agronomist and Hay Show chairman.

However, to facilitate handling of samples, Baylor urges exhibitors to deliver their samples to the Hay Show Tent on August 24, if possible. Hay shipped or delivered prior to August 25 should be clearly identified and sent to 106 Agricultural Administration Building, University Park, PA 16802.

Samples may be entered in one of three sections: field cured; heat finished; or treated with a hay preservative. There are 13 separate classes of hay in the field cured and heat finished sections and six classes in the hay preservative section.

Exhibitors may enter in as many classes as they wish, but no exhibitor will be permitted to enter more than one sample in a class, either in his or her own name, the name of the farm, or the name of some other person.

"Premiums will be awarded for the first five places in each class," Baylor points out. "Samples placing first, second, or third in any class are stored for the display at the 1982 Pennsylvania Farm Show."

Additional details, including the Hay Show brochure and entry forms, are available from the local Cooperative Extension Service office.

The Hay Show is sponsored by Penn State's Cooperative Extension Service with assistance from the Pennsylvania Grassland Council.

Theme for this year's Ag Progress Days is Penn State Agriculture—Depend on It! And programs will feature old and new ideas for both the farm and home on food and feed production and energy conservation.

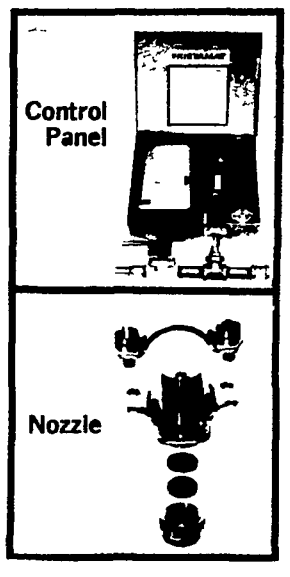
BEAT THE SUMMER HEAT...

SPRINKLER COOLING SYSTEM
(Not Fogger)
FOR HOGS

THE PROBLEM
When the temperature goes up one of the first ways your body reacts is by breaking out in perspiration That's nature's way of cooling off
It's different with hogs High temperatures cause them a great deal of stress because they can't sweat When under this stress due to heat hogs will lose their appetite, weight gains drop, there is poor feed conversion, conception rate is reduced and pens become a mess All of this adds up to lost profits

THE SOLUTION:
When the temperature is above 72° F even ventilation can't cure the stress that results But a sprinkler cooling system can help your hogs where nature fell short, giving them a chance to cool off It sprays them with coarse water droplets to reduce their body temperature The idea is simple, but extremely effective

THE SYSTEM:
The sprinkle cycle is turned on automatically whenever the barn temperature rises above a preset level 72° F Throughout this "on" period the control functions to permit sprinkling to occur for a preset time period each hour (2 minutes/hour is recommended for best results) When the barn temperature drops below 72° F the cycle is automatically interrupted



The nozzles are clamped to a plastic pipe strung over the gutter of slatted area at the rear of the pen Each nozzel covers a 5 6 foot diameter area which usually means one nozzle per pen The nozzle assures a coarse droplet spray pattern which is important for maximum cooling A fine mist of fog is not desirable in geographical areas of generally high summer relative humidity

THE PROOF:

	Control Hogs not sprayed	Hogs Sprayed 1 min per hr above 85°F	Hogs Sprayed 1 min per ½ hr above 70°F	Hogs Sprayed 1 min per hr above 70°F
Average daily gain per hog	1 37	1 62	1 62	1 72
Average daily feed consumption per hog	5 84	6 77	6 72	6 67
Lbs feed per lb grain per day	4 38	4 18	4 16	3 89
Lbs feed save/hog	0	22	22	49

Research done at Ridgetown College of Agricultural Technology in Ontario and at the University of California have shown these results
* These figures are calculated on hogs from 100 lbs up to 200 lbs

SHIPPENSBURG — Carlyle Stull, Sandy Springs, Maryland exhibited the champion and reserve champion Polled Heretord females at the recent Shippensburg Fair.

Stull exhibited a junior yearling heifer and a two year old heifer to take the championships during the open class beet competition.

The Charolais competition at the Shippensburg Fair was taken by Andrew Rill of Newburg, who took champion heifer, and premier exhibitor.

Classes in showmanship and fitting were also judged during the beet classes.

AMS director announces retirement

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Herbert L Forest, the current director of the Agricultural Marketing Service Dairy Division, has announced his intention to retire.

According to a recent bulletin from the National Association for Milk Marketing Reform, Forest, a 47-year department member, has agreed to stay on until his successor is named.

The NAMMR has suggested to the Reagan Administration what criteria it should use in selecting a new director for the AMS.

AMS Administrator, Mildred Thyman, in a letter to Donald A. Randall, NAMMR's General Counsel, asked for recommendations from the Association for a replacement. NAMMR has agreed to submit names of candidates but, meanwhile, has suggested the criteria by which all candidates should be judged.

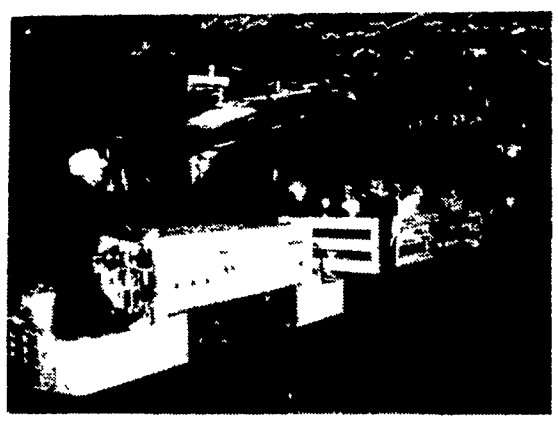
Tour Ashland's Pioneer Tunnel Coal Mine & Ride the Steam Lokie



Pioneer Tunnel Coal Mine

Who would ever dream that he would have an opportunity to visit an actual coal mine? By now you can, conveniently and in complete safety, at Ashland, Pa , in the heart of Pennsylania's famed anthracite region Here, thanks to the efforts of a group of civic minded citizens who formed a nonprofit organization for the purpose, a real honest-to-goodness coal mine managed by real coal miners has been restored as a tourist attraction

Pioneer Tunnel is what is known as a horizontal drift mine It runs for 1200 feet straight into the side of Mahanoy Mountain You make the trip in comfort, riding in open cars pulled by a battery-operated mine motor When you alight, deep inside Mahanoy Mountain, miner guides tell and show you the fascinating story of anthracite coal

The mine temperature averages 55°, so please bring your sweater or jacket At times water drips from the top of the mine and the floor planking is damp Also, guests ride in open cars behind the lokie, which is a coal burning engine Visitors are advised to dress accordingly

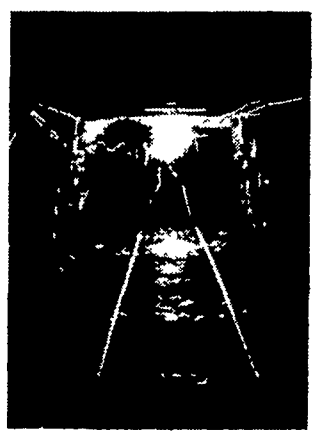
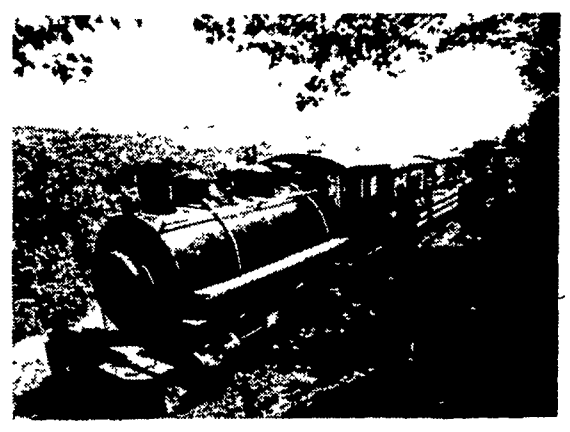
DAILY MAY 30 THROUGH SEPT. 6
WEEKENDS SEPT. 6
THROUGH OCT. 31



Picnic and playground facilities are available in a park adjoining Pioneer Tunnel Also nearby is a state-operated museum devoted to mining technology and geology

Moving on to the picturesque town of Ashland, another attraction awaits you a bronze replica of Whistler's famous "Mother" painting, erected as a memorial to the mothers of Ashland

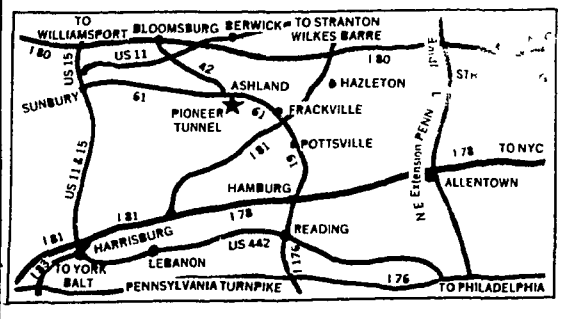
Geology buffs will enjoy searching for fossils near a gigantic exposed fault The fossil site is located about 1½ miles from Pioneer Tunnel, and guided tours can be arranged at the Tunnel Office



Steam Lokie

A big "added attraction" on your visit to Pioneer Tunnel is an opportunity to ride an old-fashioned, narrow-gauge, steam locomotive (lokie) the Henry Clay The Henry Clay, with its string of brightly colored mine cars and of course a red caboose, takes you on a three quarter mile ride around the side of Mahanoy Mountain to show you another kind of mining known as strip mining The Steam Lokie will take you to Mammoth Stripping - an area where an unusually thick seam of anthracite known as Mammoth Vein bent up to the surface of the earth Here, in days gone by, monstrous steam shovels of the Panama Canal type ripped out millions of tons of coal from the exposed seam and left a 150 foot high man-carved wall of solid rock extending as far westward as the eye can see You can look down into the gaping trenches man has left and almost hear the crashing, clanking, rumbling coal mining operations of yesteryear

Nearby is a relic "bootleg" coal hole This and others in the area were dug by men who were willing to defy trespass laws, brave caveins and company guards to obtain a few bags of coal to sell or heat their homes



Pioneer tunnel was selected as one of the top ten tourist attractions in PA in 1979, by PA Travel Advisory Council.
Group rates available on request.

Eckel assumes PFA president post

CAMP HILL — There is a new person 'sitting' in the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association president's chair. Keith Eckel, 34, of Clarks Summit, Lackawanna County, was elected to the position by PFA's 16-member board during a special meeting held last Thursday.

Eckel succeeds Eugene Thompson who resigned the previous week in order to assume the position of Acting State Executive Director of the USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Eckel, who had been serving as a PFA State Board Director since 1976 (representing four northeastern counties), will face another election for the organization's presidency in November when voting delegates from the 54 county associations convene for the annual meeting.

Along with his father and brother, Eckel assists in the operation of the family's dairy and cash crop farm. They milk 90 head of Holsteins, sell more than 800 tons of high moisture corn, 100,000 boxes of tomatoes and 400 tons of pumpkins annually.

Eckel holds a B.A. degree in political science from Dickenson College, Carlisle. He was a member of the first Kellogg Foundation Leadership Development Program conducted by Penn State Cooperative Extension Service, and served as past president of his county's Extension Association as well as one of the founders and former members of the State Board of Pennsylvania Council of Cooperative Extension Associations.

Along with being a director of the State Council of Farm Workers, Eckel also is on the Governor's Seasonal Farm Labor Committee and represents the State Vegetable Growers Association on the Agricultural Advisory Council at Penn State.

On resigning his president's post, Thompson brings to an end 18 years of county and state leadership in PFA. Thompson served as president of the Indiana County Farmers' Association for five years before he was elected as PFA second vice president in 1968. He served as vice president of PFA from 1972 to 1976, when he was elected president.

World champ auctioneer shares success

RUSHVILLE, Neb. — When a person from a small community succeeds, the townspeople share in that success, says Doug Jaggers, the 1981 World Livestock Auctioneer Champion.

And Doug ought to know. Since bringing the title back home this June, "it's been real nice" in Rushville for him. The city's Chamber of Commerce held a supper in his honor, there's been local newspaper coverage, and lots of friends and neighbors called or stopped by to offer him their congratulations.

Jaggers, the co-owner of the Sheridan Livestock Commission Company, also was interviewed by the area radio and television stations, but this has brought out one of the less pleasant aspects of his new-found fame, he said.

"They wanted me to auctioneer over the phone or in the living room," he said. He refused to do it. "I asked the T.V. man if he'd want to do the weather without his weather map," Jaggers said, "then he understood a little better."

Auctioneering outside a livestock auction market just doesn't ring true to Jaggers — it makes it too much like a sideshow. "To me, it's a big downgrading maybe. It takes away from what it's supposed to be," he said.

"My mother-in-law's never heard me auction 'cause she's never been here when we were having a sale," he said. "I wouldn't even do it for her."

But at the 18th annual auctioneer championship, which was held June 12 at the Saint Paul Union Stockyards in So. St. Paul, Minn., he did it well enough to stand out among the record 101 contestants. Of course, there he had a few drafts of cattle to work with.

Reserve champion auctioneer was Bud Knight, manager of Sturgis Livestock Exchange, Inc., Sturgis, S.D. As it turns out, in 1972 he and Jaggers roomed together when they attended the Western College of Auctioneering in Montana.

When Jaggers was asked if he thought they had picked up their winning auctioneering sytles at the college, he pointed out a closer influence. "We were both around an old-time auctioneer, Jack Churchill. He passed away a couple years back, but he used to sell at our auction," Jaggers said. "We both had heard him and liked him and possibly we picked up some things from him."

Even though his father, Bob, with whom he now has a partnership, has owned Sheridan Livestock Commission Company for nearly 27 years, Jaggers never expected to become part of the business. Up until 1971 his father had another partner, and Jaggers never envisioned there would be room for him.

So after graduating from high school and marrying his wife, Kathy, he took business classes at nearby Chadron State College.

Then, one day during his second year of college, his father called. "He said, 'I bought the other guy out' and asked if I'd be interested in giving it a try," Jaggers said. Soon afterward Jaggers and family moved back to Rushville.

Auctioneer

After working at the market for a while, becoming an auctioneer just seemed the natural thing to do, Jaggers said. The first night he was supposed to do the selling, shortly after returning from auctioneer school, he said he almost chickened out. But his father told him, "The longer you wait, the harder it'll be," so he went ahead and did it.

"The first time climbing up there...it was about like the night of the award," he said. When Jaggers was presented the World Livestock Auctioneer Championship award, he was so shocked he'd won that he asked the crowd, "Has anyone ever passed out at one of these?"

It was the first time he'd ever entered the contest, and it will also be the last — once a contestant's won the championship, he's ineligible to enter again.

He'd watched the auctioneer championship in 1973, when it was held in Norfolk, Nebraska. And he'd almost entered in 1979 and 1980, but it never quite worked out. However, winning the first time through is okay with him. "This is the way I'd rather go," he said.

The World Livestock Auctioneer Championship is sponsored annually by Livestock Marketing Association, Kansas City, Mo., and conducted by all allied company, Livestock Market Digest, Inc., Kansas City, to focus on the professionalism of the auctioneer in livestock marketing.

Farm Talk

Jerry Webb

Farming evolution was no 'over-night' revolution

Agriculture has gone through some tremendous changes over the past couple of centuries.

From hand power to horsepower; from horsepower to mechanical power. From a time when almost everyone had to farm just to get something to eat, to a time when hardly anyone farms and there's too much to eat.

It's been a very gradual evolution—in fact there was hardly any evolution at all from the time of the first settlers until the period surrounding the Civil War when man power became scarce and farmers were pressed into using horses and the many advanced machines available to do their farm work.

It may come as a surprise to many that American farmers were slow to change. They had neither the financial ability or the motivation to buy reapers, gang plows, grain drills, threshing machines, and all the rest of the gadgets available to them in the mid-1800s.

Sure, they had horses and oxen, and they were used as beasts of burden. But they were utilized much the same as they had for centuries. They did the really heavy work that men could not do, like pulling a wooden plow, dragging heavy stones and logs, or pulling a wagon. But seeds were planted by hand and crops were cultivated with a hoe and most harvesting was a slow, laborious hand process.

In the years just prior to the Civil War, it took about 50 manhours to produce an acre of wheat. Typical farming technique of the period involved a walking plow, a bundle of brush used as a harrow, hand broadcasting of the seed, harvesting with a sickle, and threshing with a flail. For that effort, the farmer reaped about 20 bushels of grain.

With that kind of labor requirement, it's easy to see why about two-thirds of those gainfully employed in this country during that time were involved in farming.

Advanced farm machinery was available in the pre-Civil War period—it just wasn't being used by farmers. In the first place it cost money, and that was something farmers didn't have. They could go for years and never see more than a few dollars as they ate what they produced and bartered for the things they couldn't produce. And so to invest in a grain drill or a threshing machine was out of the question.

Inventors were spitting out new equipment ideas during the first half of the 19th Century, much faster than farmers were willing to change. Here's a partial list of farm machinery that was patented during that period: a mowing machine, an iron plow with interchangeable parts, a revolving hay rake, a grain reaper, even a grain combine was patented in the early 1800s.

There were also major developments in other agricultural techniques during that period. New breeds of livestock, new crops, improved varieties of existing crops, agricultural magazines, advanced technology in food preservation, and transportation.

It was a magnificient time for new technology, and yet farmers were slow to adopt this new information. And then, in 1861 a Civil War began and it triggered the first great agricultural revolution. Two factors—a shortage of manpower and a general improvement in farm incomes caused farmers to start looking at new ways to do things. Other developments followed that assured a continuing flow of agricultural technology, and an exodus from agriculture began that has continued to this day.

In 1820 there were almost 10 million people in the United States, with 72 percent of those gainfully employed engaged in agriculture.

By 1890, the population had increased to more than 60 billion, but barely a third lived on farms. Of course, that was a time of expanding agriculture through the westward movement. There were homesteads to be had, land to be cleared, and agriculture was growing. But it was growing with less and less man-hours per acre and per unit of production.

A farmer was still growing 20 bushels of wheat to the acre, but he was doing it with only 10 hours of labor. And he was using a gang plow, a mechanical seeder, a harrow, a binder, and a threshing machine — all powered with horses.

World War I signaled another dramatic shift in farm production as the tractor started to replace horsepower. By 1930, the typical farmer was still producing 20 bushels of wheat per acre, but he was doing that with only four hours of labor. And he was using a tractor pulling a three-bottom gang plow, a 10-foot tandom disk, and a grain combine. He also hauled his output to market in a truck.

But consider this: U.S. population has reached almost 123 million people while the farm population had increased by only four million, compared with 40 years before. The country was growing, but the farm population had virtually stagnated, even at a time when farm productivity was expanding.

Today, a handful of Americans till this great continent from coast to coast, using large machinery, sophisticated technology, and huge amounts of capital. And instead of man-hours per acre, farmers count acres per man hour.

If you're against progress, then you don't like the story of American agriculture.

If you yearn for the good old days of sweaty horses, hand-picked corn and a walking plow, then you can probably see lots of things wrong with modern agriculture.

But when you sit down at the dinner table tonight, remember that progress puts food on the table in unheard of, even unnecessary abundance, and still one acre in four produces for the world market.

USDA proposes change in marking meat products

WASHINGTON — Requirements for the sale, transportation and marking of certain meat products would be simplified under a rule proposed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Donald L. Houston, administrator of USDA's Food Safety and Inspection Service, said the proposal is intended to reduce the paperwork requirements imposed on the meat industry in the transportation of edible and inedible meat food products.

Under the proposal, the food safety and inspection agency plans to delete two shippers' certificates currently required for the transportation of U.S. inspected and passed meat and meat food products.

The proposal also would expedite the return of alleged adulterated or misbranded meat products by retail stores to slaughter or processing plants by revoking a special permit now needed to accompany the products. In it's place, the proposal would require that oral permission be obtained from the federal supervisor of the area in which the plant is located.

Ag speaks out on pros and cons of 'Block Vote' Bill

NEDCO

My names is James Beaver, Bellefonte, Pennsylvania. I am representing the Northeast Dairy Cooperative Federation, Inc (NEDCO), 428 South Warren Street, Syracuse, New York.

NEDCO is a federation of 54 Cooperatives, with 3,000 producer-members located in Pennsylvania, New York, and New Jersey. Approximately one-third of the producer-members are residents of Pennsylvania.

In the opinion of NEDCO, House Bill 767 serves little purpose, and is not needed.

Specifically, NEDCO objects to changing the requirement for approval of a marketing order from a majority to a two-thirds majority by number. We feel that if a majority of those voting approve an order, this is sufficient indication of the need and the acceptance of the provisions contained therein.

Furthermore, the requirement for majority approval by number and majority by volume gives added assurance of the acceptance. This double requirement safeguards the industry from the possibility of having a program voted into effect by small producers that are not representative. There is no requirement for measuring approval by volume under the two-thirds proposal. This, too, is a shortcoming of the Bill.

NEDCO also unequivocally opposes the provision of House Bill 767, that eliminates bloc voting for coopertaives and substitutes individual voting. Bloc voting by Cooperatives is an important and integral part of any marketing order program.

Producers unite together in a cooperative to gain strength and support, and in fact to speak as one. This, bloc voting accomplishes. Through the election of a board of directors, the cooperative members have delegated their authority to act on their behalf in all cooperative matters. If they become dissatisfied with the board action, members can be removed by not being re-elected.

Actually, this is a form of representative voting such as we have in our state and federal governments, where our elected representatives cast our vote for us. Only in very unusual situations (constitutional amendments) is the general populace allowed to vote. Their voice is heard in the election of those who will represent them.

A farmer who joins a cooperative association, transfers to the cooperative responsibility for marketing produce. Farmers commit all of their production to the cooperative, and the cooperative is committed to finding the best available market for all of the milk its members produce.

Since marketing orders and programs are an important tool which cooperatives use in marketing members' milk, it is reasonable that the cooperative be able to vote on behalf of its entire membership on proposed marketing programs.

History under Federal Order #2, shows that if cooperatives were not voting in bloc, it would be very difficult, if not impossible, to get changes made in orders. Relatively few individual ballots are filed, and those that are filed, come from those who are opposed, and wish to block passage. As in many referendums and elections, those that are against the program are the ones that vote.

The proposal in House Bill 767, to shorten the period between referendums to determine whether or not two-thirds of those voting still desire a marketing program from five years to three years, is also opposed by NEDCO. An obvious reason to object is the cost of more frequent referendums. This is an expensive procedure for all involved, and without an overpowering need, is a useless expenditure of money.

In addition, a period of three years is not long to determine if a program is, or is not, going to be successful. This could easily result in the determination that a program is unsuccessful, when, and if allowed to operate for five years, the results might well have been quite different.

For the above reasons, NEDCO opposes the passage of House Bill 767. Passage would result in harming the industry, than it would in improving marketing conditions.

PACMA

My name is Guy Donaldson. I own and operate a 140 acre fruit farm near Fairfield in Adams County. I am a member of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association and serve as president of the Pennsylvania Agricultural Cooperative Marketing Association. I also am a member of Mountain Orchard Cooperative, Incorporated and Knouse Foods. I am immediate past chairman of the Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Board and serve on the Board of Trustees of the International Apple Institute.

I appreciate the opportunity to share my thoughts on House Bill 767 as a farmer, a cooperative member, and as president of the Pennsylvania Agricultural Cooperative Marketing Association.

I would like to address the section of House Bill 767 that proposes to eliminate modified bloc voting by cooperative associations. If we examine reasons cooperatives are formed and why farmers use their cooperatives, I believe it will be evident that cooperatives should also have the right to represent members in referendums.

I would like to use PACMA as an example. I believe that most cooperatives qualifying under current law to bloc vote for their members would be similar in nature and structure.

PACMA maintains a membership of 718 farmers. Agriculture commodities served by PACMA include fruit, cattle, vegetable, poultry, and swine. The geographic area covered by the cooperative includes Pennsylvania and parts of Maryland. PACMA is an affiliate of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association. We employ five staff specialists who serve as advisors to the cooperative board and handle the day to day business of the association.

The cooperative is controlled by a ten man Board of Directors who represent both a cross section of members, geographically and by commodity. Each director represents approximately 72 cooperative members and is elected to a three year term of office. The one man one vote principle of representative government is used to elect directors.

As president of PACMA, I have had many occasions to talk with cooperative members about the reasons for forming and joining PACMA.

Farmers join cooperatives because it provides them with the method and means to influence factors that they could not influence as individuals. By utilizing a representative form of government, members can work together to achieve mutual goals. These goals can include such things as receiving a higher price for products sold, obtaining a lower price for supplies needed, or influencing the outcome of a referendum. Members realize that in order to achieve this influence, they must voluntarily give up individual control and work together through their cooperative structure.

Farmers join cooperatives because as an individual they may not have the time or be willing to devote the time necessary to keep informed on all the factors that should be involved in making a decision. Instead, a member depends on his elected director to make the decisions that are in the best interests of the cooperative members.

We, on the PACMA board make great efforts to be in tune with member needs, and make decisions we believe to be in their best interest. Again, members voluntarily give up individual control and choose to rely on the cooperative structure to represent them in the best way possible.

To be eligible to bloc vote under provisions of the Pennsylvania Agricultural Marketing Act of 1968, a cooperative must meet the requirements of the Capper Volstead Act. The act states that a cooperative must be operated for the mutual benefit of its members insofar as they are producers of agricultural products.

When considering the requirements that cooperatives must adhere to in order to be eligible to bloc vote for its members, and the representative form of self government that is incorporated in cooperative structure, there can be no question that cooperatives are controlled by and act in the best interests of members

The Pennsylvania Agricultural Marketing Act of 1968 contains a method by which a cooperative member is notified of his right and given the opportunity to vote as an individual. I believe that when a cooperative member decides not to exercise this right, he is asking his elected Board of Directors to cast the vote in his best interest and use the pooled votes of all the cooperative members to influence the outcome of the referendum. I believe it is the right and obligation of a cooperative to cast the votes of its members, if the member does not exercise his right to vote as an individual.

For this reason I, as a farmer, a cooperative member and as President of the Pennsylvania Agricultural Cooperative Marketing association, ask you to oppose House Hill 767 and retain the right of democratically controlled cooperatives to exercise modified bloc voting on state referendums.

PFA Dairy Council

My name is Mervin Myers. I operate a 58 cow, 250 acre dairy farm near Littlestown in Adams County. My milk is marketed through Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative. I serve on the Dairy Action Committee of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association and a president of the Adams County Farmers' Association.

I appreciate the opportunity to comment on House Bill 767. My statement is being made on behalf of the more than 23,000 farm families who are members of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association. My comments are based on current policy of the organization.

PFA is composed of fifty-four county farmers' associations. Policy of PFA originates in these county units. It then passes through the policy development process and is voted on by county delegates at PFA's annual meeting. Several of the many policies adopted by delegates in November of 1980 deal with the provisions of House Bill 767.

If passed, House Bill 767 would change the requirements necessary to put a marketing program into effect. The law currently states that a majority by number and a majority of volume of those voting is needed to pass a referendum. House Bill 767 proposes that only a two-thirds majority by number of those voting be needed. No mention is made of volume.

PFA policy states "that the program shall be approved or amended by a majority of the eligible producers voting in a referendum, and these must represent 50 percent or more of the production of those voting."

We are concerned that the increase in numbers needed to pass a referendum and the elimination of the volume requirement could create a situation where the best interests of the full-time producer were not represented. It is the full-time producer with a large investment and long term commitment who will benefit the most or be hurt the most by promotion, research, market development, or information programs. The volume requirement insures that a marketing program must have the approval of the large full-time producer.

If passed, House Bill 767 would eliminate modified bloc voting by cooperatives. The law now allows a cooperative to bloc vote for its members provided that they are given notice of their right to vote as an individual and choose not to exercise that right.

PFA policy supports the current law and the concept of modified bloc voting by cooperatives. Our policy states "that the referendum shall be conducted according to either of the following two methods:

Referendum of individual producers; or

Bloc voting be permitted provided: the policy making body has issued a certified resolution permitting bloc voting for its members; individual members of a cooperative are mailed an individual ballot for the purpose of casting his or her vote; the votes cast by individual members of the cooperative are deducted from the bloc vote case by the members' cooperative; it be stated on the ballot that if the individual member of the cooperative does not vote, his vote will be bloc voted by his cooperative."

The Pennsyvania Agricultural Marketing Act says that a cooperative must meet provisions of the Capper Volstead Act in order to bloc vote. The Capper Volstead Act requires that cooperatives have a representative form of self-government. We believe that this form of government insures farmer control and allows adequate representation of the farmer as an individual in his cooperatives. Therefore, if a member is notified of his right to vote and chooses not to exercise that right, his cooperative should have the right to cast the vote in its member's best interest.

For the reasons I have outlined, the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association is opposed to the passage of House Bill 767. We believe the Pennsylvania Agricultural Marketing Act of 1968, as it stands, is in the best interests of our 23,376 farm family members, and should not be changed.

PFU

The Pennsylvania Farmers Union fully supports House Bill 767 and encourages your favorable consideration.

Our position on this bill has a basis in policy adopted at our 1981 State Convention. The statement adopted by delegates reads:

"We recommend that the Pennsylvania Cooperative Law be amended to prohibit any form of block voting."

It is clear that members of the Pennsylvania Farmers Union and the farming commodity at large are strongly opposed to the practice of block voting. They feel there should be no infringement whatever on their right to cast a vote in a commodity promotion referendum.

On a more fundamental basis, farmers should have the right not to cast a vote. The continued existence of block voting as provided currently in the commodity marketing act denies the farmer this right as well.

House Bill 767 also will raise the percentage of the vote required for passage from 50 percent to a 2/3 majority. Farmers Union supports this amendment since a referendum passed under provision of the commodity act would be absolutely mandatory for all producers of the commodity in Pennsylvania. A full mandatory, and perhaps costly, program should at least receive the support of 2/3 of those voting.

We urge you to report HB 767 from this committee (Agriculture and Rural Affairs) without amendment for consideration by the full House of Representatives. Passage of this bill would further the purposes of democracy in Pennsylvania's farming community.

Jack Philson, Chairman

PFU President

I am Carl L. Kaufman, Administrative Director of the Pennsylvania Farmers Union, Suite 608, 212 Locust Street, Harrisburg.

We are pleased to have the opportunity to address this committee on House Bill 767. I'd like to thank the Pennsylvania House Agriculture Committee and Chairman Grieco for their continuing efforts to strengthen the posture of agriculture in the Commonwealth.

The Farmers Union is an organization dedicated to the survival of the family farm structure. Recommendations presented here are the views of our members, taken directly from policy statements drafted annually by our county organizations.

Abraham Lincoln said it best when he stated: "If government strays from democratic principles, it is to that extent that government becomes less democratic." Current law permitting bloc voting by cooperatives does just that—strays from the basic democratic principles of all Pennsylvania

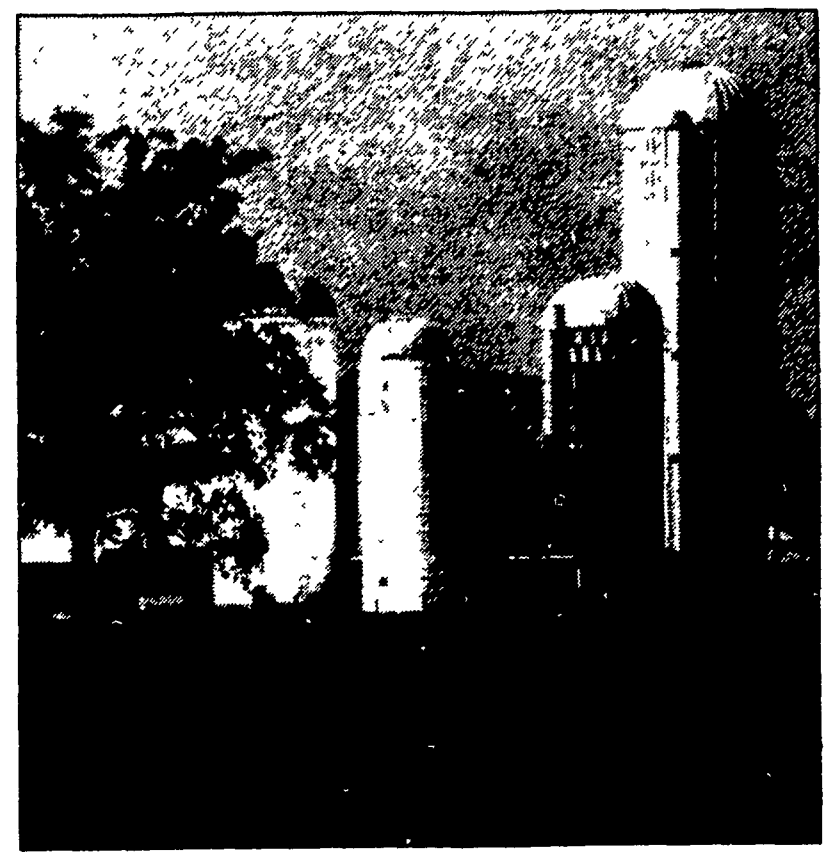
WE'RE NUMBER ONE!



Per Bale or Per Silo
Preserve Hay and Haylage Nutrients with BEACON PRE-SERV* Products!

If you use hay by the bale, Beacon Hay Pre-Serv lets you bale it at 25% moisture. This allows you to bale earlier in the day, later at night, and well before rain can damage it while drying. Baling at higher moisture levels means you get tougher hay with less leaf shatter . . .hay that cows definitely prefer, with as much as 20% more nutritional value!

If you ensile hay into hay crop silage, Beacon Silage Pre-Serv controls the fermentation process by speeding it up. Therefore, a stable silage condition is reached much sooner. Less heat is produced during the fermentation process. The reduced temperatures can lessen the chance of protein being heat-damaged.

That means more nutrients in the haylage where they can be used to make more milk. And that means less feed to buy.

Hay Pre-Serv. Silage Pre-Serv. Both are blends of food-grade mold inhibitors, anti-oxidants and flavors. They improve palatability and digestibility while they reduce spoilage. And both are easy and inexpensive to apply. Find out more about these great products now. Per bale or per silo, you'll get more milk production, and that means more profits!

'Block Vote' Bill

House Bill 767 seeks to amend the Pennsylvania Agricultural Commodities Marketing Act of 1968, which sanctioned cooperative bloc voting.

Our organization polled every state represented by the National Farmers Union and discovered that Pennsylvania was the only state issuing carte blanche voting rights to cooperatives in commodity referendums. The accepted practice of cooperatives in other states is to let the individual producer decide if a mandatory advertising program is suitable for their commodity.

If HB 767 is enacted, it will restore the co-op member's right to control the result of a referendum by voting for, against or deciding not to vote.

By allowing cooperatives to bloc vote for its membership, the co-op automatically assumes that all "no-show" votes are in agreement with that cooperative board's decision. The last referendum that relied heavily on cooperative bloc voting was the 1973 milk referendum. Of the number of cooperatives casting bloc votes, only eight of the thirty five agreed with the majority of individual producers who cast ballots.

For example, one cooperative cast its bloc votes in favor of the referendum, but 90 percent of the votes cast by individual producers disagreed with the co-op's decision. Farmers Union members feel a cooperative is remiss to assume that all no show votes are in agreement with the opinion of the board, especially, when the voting members do disagree at such a substantial rate.

When the referedum vote concerns a mandatory promotion program, shouldn't the ultimate decision be in the hands of each producer and not the co-op board? We have yet to see a cooperative agreement stating that the co-op board shall cast the votes of all members who fail to vote.

If the political parties in this country were given permission to bloc vote for its registered members who failed to vote, the electoriate would be up in arms. Think of the havoc bloc voting would cause to our representative form of government.

The same havoc is occurring in rural Pennsylvania. Farmers want to have sole control of their vote in referendums, even if it means exercising their right not to vote.

To clarify a question earlier submitted by a member of this committee, an elected official in the General Assembly does not bloc vote for his constituents. His vote on legislation is a representative form of voting. If his decisions do not coincide with the wishes of his constituents, they have the power to vote him out of office.

In a cooperative structure, members elect delegates who then vote for cooperative board members. The cooperative board member, who decides which way a bloc vote is submitted, is not at the mercy of his members His seat on the board was chosen by delegates. So in reality, he is one step removed from the democratic process.

In response to other portions of HB 767, we feel that a three year review of the marketing order is time enough for producers to determine whether they are investing their dollars wisely. Under current law, if a program does not meet the expectations of the producer, he must continue to subsidize it for a five year period. We feel a three year review is an adequate time frame in which to determine the effectiveness of a marketing order.

HB 767 also increases the votes needed for passage of a referendum from a simple majority and 50 percent of production, to a two-thirds majority without regard to production.

By eliminating the production clause, the individual producer stands to gain on two points. First, it would simplify the process of conducting check-offs. Tabulating production in addition to total votes is a complicated and costly formula. Secondly, by taking production into account, the vote of a farmer who produces an abundant supply of that commodity has a stronger vote than the small family farmer with less production. So a man with a million dollars has a stronger voice than a man with a thousand dollars.

By eliminmating production considerations and increasing the votes needed for passage of a referendum, administrative costs for tabulation will also be reduced. Under the basic principles of a democracy, the concept of "one man-one vote", with each vote carrying the same weight, is the cornerstone of a free society. The farmers of Pennsylvania, however, do not have this same basic freedom in commodity referendum votes.

Many of the cooperatives testifying have said that House Bill 767 will inhibit them from adequately representing their membership in commodity referendums. What they fail to mention is that bloc voting contradicts the main principles that guide cooperatives.

The Rochdale Principles, which date back to 1844, are the basic rules that most member-owned cooperatives follow. The Rochdale Principles clearly state that the co-op is democratically controlled, with each member having an equal vote. There is no consideration for production or monetary status, and each member controls his own vote.

Current law is a direct defiance to these set of guidelines that cooperatives have followed for over a century. House Bill 767 will change all that.

In closing, may I say that the Pennsylvania Farmers Union is not attempting to be anti-cooperative. In fact, the Farmers Union has a long and illustrious history of forming farmer-owned cooperatives. National Farmers Union has organized more cooperatives in the last 79 years than all other organizations combined.

Our main concern is that each farmer in this state has an equal vote, equal representation and full control of their own vote. Producers in Pennsylvania are responsible enough to make their own decisions, especially when it comes to mandatory advertising. If advertising is a good thing in the eyes of the producer, the vote will reflect it under the proposals of House Bill 767.

But under current law, the mandate of an advertising program is controlled by the wishes of a cooperative board, and not the individual farmer. For these reasons, the Pennsylvania Farmers Union is in full support of House Bill 767.

Adams fruit growers hear insect, disease reports

By M.H. Citt

BENDERVILLE — Adams County fruit growers heard a report last Wednesday evening from Larry Hull, assistant professor of Entomology at Penn State, warning of one "of the biggest years we've seen for the Tufted Apple Bud Moth."

"We saw a large number of second generation moths last year," Hull noted, "That increase can be seen in this season's first generation.

"Last year, the highest trap count we had for the first generation was 100. This year the number has jumped to 175 in one trap and 200 in another which means we will probably see more second generation moths."

According to Hull, the second generation inflicts more damage because the moths eat the fruit, while the first generation feeds on the leaves. He told the growers that to knock down the number of first generation moths will require more water in the spray to reach the insects. But he admitted, this may not be sufficient because the moths can be living on other hosts outside the orchards.

The second generation will start about August 10 and peak around August 29 and end about the first week of September. To combat the second generation, Hull recommended the growers use the best selection of chemicals they can with more water to penetrate to the fruit clusters and shorten the intervals between spraying.

Another feature of the fruit growers meeting which was held at the Flying Hill Farm of the Sunny View Fruit Orchard, was Extension Agricultural Engineer Donald Daum who demonstrated sprayer calibration.

Daum urged the growers to check their sprayers' actual output by filling the sprayer and going over an area of ground and seeing how much water it takes to refill the tank.

"This will give you the information you need so you don't over or under spray," Daum noted "Just normal wear on the apertures will affect the amount of water coming out and large openings may not atomize the solution to give a fine spray."

He also reminded the group to remember the number of square feet in an acre and to find out how many trees they have per acre. "If you know that there is 43,560 square feet in an acre and the space between the trees and the distance between the rows you can find the number of trees in an acre."

Daum then calibrated two sprayers by filling them up and operating them over two-tenths of an acre, then seeing how much was needed to refill the equipment. Both were within ten percent of normal. One was estimated to be putting down 20 gallons per acre and the other was approximately 75 gallons. The test showed actual use to be over 17 gallons and 80 gallons respectively.

Before the meeting the members toured the farm owned by Fremont Kuntz. The farm has over 400 acres of apple trees and 35 acres of pear trees.

During the tour, Fremont pointed out his EM7A semi-dwarf apple trees, which only grow two thirds as tall as normal trees. He told the growers he has not lost a new tree this year and gave credit to good tramping of the soil around the roots and spraying Thiram the first two years to keep deer away.

Other speakers at the meeting included Richard Stouffer on nematode sampling and types of nematicides. The best time to collect samples for testing, he explained, is May and June or September and October when the ground is moist. Samples should be sent to the laboratory as soon as possible because the nematodes must be alive for analysis. "I also can help make recommendations, if you tell me the types of trees being grown in the soil and how old they are," added Stouffer.

Concerning nematicides, Stouffer noted fumigants penetrate soil and are generally more effective than contact nematicides. But no fumigant-type nematicides have been approved for use on living trees. Only contact nematicides can be used in established orchards, and only on non-bearing trees. He noted that other states have an emergency permit to use fumigents on bearing trees, but Pennsylvania does not have that approval.

A reminder to watch out for fungi was expressed by Kenneth Hickey, professor of Plant Pathology at Penn State. He noted he had observed cases of apple scab and it's starting to spread due to the wet weather. He also reminded the growers to watch out for "Flyspeck" and "Osooty Blotch" fungi which appear during the wet season. These two fungi will affect the fruit's appearance which may not be important for processed fruit but is for fruits destined for the fresh market.

Adams County Extension Agent Thomas Piper concluded the meeting by reminding the growers to get leaf samples tested; that the South Mountain Fair starts the week of September 7th; and that it would be a good idea for the growers to inspect and set aside fruit for the 1982 Pa. Farm Show.

SPOKANE, Wash. — The Soil Conservation Society of America presented its Hugh Hammond Bennett Award to R. Geoffrey Downes, retired director of conservation and permanent head of the Victoria Ministry of Conservation, Eaglemont, Victoria, Australia, last Thursday evening.

Society President Robert C. Baum of Salem, Oregon, presented the award to Downes at a banquet concluding the conservation organization's 36th annual meeting held here this week.

The Hugh Hammond Bennett Award, named after the "Father of U.S. Soil Conservation" and a founder of the Society, is SCSA's most prestigious award. It is given to no more than one individual each year in recognition of distinguished service and international accomplishments in the conservation of land and water resources. The recipient may be a member or nonmember of the Society.

Downes was cited for his professional concern for natural resources management and land and water conservation throughout his career.

Hearings cite preservation and parity

HARRISBURG — Farmland preservation, milk parity and an even greater increase in the farm inheritance tax exemption were among the concerns spelled out to U.S Sen. Arlen Specter in hearings on farm problems in Harrisburg on Monday.

Specter chaired the hearings Monday morning as a member of the Agriculture Subcommittee and its parent Senate Appropriations Committee.

Two Lancaster Countians spoke out in favor of the federal government and the Reagan administration taking a firm policy stand in favor of farmland preservation

Pro-preservation statements were given by Amos H Funk, of Millersville, noted preservation leader; and Jesse Wood, of Nottingham, chairman of the Agriculture Committee of the Pennsylvania State Grange

"I believe it is important that Reagan enunciate a national policy and go on record that it's vital to protect our agricultural land," Funk said

Funk went on to commend Congress for directing the National Agricultural Land Study. He recommended that the federal government set policy within and among the 37 agencies which have input on land use throughout the country to help guarantee the preservation of productive farmland.

"There is no best effective method for farmland preservation that will work in all parts of the country," Funk continued.

"But efforts should be concentrated on the local level with farmers having a direct participation in their program."

Funk also favored financial incentive for long-term guarantees by farmers to retain land in productive agriculture.

In addition to farmland preservation, Wood testified on behalf of State Grange interest in adequate money for soil and water conservation practices in any agricultural funding for Agriculture Conservation Programs.

Grange policy favors $300 million in federal funding for ACP in the upcoming year.

In addition to speaking out for continuation of the REA program, Paul Tetherow, assistant general manager of the Pennsylvania Rural Electric Association, favored a sound lending program for the Farmers Home Administration.

"We don't want farmers more at the mercy of the huge banking interests," he said.

"They'd just be caught in a tighter squeeze if de-regulation allows the city banks to buy up the smaller rural banks.

"And the inheritance tax exemption should be at least a million dollars for a farm."

But the hike in the exemption from $175,000 to $600,000 is a step in the right direction, Specter commented.

Tetherow also called for upgrading of the inland waterway system He explained that a gallon of diesel moves farm products 75 ton miles by truck, 250 ton miles by railroad and 400 ton miles by barge.

Also testifying was Harold Ely, a dairy farmer, from Montrose and president of the Pennsylvania Association of Farmer Cooperatives.

Specter questioned him quite closely on the effects of the waiver of the April 1 milk support and the level that parity should be set in the farm bill.

"Seventy-five percent is a must for parity," Ely said.

"And 80 percent would keep young farmers in business who are going to be squeezed out."

Ely explained he has seen some dairy farm sales, mostly by elderly people who have had it.

"The young farmers will be able to hang in for about another year,

Soil Conservation Society announces election results

SPOKANE, Wash. — Robert C. Baum of Salem, Oregon, began a one-year term as president of the Soil Conservation Society of America last Thursday.

Baum, who is Pacific Region Representative for the National Association of Conservation Districts, was elected president-elect by members of the international conservation organization a year ago. He has been serving as president of the society for the last two months, following the resignation of 1980 President Jesse Hicks.

Baum now begins his regular one-year term of office. Joining him on the Society's Executive Committee for the next year will be president-elect Chris J. Johannsen, Extension agronomy specialist-land use, University of Missouri, Columbia; vice-president Floyd E. Heft, retired chief, Division of Soil and Water Districts, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Columbia; and second vice-president Roland R. Willis, state conservationist, Soil Conservation Service, Stillwater, Oklahoma. H. Lynn Horak, vice-president and manager of the bond investment division, Iowa-Des Moines National Bank, Des Moines, Iowa, will remain as appointed treasurer. Officers serve one-year terms.

The Society also announced the election of two new Council members and the re-election of a third. Elmer E. Offerman, public information officer, SCS, Storrs, Connecticut was re-elected to a three-year term as councilman for the Society's Northeastern Region.

Thomas J. Thiel, program analyst, Agricultural Research Service, Peoria, Illinois, was elected councilman for the West North Central Region. Amos I. Garrison, state conservationist, SCS, Boise, Idaho, was elected councilman for the Western Region.

Continuing as members of the Council in other Society regions are Maurice G. Cook, Raleigh, North Carolina, in the Southeast; Carl V. Thompson, Alexandria, Louisiana, in the South Central; Donald E. Van Meter, Muncie, Indiana, in the East North Central; Norris P. Swanson, Lincoln, Nebraska, in the Northern Plains; Earl Burnett, Temple, Texas, in the Southwest; and David R. Cressman, Kitchener, Ontario, in Canada. Council members serve three-year terms.

The Society also announced the results of voting for the vice-chairmen positions of the Society's resource conservation divisions, the technical arm of SCSA. The vice-chairmen automatically become chairmen of the divisions in 1982-83.

The newly elected vice chairmen include: Energy Resources Division, Lloyd N. Mielke, soil scientist, ARS, Lincoln, Nebraska; Environmental Education Division, Michael O. Cornett, district conservationist, SCS, Cullman, Alabama; Fish and Wildlife Resources Division, J. Phil Edwards, state biologist, SCS, Raleigh, North Carolina; Human Resources Division, Merlin W. Erickson, agricultural economist, Economic Research Service, Lincoln, Nebraska; Plant Resources Division, Donald S. Henry, plant materials specialist, SCS, Lexington, Kentucky; Soil Resources Division, John L. Nowland, soil correlator, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, Ontario; and Water Resources Division, Eckhart Dersch, Extension specialist and professor, Michigan State University, East Lansing.

The Society is a private, non-profit, scientific and educational organization dedicated to advancing the science and art of good land use. It has about 14,000 members in the United States, Canada, and about 80 foreign countries.

but you're not going to see the real effects for the next 12 to 18 months," Ely said.

"We can't abandon the dairy supports and 75 percent parity is an absolute rock-bottom."

Ely also asked for continuation of the school milk program and limitations on casein imports.

State Ag Secretary Penrose Hallowell stressed that high priority should be given to help ag product marketing and continued federal backing of agricultural research.

Each of the ag leaders addressing Specter pointed out that farmers generally are in favor of Reagan's economic measures and the farm segment is willing to do its part, but "doesn't want to be left out on a limb."

Specter described Reagan's economic and tax program as a good plan, not a perfect one —DA

Fulmer, Palmer win at Plainfield

Judge James Shaw, of Berks County, named Danielle Palmer's aged Brown Swiss cow as the Grand Champion of the colored breeds show. Reserve Grand Champion honors went to Jeffrey Horn's four-year-old Jersey.

In the Holstein show, Judge Shaw awarded the grand championship to Michele Fulmer's aged cow. Thomas Weber's aged cow took Reserve Grand Champion Honors.

Suzanne Weber's fancy intermediate calf took the Junior Champion award and Jennifer Bush's Senior Calf was awarded Reserve Junior Champion.

Wanted: Century Farms

LANCASTER — The Century Farms Program, administered by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, will continue through this year.

The Century Farms Program is aimed at recognizing the efforts of Pennsylvania's farm families which have preserved the traditions and the rural heritage of the pioneer farm.

Pennsylvania's pioneer farmers persevered through all kinds of difficulties. The hardships of farming and settlement were offset somewhat by compensations of farm life. Certain virtues and ideals were developed...thrift, close family and community life, cooperation, reverence for the Creator, self-reliance and a love of liberty.

More than 700 farms from 63 counties have been certified as Century Farms in the first three years of the program, but the Agriculture Department estimates at least 2,000 more farms are eligible for certification.

To be eligible for certification as a Pennsylvania Century Farm, a farm must have been owned by the same family for the last 100 consecutive years, and a family member must currently reside on the land. In addition, the farm must consist of ten or more acres of the original holdings or gross at least $1,000 a year from the sale of agricultural products.

The Century Farms Program was initiated as part of the nation's bicentennial observance in 1976, but is being continued for its value in promoting the ideals of the family farm and the importance of farming to Pennsylvania's economy. Completed application forms will be held in the State Archives for use by future historians.

The application forms are available by writing Century Farms Program, Penn State Extension Service, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster, PA 17601 or by calling 717-394-6851.

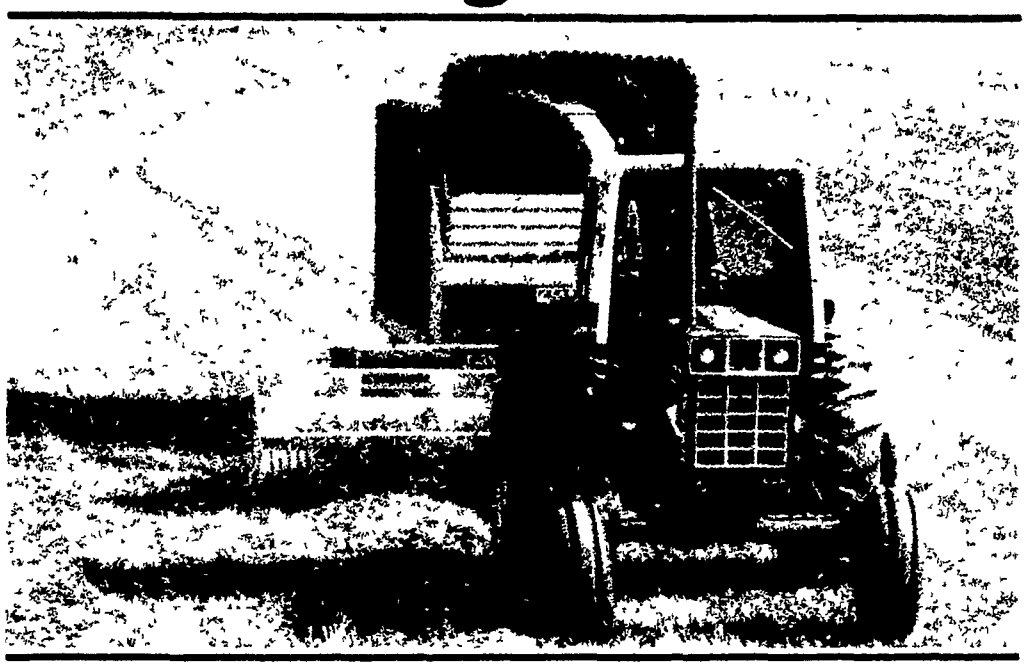
Keep a good crop with Vigortone Silage Granules



Even your best forage loses valuable nutrients during natural fermentation. But, by limiting the amount of nutrient-robbing heat in your silo, Vigortone Silage Granules help maintain feed-value. Laboratory tests showed that alfalfa haylage treated with silage granules retained 65% more protein than untreated haylage. And Total Digestible Nutrients (TDN) of corn silage increased 7% over untreated.

Make feed go farther

Proper use of Vigortone Silage Granules allows you to harvest earlier at higher moisture levels. Wasteful runoff is reduced, and palatability preserved.

Vigortone Silage Granules can pay for themselves many times over (only 1 pound needed per ton silage). This year, keep your crops nutrient-rich. See your Vigortone dealer today.

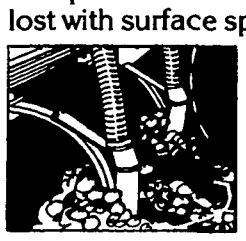
Switch fertilizer tanks to a Calumet vacuum tank with soil injector

Liquid hog manure can save thousands of dollars in commercial fertilizer costs. So it makes sense to preserve that value with good management.

That's why Calumet recommends pairing our vacuum tank with a 2 or 4-shank Calumet soil injector. Soil plow down retains about four times the nitrogen lost with surface spreading, plus reduces odor and runoff.



Stop in to see the full line of Calumet vacuum tanks — in capacities from 1180 to 4500 gallons and choice of two vacuum pumps. And ask about the benefits of using a Calumet 2 or 4-shank soil injector.

The Dairy Business

By Newton Bair

PRODUCE OR REPRODUCE?

Let's just say it's the nature of the beast! In order to produce (milk, that is) a cow must reproduce (calves of course). Actually, reproduction comes first, with milk as a by-product. August is a good time to take a look at the number one priority in the dairy business, since it begins the season of establishing a "Base" for next years pricing system.

Just getting cows bred can be of some concern, let alone the hassle or pleasure of selecting the correct mates, but that's a subject for another time. Getting them safe with calf on time is our prime object now, because timing can have a profound influence on next years profits. Your profits will be affected by the time of freshening as well as the interval between calving dates.

How much does calving interval actually influence profits? Each year at our workshops for DHIA members, we go through an exercise to determine the potential loss of income when the herd calving interval exceeds 12 months. It's when the interval stretches beyond the unlucky number (13) that real losses can mount up. And these losses don't show up on the DHIA report — they must be computed from some of your own local date.

The benchmark in figuring breeding effiency is call "days open" — the number of which a cow is not pregnant. If the average "days open" exceeds 90 for the herd, the calving interval shoots beyond the year and things will never be the same again. In addition to fouling up your production base, there will be losses of actual production, as well as added costs for Artificial Insemination (AI), Veterinary fees, calf losses, replacement losses and excess culls.

Just how great are these losses? Using the formula developed by Dexter Putnam, Penn State Dairy Specialist, for the annual DHIA workshops, here are some quick eye-openers.

For example, a 100 cow herd with a 13 month calving interval (120 days open) requiring 2.1 (AI) services per conception will accumulate a production loss of over 500 lb. of milk per cow. With a profit above feed cost of $6 a hundred lbs., or $30 per cow — $3,000 for the herd. Add to this loss these figures:

Added AI cost per day open — .15; Added Veterinary cost per day open - .15; Calf loss per cow per day — (assuming a calf value of $125) — .32; Adding cost of replacements per cow per day — (if replacements cost $1,600 and culls are worth $500) — .91.

To added losses per cow, per day open, amount to $5,156. Plus the above milk loss, the total is a staggering $8,156 per year!

Some of this is of course theoretical, but the exercise points up some often overlooked aspects of what happens to income when you run into breeding problems on a herd basis.

In discussing the economics of reproduction, I haven't attempted to tell how to avoid the problem. Suffice it to say that you now have your hand on your pocketbook and are fully aware that reproduction is the first step in production. As Drew Lewis says, "If the income is less than the outgo, the upshot can be your downfall."

The formula used in the above calculations are available from the Penn State DHIA. I've programmed them for the Apple II, which increases their usefulness tremendously.

Chester PFA reviews gas leases, mushroom imports

WEST CHESTER — "Pennsylvania Farmer's Association has requested the current tarriff on mushroom imports be continued to allow the mushroom industry to adjust to increasing imports", reported Harold Kulp, president of the Chester County Farmer's Association during the Board of Directors' monthly meeting held last week at Highland Orchards. The reported testimony was presented at a hearing held by the International Trade Commission in Washington on July 30, 1981.

Chester County PFA members also heard from fellow member Richard Steele who reported on a recent energy meeting held in Carlisle. Both he and Norman Aamodt attended the session.

"If drilling for gas in a new field in West Virginia is productive, expect to see buyers of gas/oil leases in Chester County," Steele told the group. He explained the geologic formation extends from West Virginia through this county. If gas/oil is found in West Virginia, it is likely that similar pockets could be found here.

Steele advised farmers to form energy groups and to supervise the writing of new leases. Groups of farmers would have more power in negotiating favorable terms with lease purchasers. Steele recommended any farmer contacted by a gas/oil lease buyer, should contact any Farmers' Association director to secure information and guidance for protection.

Ed Taczanowsky, regional field director for PFA suggested "farmers should not accept, nor should they cash any checks for leases without first renegotiating the lease. Only sign a one year lease and be sure that it includes a clause that it will be renegotiated each succeeding year."

Steele advised farmers to make sure the lease contains provisions for disposal of discarded equipment, for roads to be put where farmers want them, for handling waste water, for the royalty to be paid even though the well is a producer and is then capped.

"Be sure that everything is covered in writing in the lease," Steele cautioned.

Kulp announced that the regional legislative up-date meeting will be held on August 27, at 7 p.m. at Denver, Pa. He asked members of the legislative committee to attend. He also said that District 3 (which includes Chester County) will be electing a new director at the State Annual Meeting. Nominations for a candidate from this County should be submitted to Harold Kulp within the next two weeks.

Policy Development meetings will be held: September 8 at David Hodge's, Marshallton; September 10 at Robert Mast's, Christiana; Richard Breckbill's residence, Oxford and Arthur Yocom's, Elverson; and Harold Kulp's on September 24. All Farmer's Association members are urged to attend one of these meetings to express their opinions on Farmer's Association policy.

County policy positions will be voted on by all county members at the fall banquet to be held on October 1 at the Brandywine Club in Chadds Ford. Chairmen of that event are David Hodge and Al Bartels.

Farm-city weekend is scheduled for November 21-22. Byron Hawthorne, chairman for the event, asked that farmers who would make their farms available for city visitors on those dates to contact him at 215/383-5494. He stressed the importance of having farms named early so that brochures could be printed up.

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Talk about feed additives for pigs, and you're likely to strike a nerve.

You get comments like "too costly," "not very effective," "could work their way through the food chain and be harmful to humans."

The truth, though, is that the jury is still out on all of the above.

Swine producers have been using feed additives for 20 or more years. The research that allowed them to get on the market in the first place is often at least that old.

"That's why the FDA (Food and Drug Administration) and HEW (Health, Education and Welfare) are interested in collecting current data on feed additives, especially antibiotics," said Trygve Veum, University of Missouri-Columbia swine researcher.

"We know that feed additives are still effective, economical and safe to use for young, growing pigs.

But, Veum said, the FDA and HEW are interested in collecting additional information on the relationship of antibiotics to human health.

Consumer advocates are concerned that there could be antibiotic residue if proper withdrawal from the swine ration is not followed, said Veum. Current recommendations call for producers to withdraw some antibiotics from swine rations at least two weeks before the animals are slaughtered.

If the residue was carried through the food chain to humans who consume the pork, these people could become highly sensitive to the specific antibiotic in the additive. That sensitivity would be a problem when the person is later prescribed that antibiotic by a medical doctor.

Another concern is that bacteria resistent to these antibiotics might be passed on to pork consumers.

"Antibiotics have been on the market for many years," said Veum, "and it appears that none of these problems have ever occurred."

Still, he and other researchers must maintain a scientific vigilance over feed additives to protect pork producers and consumers.

Best evidence of this vigilance is a North Central Regional Project to test the additive chlortetracycline.

"HEW wants new data to substantiate the use of this additive in swine rations," said Veum.

"As part of the test, they'll tie up two Missouri swine operations for two years in controlled experiments."

In other research trials, Veum and George Siwecki, UMC animal scientist, are looking at the biochemical action of the additive carbadox. The additive is designed to increase swine growth and feed efficiency in pigs weighing up to 75-80 pounds.

"We know the additive increases growth by increasing muscle, but we're not sure how it does it," Veum said.

"We want to see if the additives improve energy utilization in low-energy diets. So far, results show that we get a slight improvement in growth regardless of the diet," Veum said.

With all of these experiments, Veum said, "the bottom line is to determine how they work so farmers can produce lower cost, lean, nutritious pork for consumers."

USDA clarifies grain regs

WASHINGTON, D C. — The U.S. Department of Agriculture has clarified its regulations dealing with the designation of official agencies to inspect and weigh grain.

Kenneth A. Gilles, administrator of USDA's Federal Grain Inspection Service, said the action spells out procedures to be followed when the designation of an official agency ends and the agency asks to be redesignated.

Under the U.S. Grain Standards Act, the grain inspection agency may designate official agencies to perform inspection and weighing services where needed.

Written comments, in two copies, should be submitted no later than September 25 to Lewis Lebakken, Jr., Director, Issuance and Coordination Staff, Room 1127, Auditors Building, 1400 Independence Ave., S.W., Federal Grain Inspection Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Wash., D.C. 20250.

Jacktown Fair attracts more than 200 entries

JACKTOWN — More than 200 head of livestock were shown at Greene County's 115th Annual Jacktown Fair.

The five-day event held during the last week in July, featured for the first time a Limousin class in the Beef division.

Carl Burns, Graysville, cornered the Limousin division by exhibiting animals that swept all the top honors. His entries were named Junior, Senior and Grand Champion Bull as well as Junior, Senior and Grand Champion Female.

Donald Witt, a former 4-H'er from Champion judged the livestock while Lyle Carter, Washington, a retired Extension agent, placed the dairy classes.

The results of the Jacktown Fair champions follow:

USDA orders Kaphra beetle fumigation

NEW YORK, N.Y. — U.S. Department of Agriculture officials have ordered the mandatory fumigation of certain imported commodities which can harbor khapra beetle — the world's most destructive pest of stored grains and cereal products.

Fumigation is now required as a condition of entry into the United States for:

—brassware and wooden screens from Bombay, India;

—whole chilis and whole red peppers in jute or burlap bags from Pakistan;

—goatskins, lambskins or sheepskins, excluding those which have been tanned, blue-chromed, pickled in mineral acid or salted, from the Sudan or India; and —used burlap and jute bagging not containing cargo from Afghanistan, Algeria, Bangladesh, Burma, Cyprus, Egypt, India, Iraq, Iran, Israel, Mali, Mauritania, Morocco, Niger, Nigeria, Pakistan, Senegal, Sri Lanka, the Sudan, Tunisia, Turkey and Upper Volta.

"This emergency measure is necessary to prevent the further introduction of khapra beetles into the United States," said H. L. Ford, deputy administrator of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service. "It appears that recent khapra beetle infestations resulted from the importation of certain articles from countries where the pest occurs."

A total of 19 khapra beetle infestations nationwide have been treated or are scheduled for treatment at non-agricultural businesses where they were detected by USDA inspectors. The latest infestation, which has been fumigated, was discovered at two U.S. Army warehouses in Bayonne, N.J. where the military formerly processed furniture shipped from the Far East.

"This rule will not cause major increases in costs or prices to consumers or industry or to federal, state or local governments," Ford said. "All arrangements for khapra beetle treatments must be made by the importer, and all costs related to treatments are the responsibility of the importer."

A public hearing on the regulations will be held Wednesday, September 2 at 10 a.m., in Room 643-A (APHIS Conference Room), Federal Building, 6505 Belcrest Road, Hyattsville, Md.

Written comments may be sent, until September 25, to: Regulatory Support Staff, USDA-APHIS-PPQ, Room 635, Federal Building, 6505 Belcrest Rd., Hyattsville, Md. 20782. Comments received will be available for public examination in Hyattsville, Md., during regular business hours.

Lebanon Fair posts rabbit results

LEBANON — The rabbits came 'hopping' into the Lebanon County Fairgrounds Sunday for the annual show, held in conjunction with the Lebanon Area Fair.

Actually, their owners carried the furry creatures into the rabbit barn — their precious cargos secure inside cardboard boxes, or carrying cages.

Change in nutrition helps move a 20,000-lb. herd up in milk production

Although their 60-cow herd of registered Holsteins was producing over 20,000 lbs. of milk in 1979, Loren and Dianna Englebrecht wondered if the cows were really reaching their true production potential.

So in October of 1979 they went on a complete Triple "F" nutritional program. At that time the herd was at 20,163 lbs. of milk and 712 lbs. of butterfat. In January of 1979, they went to 3-times-a-day milking

No. 1 in Milk in Iowa

By May of 1980, production was up to 22,060 lbs of milk and 742 lbs. of butterfat That was enough to make the herd No. 1 in Iowa in milk production of all herds on DHIA or DHIR test It was, in fact, the highest DHIA record ever achieved in Iowa

"What we really like is the improvement in income over feed cost," says Mrs. Englebrecht "That's up to $1,498 per cow and our goal is to see if we can push it over $2,000."

Good management and dedication certainly play a part in the success story of this Waterloo couple. Both grew up in the dairy business and got started on their own in 1975 with four bred heifers they bought in Pennsylvania and two cows that were daughters of a top producing cow owned by Dianna's father

Dianna and Loren Englebrecht

Part of the Englebrecht herd

By the time they got to their first rolling herd average in 1976, their herd totaled 15 cows and was at 15,988 lbs of milk and 570 lbs of butterfat They've brought the herd on up in size and production ever since

'You Really Get Excited'

The Englebrechts use the full range of Triple "F" dairy products, including Heat Treated Protein (HTP), Base Mixes and Minerals

"When you see the improvement this nutritional program brought within just a few months, you really get excited about the future," says Englebrecht

WHAT ABOUT YOUR HERD?

Triple "F" nutrition can be working to increase your dairy production, too. Our ration calculator and computer services can show you how to get maximum production from your herd and feedstuffs.

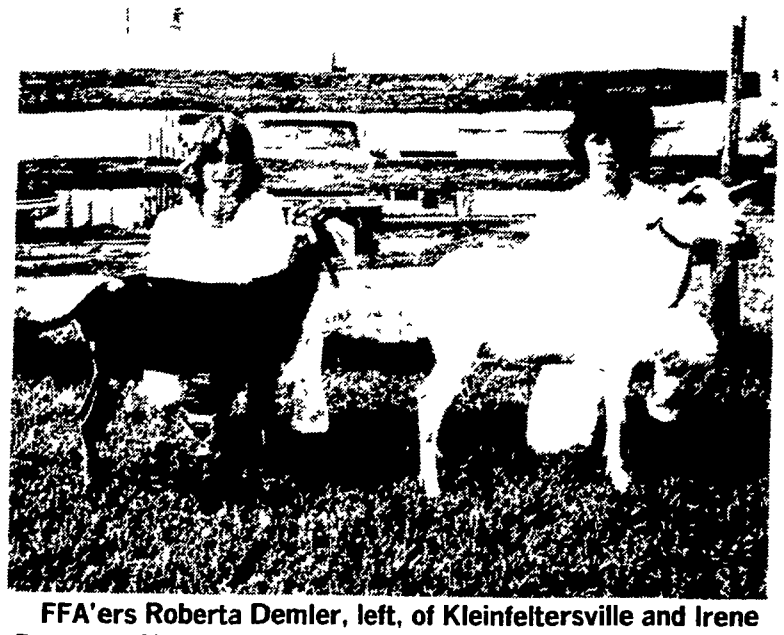
Spitler sweeps Lebanon goat show

Fifteen-year-old Tammy Spitler of Newmanstown exhibited her chocolate brown La Mancha milking doe to the grand championship during Mondays' Lebanon Fair competition. Spitler also was awarded the championships in both 4-H fitting and showmanship by Judge Dana Holder, Fairfield.



FFA'ers Roberta Demler, left, of Kleinfeltersville and Irene Brown of Newmanstown earned the championship trophies for fitting and showmanship, respectively. Their entries were also the champions in breed.

BY SHEILA MILLER

LEBANON — Tammy Spitler, the 15-year-old daughter of Tom and Pat Spitler of R1 Newmanstown, exhibited her 2½ year old milking LaMancha doe to the grand championship during Monday's Lebanon County Goat Show, held here at the fairgrounds.

Tammy and partner, 'Lil Miss', not only took the grand championship of the show, but also claimed the championship honors in both 4-H fitting and showmanship competition.

Showing the reserve grand champion was Randy Blouch of Bethel. Randy's champion was the first place Alpine milking doe, 'April.'

This was Randy's first reserve championship at the Lebanon Fair. He is the 15-year-old son of Lee and Barbara Blouch. Along with his prize-winning 3-year-old doe, Randy owns two more Alpine kids — April's twins.

In the 4-H showmanship and fitting contest, Judge Dana Holder of Fairfield, Adams County, awarded the reserve champion's trophy to senior 4-H'er Brian Blouch, the 16-year-older brother of Randy. Brian's entry was the champion Saaned, 'Snowqueen.'

The reserve champion 4-H fitting trophy was awarded to a junior exhibitor, Dawn Spitler, the 13-year-old sister of Tammy. Her washing and clipping efforts, executed on 5-month-old Foxy Lady, a LaMancha kid, helped her follow in her big sister's footsteps.

In the FFA showmanship and fitting competition, Roberta Demler of Kleinfeltersville was awarded the champion fitter's trophy. Roberta is the 15-year-old daughter of Lewis and Mary Demler and a sophomore at Elco. She showed her champion Nubian kid, 'Titania Emily.'

The FFA champion showman trophy went to Irene Brown, the 18-year-old daughter of Helen and Clyde Brown, R1 Newmanstown. Irene exhibited the champion Recorded Grade.

Show results are:

West coast attracts Brown Swiss breeders

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — The Brown Swiss Cattle Breeders' Association held their 101st National Annual Meeting July 15-18 at the Sacramento Inn, Sacramento, California.

Brown Swiss breeders and friends came from 24 states across the country and Mexico. The 230 guests began their convention activities with a reception hosted by the California Association on Wednesday evening. The National Swiss Miss contest was also held Wednesday evening and had seven contestants. Chosen as the 1981 Swiss Miss was Rebecca Long of Thurmont, Maryland.

Thursday morning offered a variety of choices for those in attendance. Three seminars throughout the morning covered Component Pricing, Herd Health, focusing on mastitis and calfhood diseases, and Reproduction Management.

During the National Annual Meeting, Roger Neitzel, Superintendent of Records presented the National Production Awards.

Century Acres Liz C 619223 the breed's World Milk and Fat Champion took all of the individual awards with her 5 year 4 month 305 day record of 33,680 pounds milk, 1,471 pounds fat and 1,250 pounds protein. Owned by William Faskell, New London, Wis., she received the 1980 H.R. Searles Trophy for fat, J.P. Eves Trophy for milk and the Protein Award. The awards all go to the cow with the highest 305 day ME record made during the year.

Each year Ira Inman Awards are presented to the high PTPR herd in three herd size divisions. The National Association's PTPR Program is a performance program combining Production and Type. This past year 14,634 cows in 364 herds were entered in the program.

Group I Winner (5-39 cows) was Ken Eiting of Minster, Ohio. Group II (40-99 cows) herds were topped by West Lawn Farm, Sarona, Wis. In the Group III Division (100 cows and over), winner for the fourth year in a row was Vincent Braddock, Dimmitt, Texas.

Brian Garrison, West Salem, Ohio, the National Youth Achievement Winner, and Viking Valley TJ Senatora 602299, the Youth Production Winner owned by Duron Bratland Spring Grove, Minnesota were also honored.

Friday night's poolside barbecue was followed by the National Heifer Sale held in the ballroom of the Sacramento Inn. The 26 heifers sold averaged $2431. A portion of the selling price of each heifer is donated to the National Youth Fund and supports many of the National Youth activities. Top selling heifer was Venture's Elegants Darcie 673712 consigned by Venture West, Inc., Holyoke, Colorado. She was purchased by Earnest St. John, Glendale, Arizona for $6200.

A novelty of the sale was the auction of a Brown Swiss quilt made by Mrs. Elmer Zook, Ephrata, Pennylvania. At $700, Earnest St. John was the high bidder.

The week's activities concluded with the National Sale on Saturday in the ballroom at the Sacramento Inn. The 42 head sold averaged $4138.

Top Acres Barmary 678891 topped the sale at $13,400. The bred heifer was consigned by Wayne E. Sliker, St. Paris, Ohio and was purchased by Edwin Genasci, Modesto, California.

Second high animal was the open heifer, Norvic BK Tara 677382. Selling for $11,600 to M. M. Crawford, Stephenville, Texas, she was consigned by Norvic Farms, Lake Mills, Wisconsin.

Swiss breeders name officer

George W. Opperman has accepted the position of Secretary-Treasurer of the National Brown Swiss Cattle Breeders' Association headquartered at Beloit, Wisconsin. The announcement was made by William J. Notter, Jr., Holyoke, Colorado, President of the Association.

George, a 58 year old Manning, Iowa dairyman, has long been involved in Brown Swiss and dairy activities. He is a former national director and president of the Brown Swiss Association. During his time as president, the very successful Identity Enrollment Program was initiated. It was the first program adopted by any of the dairy registry associations to bring previously unregistered animals into the Herdbook. It has involved some 25,000 cows to date.

George is a 1947 graduate of Iowa State University with a BS degree in dairy science and a minor in journalism. For three years after graduation from college he served as editor of the Brown Swiss Bulletin. He was an active breeder of registered Brown Swiss from 1950 until the dispersal of his herd in 1977. The herd was on continuous official test, classified for type and representatives of the herd were exhibited at many state and national shows.

In 1968 George was the third man to receive the prestigious Keeling Leadership award presented annually to an Iowa dairyman for outstanding leadership in the state and nation. He served as a director and second vice president of Midwest Breeders Coop; director and member of the executive committee of Midland UDIA and president of the Iowa State Dairy Association and Iowa PDCA.

George and his wife have a family of 6 children. They plan to relocate in Beloit and George will assume his responsibilities as Secretary-Treasurer in mid-August.

MF Massey Ferguson

Six new MF Compact Tractors with more uses than you can imagine

MF Massey Ferguson

Choose a 20, 25 or 31 horsepower diesel with 2 or 4-wheel drive

When it comes to the number of ways you can use an MF Compact Tractor, just let your imagination go

The peppy 20 hp* MF 205, 25 hp* MF 210 and the 31 hp* MF 220 are just right for performing any number of chores They're ideal for use around farms, acreages, landscaping services, nurseries, construction sites and many other places.

And if what you have in mind requires a compact tractor with lots of lugging ability, there's the 4-wheel drive versions of these tractors — the MF 205-4, 210-4 and 220-4

There are six great models in all, and every one of them is designed to save you hours of labor With big tractor features like 3-point hitch, PTO and rugged 2-cylinder diesel engines, you can operate a wide variety of attachments that fit these little workhorses perfectly.

Mow, rake, till, plow, plant, clear snow .or add the new MF 216 Quick Attach Loader for a multitude of other jobs. All six tractors have the power and speed ranges you need to get the job done efficiently.

Adjustable tread width

Their size makes them able to squeeze into tight spots where conventional tractors would never fit Wheel tread widths adjust to fit the job at hand. All models are easy steering, highly maneuverable and built to take punishment

And you don't sacrifice operator comfort with one of these do-it-all performers. They're loaded with features that make them comfortable to ride and easy to service.

If you think your operation could use a rugged, efficient tractor in this horsepower range, then see your Massey Ferguson dealer and take a look at these machines You'll discover they can do a lot more than you ever imagined.

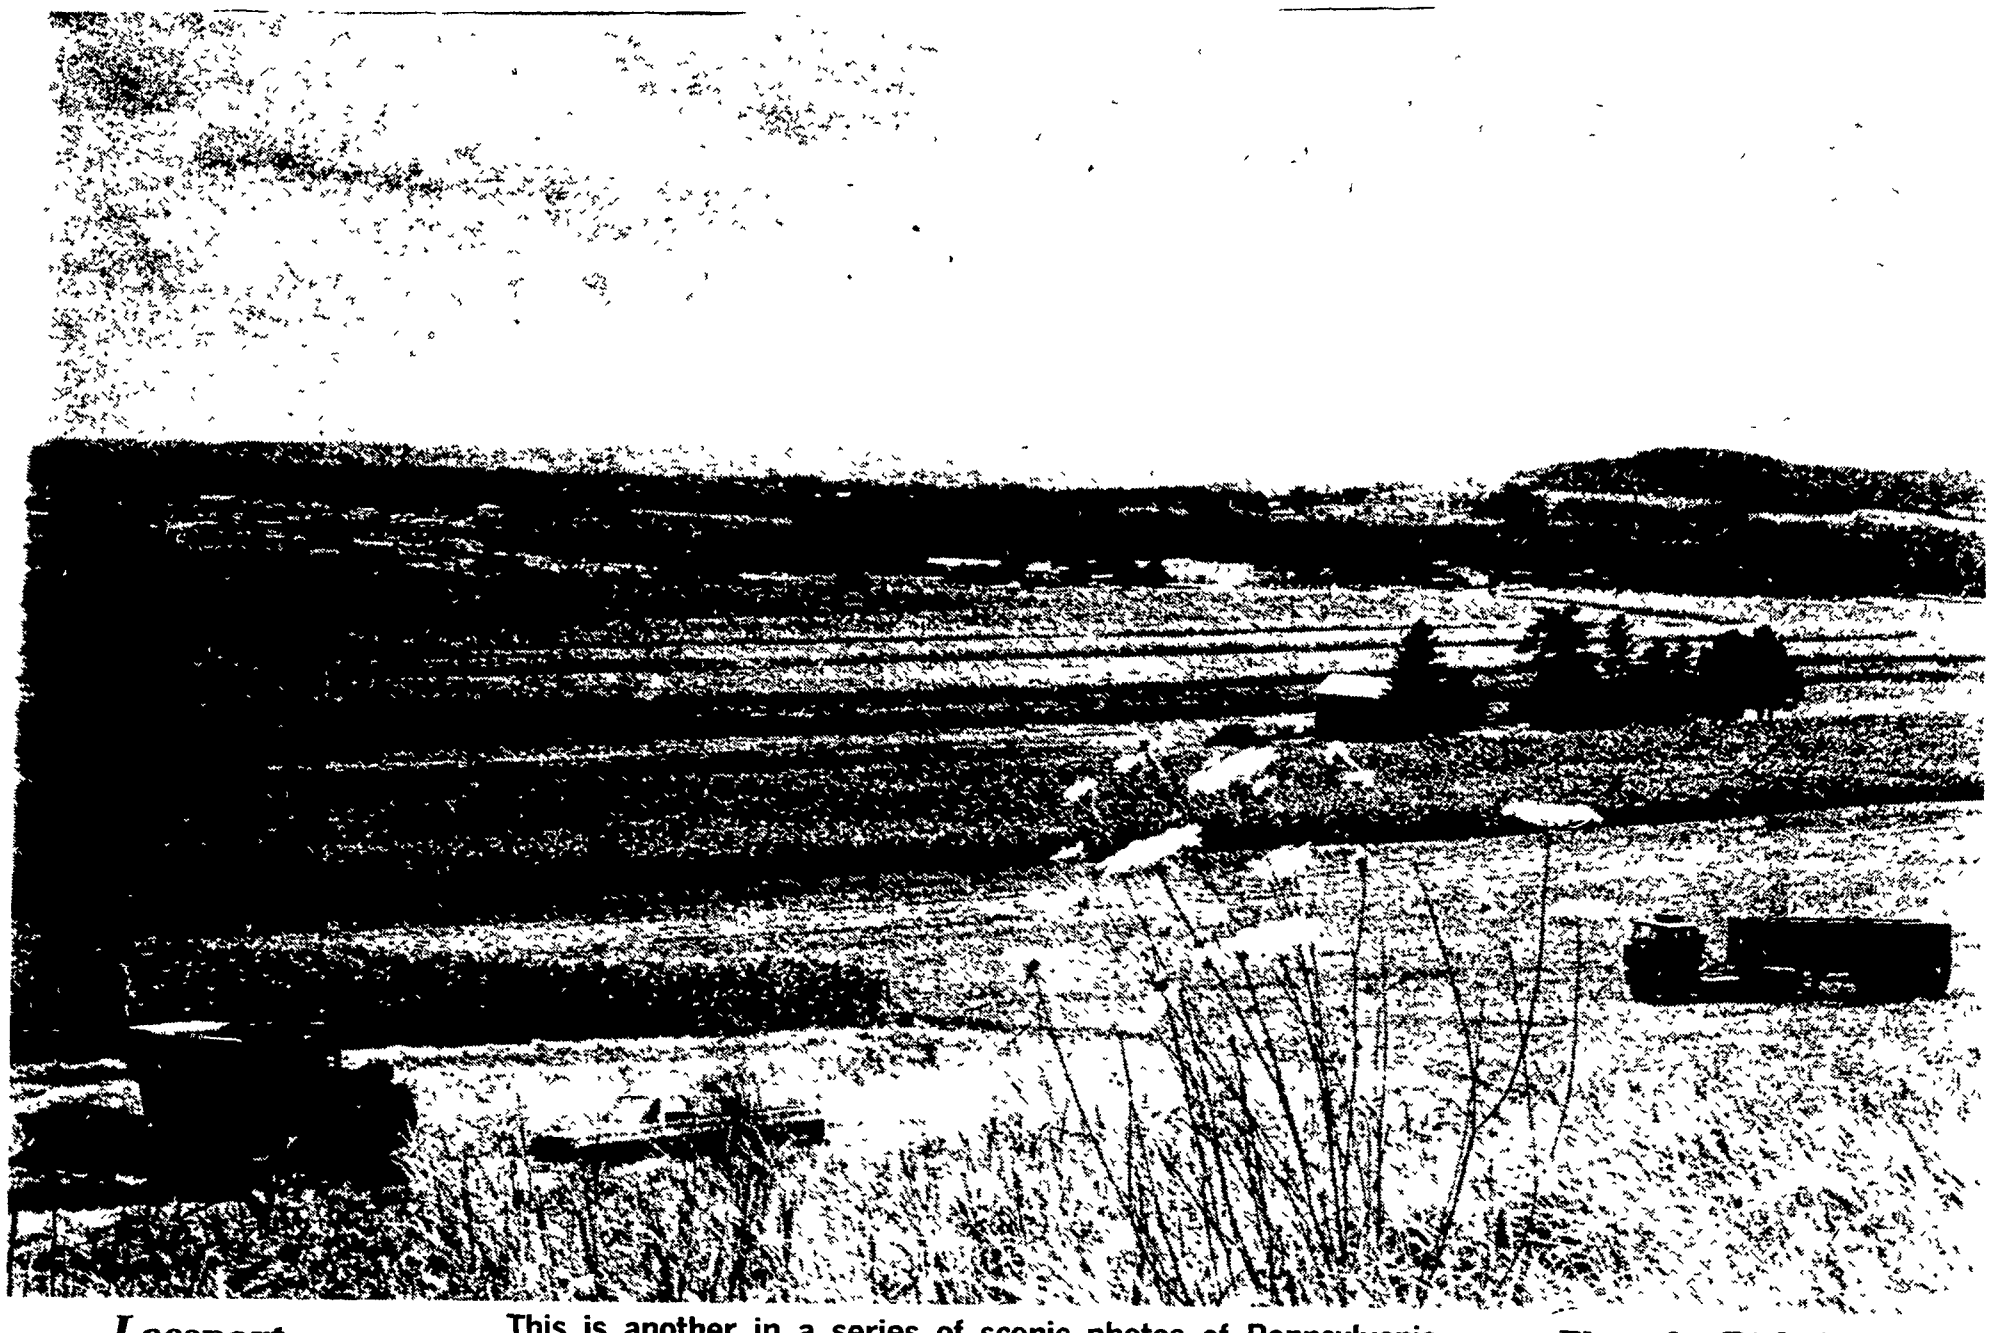
Farmland Preservation ~ It's worth it



Leesport, Berks County

This is another in a series of scenic photos of Pennsylvania farmland, as it appears today. And hopefully, as it will continue to appear tomorrow and beyond.

- Photo by Dick Anglestein

Tell us about your favorite scenic farmland spot

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

LANCASTER — Do you have a favorite scenic farmland spot?

Perhaps, it's on your farm, a neighbor's or a spot you pass on the way to town.

If you know of such a spot, let us know about it.

We'd like to include it in our "Farmland Preservation" photo series

Just drop us a letter or postcard, giving the location and brief directions on how to find it.

Send the information to:

P.O. Box 366
Lititz, Pa. 17543

Lancaster Farming photographers travel far and wide and the next time we're in the area, we'll photograph the scene.

Of course, that might be tomorrow, next week or next month. We don't know for sure. But let us know and we'll try to work it into our news and photo coverage schedule as quickly as we can.

Also, if you're a photo bug, we'd be glad to consider running a photo you've taken. Just send it to us and we'll return it later. Preferably, it should be a black and white photo, at least of 5X7 size.

Remember, we're primarily interested in the land itself – not necessarily people and livestock. Photos similar to those you've been seeing in the series.

We're trying to show representative photos from many sections of the widespread Lancaster Farming circulation area showing this greatest of natural resources – our productive agricultural land.

We're showing this land as it appears today.

And hopefully, as the caption says, as it will continue to appear tomorrow and beyond.

The photos are a weekly reminder of what we have.

And a weekly reminder of what must be preserved so that we have it tomorrow, too.

So get in touch with us and become a part of this effort so that future generations don't have to page through old issues of Lancaster Farming to see how farmland once looked.

HYDRAULIC AERIAL EQUIPMENT

Conservation highlights Ag Progress Days

HARRISBURG — For the past several years, visitors at Ag Progress Days have watched a variety of conservation practices built on the Conservation Research Demonstration Area. For the most part, the bulldozers and other heavy equipment will be quiet this year, reports Frederick Bubb, conservation area chairman.

Instead of watching construction, farmers and others will be able to evaluate the effectiveness of the practices. Buses will carry visitors around the conservation area as in previous years.

Farmland soil and water saving practices such as diversions, waterways, and tile outlet terraces can be viewed in use with crops such as corn, small grain and hay. Surface water control methods such as stormwater retarding ponds, drop structures and erosion filter net can be used on both farm and urban sites.

Wildlife management such as tree and shrub plantings and cutback borders will show the value of birds in insect control and environmental improvement.

The roar of chain saws and tractors will come from the woods as the Pennsylvania Bureau of Forestry and Penn State Forestry Extension personnel continue the woodland harvesting and management demonstrations. Visitors will learn not only how to manage a woodlot but the best trees to cut for firewood. Safety in the woods will be another important feature.

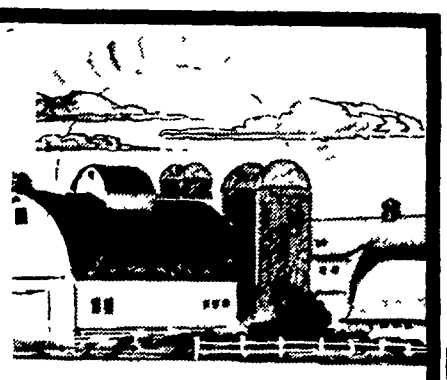
Tillage and mulching also will be a part of the conservation area demonstrations. Conservation Area Chairman Bubb promised a different and interesting tour. "This year we'll have the people on the bus who helped install the practices. They'll be ready for questions."

The conservation research-demonstration area was developed through the cooperative efforts of Penn State, the USDA Soil Conservation Service, Pennsylvania Game Commission, and Pennsylvania Bureau of Forestry.

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service provided financial cost sharing for the conservation practices. The practices were built by members of the Pennsylvania Land Improvement Contractors Association. Equipment and materials were donated by many Pennsylvania agricultural businesses and groups.

According to Bubb, "There are a lot of people interested in conservation of our natural resources and this area is proof."

Have You Purchased Your SILAGE and HIGH MOISTURE CORN ADDITIVES or PRESERVATIVES For The coming Season?



With the large selection of products available to you today, deciding which way to turn brings important questions to be answered...

? ? The Questions ? ?

1 WHAT AM I GOING TO USE ON MY SILAGE THIS YEAR?
A An Enzyme Based Product?
B A Yeast Preparation?
C A Urea Product?
D A Molasses Based Product?
E A Cultured Additive?

2 WHAT WILL TOTAL COST OF THE PREPARATION BE?
A Cost Per Ton!
B Coverage Per Ton!
C Total Return Vs Dollar Investment!

3 HOW WILL I APPLY THE PRODUCT I CHOOSE?
A Easy Application!
B Requires Special Aplicator!
C Must Be Applied By Hand!

Now Let us give you answers to the above questions in relationship to our product ALFA-ZYME!

!! The Answers !!

1 ALFA ZYME is a fermented enzyme product injected onto a fine grade alfalfa (a top grade carrier of enzymes) We have the ORIGINAL ENZYMES PRODUCT!

2 The COST of ALFA ZYME Vs return for your dollar is fantastic While other products use minimal lbs per ton ALFA ZYME requires 50 Lbs for every 3 tons of silage or high moisture corn A 120 ton silo takes 40 bags or 1 tone of ALFA ZYME

3 We realize we might not have the easiest product to apply but after application we have that 'SOME THING SPECIAL" that makes better silage and corn! (No, we don't have an 'easy applicator" but then again if your results are not satisfactory with easily applied" products, all you end up with is a useless "easy applicator!")

We hope the above information has captured your attention Now we have a few questions of our own

1 Do you realize the product you choose will determine the outcome of your silage up to the next filling season? You can change your feeding program often, but the product you apply to your silage or corn must work the coming winter, spring and summer months!

2 Have you already purchased a product because of an early discount or "special deal"? If so, try this test fill ½ your silo with the other product and then add ALFA-ZYME to the remainder Make 1981 the year you make the test!

IN SUMMARY ..

Making BETTER SILAGE and HIGHER MOISTURE CORN is our main business. And, ALFA-ZYME has been proven on farms like yours in PA, MD, VA, and W. VA

NOW...THE FINAL QUESTION!...
Where can I purchase ALFA-ZYME?...Ask your feed dealer, farm store operator, call or write:

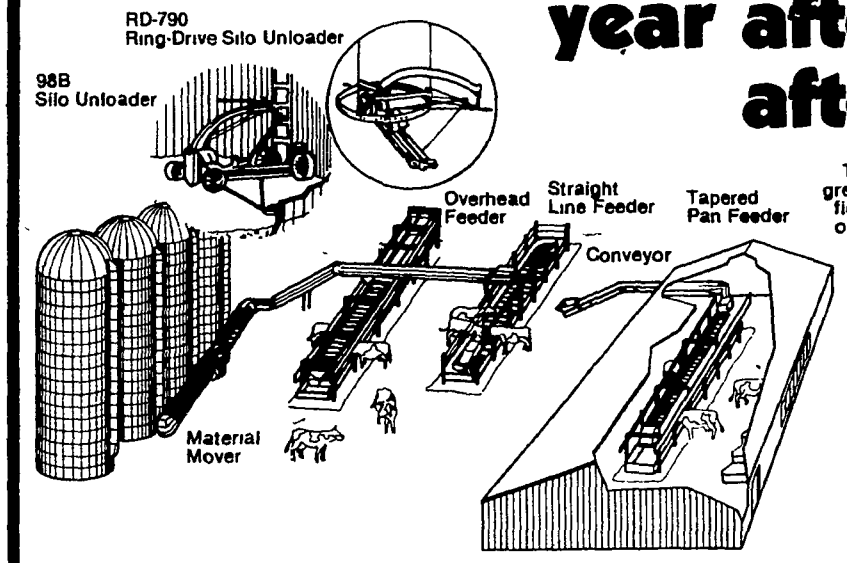
WE'RE GROWING BETTER

Patz builds feed handling systems you can depend on year after year after year



That's because Patz spends a great deal of time in design and field testing, to make sure that our equipment will stand up to your requirements

Whether you need a large or small feed handling system, a silo unloader, a conveyor, or feeder ...

Year after year, you can depend on

Patz

USDA proposes changes in mechanically processed meats

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Department of Agriculture has proposed changing composition, labeling and use requirements for mechanically processed meat product to expand market acceptance, according to C.W. McMillan, assistant secretary for marketing and transportation services.

"Mechanically processed meat product is apparently not now being used in meat products sold at retail," McMillan said. "This means that a source of wholesome food, made possible by expanding technology, is untapped. Furthermore, productivity is being lost because specialized machinery is not being used.

"We hope requirements can be changed to make it easier for processors to market the product, while continuing to assure that finished items containing it as an ingredient are safe, wholesome and accurately labeled," McMillan said.

Mechanically processed meat product is produced from red meat animals such as cattle and hogs. Beef or pork carcasses or parts are hand-trimmed of meat before being broken up and pushed under high pressure through specialized equipment with pinpoint openings. The openings allow meat, along with a small amount of finely powdered bone, to pass through. The product, which has a spread-like consistency, can be used in many finished meat products, such as cooked sausages.

The proposal includes these provisions:

—Current limits on bone particle size, bone content and protein quality would be retained, as would requirements for handling controls and USDA-approved quality control systems. The proposal would clarify that calcium is a measure of bone content.

—The name of the product, currently "Mechanically Processed (Species) Product, would be changed. Example: "Mechanically Processed Beef Product." Names under consideration include "Mechanically Processed (Species)," "Mechanically Separated (Species)," "Mechanically Deboned (Species)" and "Mechanically Recovered (Species)." Example: "Mechanically Recovered Beef."

—The new product name would be listed in the statement of ingredients for products in which it is an ingredient, but not next to the product name on all finished products, as now required.

—The labels of certain finished products containing the mechanically processed product as an ingredient would be required to declare their calcium content. This provision would replace the current requirement that the names of all finished products be qualified with a statement of their powdered bone content.

—The first category would have to satisfy current limits on fat and protein (minimum of 14 percent protein and maximum of 30 percent fat). However, it could be used in greater amounts than now permitted provided calcium was significantly reduced. Thus, finished products would contain no more bone than they do now.

—The second category of product would not have to meet any requirements for fat or protein content, and could be used in products — such as certain types of sausages — in which total fat content is limited by existing regulations. Thus, the fat content of finished products would not be increased by use of the mechanically processed product.

—The product still could not be used in certain products in deference to special dietary considerations and to protect product quality. For example, as a precaution, USDA does not allow the product to be used in baby foods to avoid adding fluoride to infant diets.

Before the current requirements went into effect in 1978, an expert panel of government scientists reviewed the product and concluded it could be used safely if properly regulated.

The issue was one of several targeted for review in early 1981 in an effort to reduce unnecessarily burdensome regulations. However, McMillan said USDA began to review mechanical processing requirements earlier in response to industry contentions that existing requirements have prevented production and marketing of the product, which industry refers to as "mechanically deboned meat."

Most recently this position was taken in a petition submitted to USDA by the American Meat Institute and the Pacific Coast Meat Association. It describes the current labeling requirements as misleading and the compositional requirements as unreasonable.

The proposal was scheduled to appear in the July 31 Federal Register, found in many local public libraries. Comments will be accepted for 90 days, until October 29.

Dog training season reopens

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania's sportsmen are reminded by the Game Commission dog training season reopened in the state on August 1. The season has been closed since March 31.

Dogs may be trained at any time, day or night, from August 1 through March 31.

To train dogs legally on Sunday, the consent of the owner of the property where such training is planned must first be obtained, except in the case of state-owned and national forest lands.

Handlers are reminded that the carrying of a rifle or shotgun while training dogs is prohibited.

The Game Commission urges dog owners to show the same courtesies that apply during hunting seasons, such as asking permission from landowners to train dogs on their properties.

In fact, dog handlers who demonstrate their competence and act in a responsible manner are often welcomed back by private landowners during the regular hunting seasons.

Dog trainers are urged by the Game Commission not to overextend themselves or their animals during the early part of the training season.

Both canines and hunters are generally out of shape at this time of year. Few have spent much time in the field during recent months, and muscle tone is lost and extra pounds are often added during extended loafing periods.

Heat, soft muscles and excess weight usually take their toll on both sportsmen and dogs over-exerting themselves at the outset of a training season.

The Game Commission recommends there be a period of gradual conditioning, especially during hot weather, for both hunters and dogs.

Small game hunters with dogs have a decided edge over those who depend strictly on their own ability to flush wildlife during the fall hunting seasons. A well-trained dog with a sharp nose will locate much more game than a person tramping and kicking through good cover.

And if the hunter knows in advance the location of game before it moves, he or she has a much better chance of scoring.

PGC asks help of furtakers, 'coon hunters

HARRISBURG — Additional furtaker cooperators are needed in a study of furbearers in Pennsylvania.

A project initiated two years ago to learn more about the state's fur resources is beginning to yield some data, but more information is being sought from those who take furbearers.

Trappers and raccoon hunters who maintain diaries of their activities are needed throughout the state. Information on the number of traps set, hours hunted and animals harvested is of special importance.

Approximately 200 trappers and raccoon hunters volunteered to maintain diaries during the first season of the study. But more information is needed to provide a base for proper management of furbearer populations.

Anyone interested in cooperating in a study should send a card with his or her name and address to Arnold Hayden, Wildlife Biologist, Division of Game Management, Pa. Game Commission, P.O. Box 1567, Harrisburg, PA 17120.

70 HEAD SELLING

Carefully Selected To Sell Most Advantageously For Fall Milk & Soundness
Almost 50 Head Fresh Or
To Calve Between July 1 & Dec 15

40 REGISTERED AND 30 IDENTIFIED GRADES

HER VG - 86 4-Yr Dtr Sells

URIE LYN HAGEN MARIA (VG 85)
A tremendous high test dtr of Hagen up to 4 6% Her VG 86 dtr by a plus proven Astronaut son is making over 18 000m at 4y and sells bred to Grand Fortune

Cattle Selling Include:

★ Fancy, deep-ribbed Colonel milking in the 60s as a 2-yr-old from a 25,000-lb. dam.

★ GP-83 at 2y Zee dtr sure to be VG next time. Fresh 5-24 with her 2nd calf and milking 65 lbs /day.

★ GP-83 cow by an Elevation son. Another easy potential VG, she has +1400 ETA and is from a 24,000-lb. dam. Contract potential.

★ GP-82 cow making over 20,000m from a VG 20,000-lb. dam.

Sale Manager's Note: Due to a shortage of help the Atwoods have decided to sell most of the milking herd and a few choice bred heifers. Together we picked 70 head from about 100 cows and heifers that are right from the top of the herd. Any blemished or problem cows are not selling — only the best. This herd is extremely good uddered with excellent feet & legs. They are not pushed for high production, although several cows selling have records over 18,000m. Milking herd consists mostly of 1st, 2nd, and 3rd calf animals. This sale offers a unique opportunity to buy fall milk, from good, honest, sound cattle at farmer-breeder prices. Plan to be on hand sale day — you'll be glad you did.

GPR™ from Kleen Leen®

The Problem...

Successful hog producers agree that selecting the right boar is a matter of having the right information about the hogs they're picking from.

But genetic potential isn't something that can be seen. So, hog producers have relied on whatever performance data was available to help them make the right selection.

Unfortunately, performance data including only days to 220 lbs. and feed efficiency can be influenced by weather, facilities, and other environmental factors. A boar that performs well under ideal conditions may acutally possess only mediocre genetic potential and not perform up to expectations in a different environment.

As a result, hog producers have had to trust their instincts and leave the rest to chance.

The Solution...

Kleen Leen has recognized the need to improve the way boars are rated and sold and now responds with Genetic Potential Rating (GPR™). It's an all new testing procedure that tells you the true genetic potential of Checker™ Boars before you buy.

Under the GPR system, all Checker Boars are now rated in GPR points. GPR scores are determined by important performance traits that directly affect your hog income.

Because the GPR system eliminates the influence of weather and other environmental factors on the breeding farm, measurement of days to 220 lbs., feed efficiency and backfat become reliable indicators of real genetic potential for the first time.

In addition to GPR measurements of these performance traits, all Checker Boars must meet rigid Kleen Leen standards regarding conformation, prolific breeding ability and soundness.

The accuracy of the GPR system lets you calculate a close estimate of the return you can expect from investing in a Checker Boar. This allows you to make more intelligent management decisions.

Only 1 out of 3 boars qualifies to become a Checker™ Boar

Under other testing programs, environmental factors such as weather could let undeserving boars pass acceptable performance standards That won't happen under the GPR system because Kleen Leen boars are rated against each other

Regardless of environmental conditions at the breeding farm, only about the top 33% become Checker Boars That's how Kleen Leen protects you against getting a fair weather boar.

When boars reach about three months of age at the Kleen Leen breeding farm, they are evaluated for quality, soundness and growth rate Never more than the top 50 out of every 100 boars evaluated are approved for GPR testing

The approved boars are taken off test when reaching around 220 lbs Their GPR performance scores are computed at that time Any boar with a GPR score below 80 is automatically disqualified This usually eliminates about 10 more boars.

Finally, the remaining boars are checked for quality and soundness a second time and another 7 are disqualified

Out of the original 100 boars, only about 33 measure up to become Checker Boars Their GPR scores range from 80 to 140

Pick the perfect Checker™ Boar for your herd

Your Purina dealer now offers 7 different breeds and 7 different GPR performance levels within each breed That's a total of 49 different Checker Boars to choose from Pick the breed and performance level for your herd.

Kleen Leen breeds include Blackline (Duroc X-Hamp) Whiteline (Duroc X York) M-Line (York X Landrace), Hampshire, Duroc, Yorkshire, and Landrace

The Graduating Class of Checker™ Boars

How many Checker Boars earn how many GPR points? GPR performance standings resemble class standings Here are the approximate percentages within each GPR category.

- 140 GPR - points and above — in the top 2% of their class
- 130 GPR - points and above — in the top 5% of their class
- 120 GPR - points and above — in the top 9% of their class
- 110 GPR - points and above — in the top 15% of their class
- 100 GPR - points and above — in the top 21% of their class
- 90 GPR - points and above — in the top 28% of their class
- 80 GPR - points and above — in the top 33% of their class
